Today

Joyous Europe, Foolish U. S.
Peiping Gives Up.
Voting on Repeal.
W. B. Leeds Wires.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

JOYOUS NEWS from Europe, with our old fond Uncle Sam the "goat," if a current expression may be permitted.

London is delighted because the foolish United States agrees to enter any "consultations" about any fights starting between nations of Europe.

And Paris is much "gratified" because the United States agrees to make itself a party to future quarrels with which it should have absolutely nothing to do.

Our league representative, Mr. Davis, appears as happy as little Alice in Wonderland, and twice as innocent.

THE UNITED STATES later could repudiate all this nonsense, saying to Europe:

"Imitating your methods, we inform you with regret that our pledges do not mean anything."

But how much better it would have been, now, at the start, to say to Europe:

"Settle your own affairs, make up your minds to murder or not murder each other, but please understand that you will do your own fighting, without help from the United States, and pay your own bills, without the pleasure of welching on ten billion dollars of debts to the United States. You can't have that pleasure twice."

PEIPING REPORTS that the Chinese have given up the big city to the Japanese, entering into a truce that enables Japan's army to take possession when it pleases. Japan, always polite between fights, will probably "save the face" of China by not marching in officially.

THE CHINESE know better than anybody what the next war will be. They have had samples of it. It is interesting to read of Chinese soldiers, ill-prepared, lacking equipment, digging traps for Japanese "tanks."

This takes you back a long time to your early ancestors, that dug pits for the mammoth, covering the tops of the pits deceptively, inviting or urging the monster to break through.

THE STATE of New York yesterday voted on repeal or a non-repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. You will learn about the vote today. Mr. Farley, Postmaster General, predicted a vote of 20 to 1 in New York City and 10 to 1 throughout the state for repeal. John F. Curry, head of Tammany Hall, whose vote was "No. 1" in his voting district, predicted a landslide against prohibition.

There never has been any doubt about New York's vote, but there was and is considerable doubt about the vote in other parts of the country.

The Eighteenth Amendment may survive like a tall rock in an ocean of beer, with the bootleg industry safe on the rock.

MR. WILLIAM B. LEEDS, an adventurous young man, who has travelled thousands of miles in airships of all types, including dirigibles, sends a telegram protesting against "the Navy's asinine policy of training at great cost highly efficient officers who can fly airships properly, only to send them to sea on floating ships."

Mr. Leeds says:

"It is very unfair to permit the public to judge lighter-than-air craft by the blunders of bureaucracy."

The public will judge bureaucracy by its blunders, and lighter-than-air craft by the records of those that understand such ships.

THE AMERICAN HUMANE ASSOCIATION rejoices because five states, Pennsylvania the latest, make it unlawful to clip dogs' ears.

Clipping is brutal, and an insult to nature which is supposed to have spent millions of years in developing different ears, from heavy drooping bloodhound ears to the alert ear of the terrier.

But man, apparently, must clip something. And the rule is that if you cut off the tail, don't clip the ears. If you clip the ears, do not cut off the tail.

THERE'S ANOTHER "but." Many dogs will fight, and fighting dogs with ears unclipped usually have ears bloody and sore. Clipping deprives the other dog of the pleasure of chewing and hanging on to a long ear.

One swift clipping is perhaps more humane than a hundred long-drawn-out bitings and tearings. Everything has two sides.

A SMALL bottle of brandy arrived yesterday on the Ile De France, its owners demanding the right to bring it in as "an antique" because it was bottled 316 years ago.

If it is an antique it can come in, if it is merely brandy it must stay out. Antique, or plain brandy, it is no better brandy than if it were two hundred years younger, probably not as good.

Brandy, like men, grows weaker with age, and, like men, it improves rarely, if ever, after a certain age.

PRESBYTERY FACING BREAK

'Bible Believers' Urge Split; Mrs. Buck's Views Assailed

COLUMBUS, O., May 24.—(AP.)—Dr. J. Gresham Machen, of Philadelphia, called upon "Bible-believers" today to unite in an effort to bring about a "clean break with modernism" in the one hundred and forty-fifth General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. convening here tomorrow.

It was the first convention statement of the so-called Fundamentalists, who hope to have a showdown with the Modernists on scriptural interpretation.

Dr. Machen's group asks, among other things, that every foreign missionary subscribe to a belief in the virgin birth of Jesus, the miracles, the vicarious atonement, the deity of Christ and the "full truthfulness of Scripture." Dr. Machen said:

"In asking for the radical reform of the Board of Foreign Missions, we are contending for the Christian religion for simple honesty.

"The case of Mrs. Pearl S. Buck is one indication, among many, to show that the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. is quite unworthy of the confidence of Bible-believing Christians."

(Mrs. Buck, author and former Presbyterian missionary, who resigned May 1, was attacked by the Fundamentalists for what they termed her modernist tendencies).

Dr. Machen, speaking in Point Breeze Presbyterian Church in Pittsburgh last Sunday, urged the Presbyterian Church to sever its relations with the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America and attacked the Mission Board's stand in accepting the resignation of Mrs. Buck. He declared the church must fight its modernists.

SUBWAY LEADER URGED HERE

Pointing out that the city of Detroit has asked federal aid for an $87,800,000 subway system, L. W. Monteverde, vice chairman of the Pittsburgh Transit Commission, today declared that Pittsburgh needs leadership.

The Transit Commission recently asked City Council to start work on a subway to ultimately connect the North Side with East Liberty at a total cost of approximately $21,000,000. The work can be done in sections, the commission stated.

The Detroit plan has been submitted to President Roosevelt and if approved will give 9,000 men 30 hours a week for four years on 20 miles of subway.

Monteverde today said:

"Detroit has leadership. We lack it. This city cannot afford to sit back and wait. We should send a committee of representative business men to Washington in the interests of our city."

Carnegie Organist's Locked Auto Stolen

Police today were searching for a black sedan belonging to Marshall Bidwell, organist of Carnegie Institute. The car was stolen last night from in front of Carnegie Institute on Forbes street. Bidwell said he locked the steering wheel and motor, but not the door, and that he had left his operator's card in the automobile.

Judge Egan Father For Fifth Time

A fifth little Egan has arrived at the Lytton avenue home of Judge John P. Egan, of Common Pleas Court and the football field.

The new arrival, home from the Mercy Hospital where she was born April 27, has been named Suzanne. The fourth arrived three years ago, a few days after Egan assumed his judicial robes.

'GAG' VOTED TO SPEED JOB BILL

Sales Tax Advocates Show Morgans Paid No Income Levy

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Overriding Republican opposition, the House Rules Committee by a vote of 7 to 5 today approved a so-called "gag rule" to assure passage of the administration's industrial recovery bill by the House on Friday.

The measure will be called up tomorrow with the right of amendment denied to the general membership. General debate will be limited to six hours with an additional hour on the rule of procedure.

One Democrat—Representative Cox, of Georgia—joined Republicans in the Rules Committee in demanding the bill be opened up for a free for all fight on the floor.

Advocates of a manufacturers sales tax, pointing to the fact that the rich J. P. Morgan firm paid no income tax for two years, prepared to demand substitution of a general manufacturers tax.

LEVIES TEMPORARY

President Roosevelt today reiterated his assurance that any additional income taxes adopted by the special session of Congress are temporary and will be automatically eliminated soon as repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment becomes effective.

He said all special increases should be regarded as subject to immediate elimination, and indicated he would use his authority to withdraw them.

Representative Shannon (Dem.), of Missouri, said:

"I cannot support this bill because it violates every Democratic platform of the last 40 years. It wipes out the anti-trust laws the party has supported and approves giant monopolies."

Strong Republican support was expected to offset Democratic opposition. Representative Snell, of New York, Republican leader, indicated there would be no organized minority opposition except upon taxation.

Patrolman Killed, Two Hurt in Crash

Thomas Joyce, 34, of 415 Ann street, Homestead, a motorcycle officer on the Homestead police force, was killed and two other men were injured in an automobile crash on the Lincoln highway at Imperial today.

Joyce had a two-day leave of absence and was going to a farm near Imperial with John Adams, 318 East Third avenue, Homestead. Deputy Coroner W. M. Jackson reported Adams was driving the car when it collided with a machine driven by T. Raymond Alston, whose address was given as Chicago.

Adams and Alston were taken to Mercy Hospital.

Mooney Plans New Plea To Rolph for Pardon

By RALPH B. JORDAN
International News Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 24.—(INS.)—Tom Mooney, in his county jail cell here, today announced that no matter what the outcome of his present trial in Superior Court he will file another application for pardon with Gov. James Rolph, Sr. The famous prisoner said:

"Of course I expect to be acquitted."

He was preparing to appear before Judge Louis H. Ward in the resumption of his trial on an old murder indictment.

Rolph and all other governors since Mooney's conviction in 1917 on charges of participating in a parade bombing have denied him a pardon. Mooney continued:

"I feel that I am entitled to a pardon at this time, because the District Attorney has admitted he can present no case against me and if his evidence and witnesses now are unrealiable, they were false when I was convicted, and I should be set free in the name of decency and justice."

Prepared to stop any steps toward demonstration, mounted police and uniformed officers again took their places today in front of the Hall of Justice and Portsmouth square several hours before the resumption of the trial.

Morgan Facing the Inquiring Senators

J. P. MORGAN (RIGHT) AND HIS COUNSEL, JOHN W. DAVIS, SKETCHED AT SENATE PROBE

BEER LICENSING IN CONFUSION

Confusion caused by the beer-license bill spread from Pittsburgh throughout the state today as applicants swamped the county treasurers' offices for permits to sell the stuff.

Nobody seemed able yet to understand what the Legislature meant when it passed the bill a month ago.

And so great was the rush in the Treasurer's office here that A. E. Anke, acting treasurer, announced that applications would be received tomorrow.

DEADLINE EXTENDED

The bill, as interpreted by Anke, specifies that all applications should have been filed today, at the latest.

However, if the applicants have not filed by tomorrow, they will not be allowed to sell beer for at least a year, Anke said, for no more applications will be accepted before next May.

In most counties throughout the state applications will be accepted at any time during the year.

Mercury May Reach Year's High Today

Today may set the record for the hottest day of the year, with a possible temperature of 85 degrees foreseen by the Weather Bureau. Cloudiness and showers, reported moving from the Northwest, may forestall the new high. Yesterday was the warmest day to date, with a temperature of 83.2.

Farley Leading Fight to Speed Dry Law Repeal

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(AP.)—A full fledged drive by the administration is under way to speed prohibition repeal.

The New York vote and the prospect of eliminating the new taxes for public works financing through revenue from liquor sales, combined to spur the Roosevelt forces to action.

Postmaster General Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, announced last night that he will ask every Democratic worker in the last election to turn to for repeal.

LANDSLIDE IN N. Y.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 24.—(AP.)—With New York City voting 41 to 1 for repeal, the Empire State today lined up with the five states which already have taken a stand in favor of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Fifty-two of the 57 up-state counties and the five counties of New York City reported an incomplete total vote of 1,724,368 for repeal and 153,413 against.

Only rural Yates, Delaware and Schoharie counties were declared dry on the basis of incomplete returns. Cortland County, which in former years was dry by a wide margin, reported a substantial majority for repeal. In New York City the vote was 1,047,068 to 25,506.

DRYS GIRD HERE

HARRISBURG, May 24.—(AP.)—United Pennsylvania drys cleared the way for the selection of the 15 delegates at large who will represent them in November in the state-wide vote on the Eighteenth Amendment.

Leaders of numerous organizations fighting for the preservation of national prohibition enforcement arranged for a general conference at Harrisburg Monday to choose delegates.

Led by Chairman John A. McSparran, Secretary of Agriculture, the drys' "committee of nine" and its young people's affiliated group, the "junior committee of nine," will direct the conference.

Nebraska Judge Named to Senate

LINCOLN, Neb., May 24.—(AP.) William H. Thompson, of Grand Island, former Nebraska Supreme Court Judge, today was appointed United States Senator from Nebraska to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator R. B. Howell, of Omaha.

STOCKS REACH NEW HIGHS

NEW YORK, May 24.—(INS.)—The stock market forged ahead at a breakneck pace today, with a huge volume of buying carrying leading issues up from 1 to more than 5 points, and establishing the general price averages at their highest level in more than a year.

American Telephone, United States Steel common and preferred, American Can, du Pont, Allied Chemical and Case were among the industrial leaders to top their previous peaks for the year. Rails boomed anew, with Union Pacific sweeping up more than 5 points and other prime rail favorites, such as Atchison, New York Central, Lackawanna and Pennsylvania recorded lesser gains.

National Distillers was given another whirl in the so-called "wet" group, on the overwhelming vote for repeal given by New York yesterday. Motors, coppers, oils and tobaccos were other groups to move into the limelight in the course of the day's activity.

Blonde Defends Self At Murder Trial

JERSEY CITY, N. J., May 24.—(AP.)—Miss Dolly Lumpkin, 20-year-old blonde, formerly of Baltimore, went on the witness stand today to defend herself against the charge she deliberately shot and fatally wounded Thomas Plakstis, 28, her sweetheart.

Snubbed Mrs. Vanderbilt 'Nini' Jelke Reveals

NEWPORT, R. I., May 24.—(INS.)—Because she had an appointment with her hair dresser, Mrs. Eugenia (Nini) Jelke, 27-year-old Dixie beauty, declined a luncheon invitation from Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, known as the country's outstanding social leader.

An invitation from Mrs. Vanderbilt for luncheon is regarded as tantamount to entrance into the ranks of the Four Hundred, and when "Nini" told of the refusal today under cross-examination in her counter divorce action against her husband, dowagers and others among the crowd in Superior Court gasped with amazement.

Blazing with indignation, Mrs. Jelke denied she had been unfaithful to her marriage vows with the mysterious Alabama "major" or with young Robert White, of Virginia, who already has testified in her behalf.

MITCHELL ALSO NAMED AMONG 60 BANKER BORROWERS

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(AP.)—Senate investigators again dug deeply into the Morgan banking secrets today, developing objections from J. P. Morgan to having his private firm under regulation applied to commercial banks, obtaining names of bank officials to which Morgan money has been loaned and finding out where more of that money was deposited.

Among the banks throughout the country listed as having Morgan money on deposit were: Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company, $21,361; Mellon National Bank, Pittsburgh, $88,064, and Union Trust Company, Pittsburgh, $84,054.

One thrill awaited by the crowd, which failed to materialize, was the list of special customers invited to participate in Morgan issues at below the market price. It was expected at the afternoon session.

This list was reported to include many nationally famous figures, but committee aides kept it under close guard prior to its introduction.

PECORA DEMAND

The list was placed in the record at the demand of Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, who said it might aid in considering the truth of charges of Morgan power and influence over banking and industrial concerns.

Amounts of the loans were not given. Some, including the one to John W. Davis, have been paid off.

NEW PITT BANK OPENS JUNE 12

The new Pitt National Bank, which takes over portions of the assets of the Diamond National and Monongahela National banks, is to be open for business June 12.

A court order signed by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson today cleared the way for the sale of certain assets of the Diamond Bank to the Pitt National Bank, and authorized Robert R. Gordon, receiver, to lease the former Diamond Bank quarters to the Pitt National Bank.

The receiver of the Monongahela National Bank was also authorized to make the necessary transfer of assets.

Depositors of the Diamond Bank will be given orders on the new institution for 40 per cent of their proven claims and depositors of the Monongahela Bank will receive orders for 65 per cent of their proven claims.

If the depositors want cash for that amount, it will be available when the new bank opens. The plans have been approved by the United States Controller of the Currency.

The new bank will have capital, surplus and undivided profits of $1,050,000.

Davis, America's 'Dove of Peace,' Morgan Debtor

By EDWIN C. HILL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 24. — In the general atmosphere of a Turkish bath, the grave and reverned seigneurs of the Senate Banking Committee continued, early this afternoon, their labored quizzing of the overman of Wall street.

Leaping easily to the forefront of the revelations was the fact that our international dove of peace, the gentleman who is telling Europe that we are about to abandon our 150-year-old policy of neutrality—Norman H. Davis—was a borrower from the overman—from J. P. Morgan & Co.—and still owes the loan. But that is merely a fire-cracker compared to the hand grenades that are about to explode in the way of big names in big places who were and are beneficiaries of Morgan benevolence, provided Inquisitor Pecora has his way. For they are names that will startle the public consciousness if and when they are spread on the record and flung on the air.

But for the present the hearing drones along, in a welter of heat, with Pecora making wolfish sallies at the amiably elephantine Morgan; with waspish Carter Glass growling out of a corner of Injury Ends Career Of Famous Aerialist

LONG BEACH, Cal., May 24.—(AP.)—Alfredo Codona, famous aerialist, in a telegram to his father, Edward Codona, today revealed that his performing career had probably been ended by an arm injury suffered while performing with Ringling Brothers Circus in Madison Square Garden, New York.

Codona did not go into details regarding the injury. He is the widower of Lillian Leitzel, aerialist, who was killed several years ago by a fall in Copenhagen.

Bonitz Appointed Car Firm Receiver

Appointment of Walter A. Bonitz, Pittsburgh manufacturer, as a third receiver for the Pressed Steel Car Company by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson, today resulted in the withdrawal of a petition for the removal of Frank N. Hoffstot as one of two receivers.

R. W. CHILD WARNS AGAINST BACK-DOOR ENTRY TO LEAGUE

DIPLOMAT BARES 'JOKER' IN DAVIS GENEVA DEAL TO ENSNARE U. S. IN WARS

By RICHARD WASHBURN CHILD

Famous Author and Diplomat and Former Ambassador to Italy.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The partially sophisticated capital believes today that the Davis speech at Geneva will be interpreted by the music rather than by the words.

Playing upon our national weakness for this kind of interpretation, European propaganda always hails every move we make, no matter what, as an abandonment of our "isolation." They have even taught us to do it ourselves in our own headlines.

The phrase is a nonsensical European invention because except for desively rejecting membership in the League of Nations, we are no more "isolated" than France or Great Britain and do an active and friendly business with every nation on earth.

"Isolation" is a term used by European propagandists and their American victims to impress our citizenship, just as the monkey reaching for the catspaw would say:

"Come, kitty. Give up your isolation."

Debts Wiped Out

Incidentally the foreign propaganda and that of some of our international bankers is so thorough that when we have, by adjustments with our foreign debtors, wiped out all debts incurred for war, we still talk about the money we have loaned abroad since the war and cannot seem to collect as "war debts."

To find many persons even in Washington today who can shake off the fog of phrases and soft music long enough really to read the words of the Geneva homily and pronouncement, is difficult. The music of the message has been seized upon by our European friends.

It is whistled in their press and the foxiest of their statesmen will see that it is tried on our national piano in the hope that we will throw away our national common sense and that the American people will just hum in chorus without reading the words.

Well, of course, there will be no such unintelligent choral response from us. The American people are trusting Roosevelt to see that we sign no international I. O. U.'s or post-dated checks with names and amounts left blank or even wipe off the debts to buy our way into a chance to be heard at the London economic conference.

On the contrary, the American people are quite convinced that it is not the intention of Roosevelt in any of his peace-security suggestions to join any European game where the rules and the stakes are manipulated by any United States of Europe.

People Should Know

They are entitled to know, however, just how much danger there may be that the Geneva-Davis-administration speech may put our feet on slippery edges of the European dead-falls, bird snares and spring traps for our political entanglement. They are entitled to know how much risk we take in trying to teach lions vegetarianism by mail.

Reduced to plain language, we agree TO CONSULT when any one or group of nations does something.

Does what? Does invade another by crossing its borders.

The crossing must be IN VIOLATION OF TREATIES, and the Briand-Kellogg past makes nearly all nations promise not to be that kind of an aggressor.

After the consultation what?

The United States, though a minority of one, may disagree about the alleged aggressor's guilt and go home. Just as the League Court proposal gives us a technical excuse to go home if we want to play alone. This is a fine TECHNICAL LEGAL protection.

Joker Revealed

It must be, because Stimson and Root said so. But in practice, from the point of view of political effect, of publicity, of laying ourselves open to take a berating by worldwide propaganda, we would be IN and DEEP IN and that's the joker. The so-called "protections" urged in the consultation idea and the League Court idea alike satisfies some great lawyers because no one could say that LEGALLY we had no right to stand on our minority decision; it would not satisfy the elevator-boy because the elevator-boy knows exactly what it would cost us, in terms of internal political dissension, in terms of revilement and unpopularity if we said "No" and went home.

But suppose we did not say "no" and that we agreed that the kingdom of volabia or who-not, was an aggressor—what then?

Then says the message "WE WILL REFRAIN FROM ANY ACTION TENDING TO DEFEAT SUCH COLLECTIVE EFFORT WHICH THESE STATES (the others) MAY THUS MAKE TO RESTORE PEACE."

Can't Translate It

What that means neither Washington nor the thoughtful and somewhat awed Senators and Congressmen in these last 24 hours seem to know. The country certainly does not know.

Does "refraining from taking any action" mean that we will not ship arms or allow them to be shipped? Food for a starving population, or allow them to be shipped?

Must we consult again in order to put an end to the use of force by arms or embargo against the guilty aggressor?

When does all this violence and war dedicated to punishment of the guilty one end? Who decides when the guilty one is thumbscrewed beyond all reason?

Definitely who or what body or subcommittee summons us to consult? What guarantees can be set up that our concessions as to giving up our neutrality will not lead the American people later into pledges to make war when certain conditions occur which are none of our business?

Can this be an approach to entry into the back door of the league when our people have decisively rejected the front door? Will not only our own statesmen, but those abroad come out flat-footed to state that an emphatic "No" is the understanding on both sides?

In that case the Roosevelt step toward peace may summon more assent and approval by the very fact that its limitations have been made clear.

BANK GUARANTY APPROVAL SEEN

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(INS.)—Enactment of legislation setting up a nation-wide system of bank deposit insurance during the present special session became a strong possibility today as a result of House passage of the Steagall bill late yesterday by a vote of 262 to 19.

With the similar Glass bill the first order of Senate business following the Louderback impeachment trial, backers of the bank reform and guaranty measures planned to press for final action.

The House measure sets up a Depositors Guaranty Corporation to include all Federal Reserve banks. It also permits state banks to join the system upon examination, while the bill of Senator Glass (Dem.) of Virginia, would compel them to make application for admission to the Reserve System.

Deposits up to $10,000 would be guaranteed 100 per cent; deposits $10,000 to $50,000, 75 per cent, and all over $50,000, 50 per cent.

M'FADDEN ASKS WOODIN OUSTER

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(AP.)—High crimes and misdemeanors in office have now been charged to William H. Woodin, Secretary of the Treasury for only two and a half months, as well as against both his immediate predecessors and a score of present and past Federal Reserve officials.

Representative McFadden (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, leveled the charges yesterday in the House in a move for impeachment of the whole group. The House listened and filed the question with its Judiciary Committee, which already has a file of similar proposals by McFadden.

Woodin's alleged crime had to do with stopping gold redemption of the currency. Andrew W. Mellon and Ogden L. Mills and others were pronounced guilty of "having robbed the United States government and the people of the United States by their theft and sale of the gold reserves of the United States."

There were 32 charges in all.

Thugs Blackjack Victim in West Park

Patrick Griffin, 43, of 611 Sandusky street, was slugged as he walked through West Park and collapsed after staggering to Presbyterian Hospital early today.

He told police a Negro struck him with a blackjack. Police arrested three suspects, none of whom was identified by Griffin, but the police said the victim was in a dazed condition and they would hold the suspects for another examination.

LEAGUE BACKS TARIFF TRUCE

GENEVA, May 24.—(INS.)—Indorsing the tariff truce proposed by the United States, the League of Nations Council today unanimously adopted the report of Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, on organization of the world economic conference.

Sir John's report includes approval of the truce which is described as "necessary in order to create a period of calm and tranquility during which the world economic conference can proceed."

LONDON, May 24.—(INS.)—The British cabinet today gave formal approval to Britain's general policy for the forthcoming world economic conference in a meeting presided over by Prime Minister MacDonald.

Britain's strategy will now be laid before her delegates to the conference.

The world parley, scheduled to commence in London, June 12, will aim particularly at raising world prices to combat the industrial, commercial and financial crisis.

FIREMEN SAVE GAS VICTIM

Discovered in the loft of his garage, with gas jets open, James Norville Muse, 45, of Center street, Glenfield, was revived this morning by a rescue squad of the Bellevue Fire Department. Aided by two doctors, they used inhalators.

The finding of Muse climaxed a two-hour search of the Glenfield River bank by his mother, Mrs. R. M. Muse, of School street, and police.

His disappearance was reported at 7:30 a. m. Muse's wife told police her husband had evidently left his room about 2 o'clock in the morning, as she had heard a noise near the garage then.

Muse had been in ill health for about three years, according to the family. He and his wife have an adopted daughter.

Cripple Frees Wife From Alimony Jail

PHILADELPHIA, May 24.—(AP.)—Daniel Martin, 68, a crippled carpenter, has won the release of his 60-year-old wife, Mary, from Philadelphia's "alimony jail" after her imprisonment for 24 hours. Martin said:

Naval Economy Dropped; Fleet Stays 'Full Time'

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(AP.)—The rotation plan for operation of the Navy vessels, announced as effective July 1, has been abandoned.

Secretary Swanson today said that for the time being at least the fleet will continue to operate on its present basis.

A rotating plan for the destroyer and submarine divisions which has been in effect for months, however, will continue.

As an economy move, it had been planned to keep the vessels in service a year and then place them out of commission for six months.

Swanson recently announced he was having an investigation made to determine whether this move would result in sufficient savings to counterbalance the reduced efficiency of the fleet.

SQUIRE FINES HIMSELF $5

The first offender in Burgess William M. Turner's campaign against motorists who "crash" the traffic signal at Penn avenue and Center street, Wilkinsburg, was Justice of the Peace George B. Shields, it was revealed today.

Checking license numbers and arranging for hearings, Justice Shields made the discovery himself. Pleading guilty to the charge Shields assessed himself a $5 fine.

The initial stages of the campaign have resulted in informations against 65 motorists. They will be given hearings May 29, 31 and June 1.

TEMPLARS END STATE MEET

ALLENTOWN, Pa., May 24.—(AP.)—In the pomp of medieval knighthood, Pennsylvania's Knights Templar closed the eightieth annual conclave of their Grand Commandery today with election and installation of officers.

JAP RAPS DAVIS PEACE VIEWS

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(INS.)—A clear intimation that Japan may prove a stumbling block to efforts at Geneva for world peace was given today by Viscount Kikijiro Ishii, special representative to the economic conversatons here, as he appeared for his first conference with President Roosevelt.

Davis declared the United States has decided that the "simplest and most accurate definition of an aggressor is one whose armed forces are found on alien soil in violation of treaties."

Viscount Ishii said:

"At present I admit no such definition. Certain action that might take place in one part of the world might be considered aggression in another part of the world, but not in the part in which it occurs."

3 MORE NAMED TO TRADE MEET

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(INS.)—The American delegation to the world economic conference today assumed more definite shape with word that James Warburg, New York financial adviser to the President; Dr. Herbert Feis, economic adviser to the State Department, and Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Tugwell would be included as experts and advisers.

President Roosevelt already has selected as delegates Secretary of State Hull, former Gov. James M. Cox, of Ohio; Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada; chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and Representative Samuel McReynolds, of Tennessee, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Night Court Here Urged In Rothenberg Report

Convinced Pittsburgh should have a night court "like other big cities," Magistrate Leo Rothenberg today submitted a report and recommendation to Mayor John S. Herron. It followed a week's survey of the night court system in New York, made at request of Council.

Pittsburgh's proposed court would start at 10:30 p. m. Jurisdiction would be the same as a day court, Rothenberg said, adding:

"Cases making it a hardship for litigants to appear in day court may be transferred to the night court."

Rothenberg will be magistrate in the new court, if it is provided for by Council, according to reliable sources. Mayor Herron has submitted his report to the city law department with orders to draw up an ordinance to be presented to Council.

Commenting editorially on Norman H. Davis' speech before the disarmament conference committee at Geneva, the New York Evening Sun said in part yesterday:

What Is Davis's Authority?

Communication between the State Department at Washington and its special ambassador at Geneva seems astonishingly bad. Norman H. Davis' speech yesterday so far transcended the interpretation of American policy given out at the White House last week as to suggest that he may have taken the oratorial bit between his teeth and run away.

The White House declared that there was no intention to depart from historic American policy with regard to consultation among nations in the event that any agreement reached at Geneva were hereafter broken. That policy would require the United States to judge each separate breach upon its own merits and take such action as circumstances might prescribe.

Who gives Mr. Davis authority to repudiate on behalf of the United States the American doctrine of neutrality which has been a cornerstone of American foreign policy for a hundred and fifty years? Who gives him authority to pledge the United States to wield a rubber stamp validating the decrees of any group of foreign nations? By what right does he presume to declare in advance the action this nation shall take in regard to some putative violator of a putative treaty? Who are the "we" of whom he speaks with such glibness?

Plenipotentiaries abroad among whom the proposed agreements are to be reached ought to be informed that Mr. Davis is making promises which no American has authority to make on behalf of the United States, promises which in all probability the United States Senate would refuse to ratify.

Whither?

To the Times the speech of Norman H. Davis, chief delegate of the United States to the disarmament conference at Geneva, seems merely a following-up of President Roosevelt's message to the world last week. To the Herald Tribune it appears to be only something wherewith to bridge over the summer's negotiations. To us it stands out as one of the most astoundingly important statements ever made affecting the world fate of the United States.

It puts us into the affairs of Europe. It may let other nations force us into trouble with Japan. It reverses our Senate's rejection of Article X and the covenant of the League of Nations. It practically make us a part of the League. It ends our world isolation. It is a triumph for Woodrow Wilson.

The direct undertakings and above all the implied obligations in these proposals seem to us to alter the whole world position of the United States, as it has existed since the days that Washington warned us against the peril of entangling alliances. We no longer base our armament upon the needs of our national defense, but upon faith in other nations.

We may have to give up neutrality and probably freedom of the seas.

How anyone can say that these proposals do not affect the very life of America itself we cannot see.

Rejection of Sales Tax 'A Mistake Likely to Be Regretted,' Says Sun

By a vote of 13 to 9 the Ways and Means Committee has reported favorably a schedule of tax increases designed to pay the interest charges on that very doubtful adventure, the three billion dollar program of public works.

If such public construction were needed, the sales tax obviously was the right levy to make. But the same fear that stampeded the House a year ago is still in its heart. Therefore the cost of servicing the gigantic scheme for making work is to be put on those old reliable goats, the individual income taxpayer, the corporation and gasoline. All three are already creaking and cracking under the strain, but that does not matter to the Ways and Means Committee.

The income tax, according to the bill, will go up 2 per cent; corporate dividends will have to pay twice, first in the tax on corporations and next in the tax on incomes; the gas tax will rise three-quarters of a cent. The victims, who have been showing signs of convalescence from depression fever, turn their faces to the wall in despair.

A good part of the success of the Roosevelt administration has come from the cheer it imparted to taxpayers. The budget was reduced, banks were stiffened, a program for saving the mortgage market was produced, beer came back.

Two of these reforms seemed to point to lower direct taxes. Now it is proposed to make taxes more painful so that a speculative excursion may be financed. And while it is speculative in so far as re-employment is concerned, it is not at all a gamble as to its cost, which is amazingly high. Moreover, the spending of billions on federal buildings and roads means great expense for maintenance later.

The new taxes adopted by the House committee are, like the purpose for which they are to be spent, a mistake which the administration is likely to regret when it is too late.

DENNY TO STOP POLICE CARDS

Denying that he had issued thousands, and saying he had sent out 32—one to his wife and the rest to intimate friends—he declared:

"I have been deluged with requests for thousands of police cards. But there will be no more sent out."

Michigan Tax Fight Nears Showdown

LANSING, Mich., May 24.—(AP.)—A show down in the long legislative dispute over relief for thousands of farm and home owners who have fallen behind in their taxes appeared imminent today.

The House transmitted to the Senate, with its approval, a substitute bill proposing the amortization of 1931 and prior delinquent taxes over a 10-year period, providing current 1932 and 1933 taxes are paid by September 1, 1934. It was expected the Senate would reject the substitute.

Reed Sees Roosevelt Program Doomed

PHILADELPHIA, May 24.—(AP.)—Senator David A. Reed told Republican Women of Pennsylvania yesterday that President Roosevelt is very popular, but should his policies prove faulty the President's popularity "will be well on the wane before the snow flies." He said:

"Up to date we have had little but promises. If Mr. Roose- promises come true, then it will be all right, but if not then it will be just too bad for the American people.

"We are Americans first and Republicans second. Mr. Roosevelt is our President, and he is entitled to a fair show. I hope his policies will succeed. I hope I am wrong when I say I think they will not succeed."

Stating that work should be found for the more than 10,000,000 persons out of jobs, Reed said there are two schools of thought as to how that should be done.

He said the first, to which he belongs, "believes we should restore confidence, protect our men, keep currency sound and protect ourselves from the menace of foreign attachments by keeping this country from being dragged into foreign quarrels.

"The other school believes in inflation of currency and placing great masses of men on public works as well as placing labor, wages, prices and hours of work under government control."

DAVIS INVOLVES U. S. IN NEW PEACE SNARE

America Will 'Disown' Citizens Who Oppose Pact's Aim, He Says

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT

International News Service.

GENEVA, May 24.—The United States assumed new responsibilities in European peace efforts today when Norman H. Davis, American special ambassador, accepted a redraft of the British disarmament plan prepared by Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary.

The redraft will enable the United States, although not a member of the League of Nations, to call the league's attention to any breach of the Kellogg pact.

DAVIS' STATEMENT

Davis handed out a statement setting forth the following as the attitude of the United States in the event the redraft is accepted by other delegates to the conference:

"Realizing that a breach or a threat of breach of the Kellogg pact concerns all signatories, the United States declares it is prepared to confer with the purpose of maintaining peace in the event that consultation is arranged pursuant to the disarmament convention. decide upon theaggressor and decide upon the aggresor and the United States agrees, the United States undertakes to refrain from any action and will withhold protection from its citizens engaged in activities which would tend to defeat collective efforts decided upon against the aggressor."

Arms Embargo Fight Tests Pact Proposal

By KENNETH CLARK

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—An indirect test of Senate sentiment on President Roosevelt's unprecedented consultative pact offer was scheduled today in the Foreign Relations Committee.

It will revolve around the arms embargo resolution giving the Chief Executive blanket authority to refuse munitions shipments to nations at war or threatening world peace.

Opponents see in the resolution not only a radical departure from American foreign policy, but a powerful war-like weapon by which the executive branch, without consulting Congress, may join in enforcing sanctions against aggressors. It is held to be a part of the consultative machinery.

Davis Offers Irrevocable Bond, Is Paris View

PARIS, May 24.—(Universal.)—Norman H. Davis has offered to bind the United States to participate in settling the world's future wars as irretrievably as if she were a member of the League of Nations.

This is the French government's belief, a foreign office spokesman indicated today.

DUCE REVIEWS 40,000 TROOPS

ROME, May 24.—(AP.)—Premier Mussolini, on horseback, inspected 40,000 young Fascists today, reviewing a parade several miles along.

The occasion was the seventh annual "levy" or graduation ceremony of members of the Balilla, Avanguardia and young Fascists of combat.

Later in the day the Premier attended a celebration of the anniversary of Italy's entrance into the World War. Several thousand young gymnasts took part in this manifestation, which was held in the Roman Forum.

Empire street, the broad new avenue flanked by great bronze statues of the Roman emperors and by the ruins of ancient Roman memorials, was the setting for the parade.

Austria Bans Nazi And Socialist Flags

VIENNA, May 24.—(AP.)—The Austrian government has made public a decree forbidding the display anywhere in the cuountry of either Socialist or Nazi flags.

WEDDING PARTY ON STAND AT COYNE MURDER TRIAL

GUESTS TO TELL OF BRIDE'S SLAYING

Father of Slain Girl Called as State's First Witness

All the guests who gathered at the ill-fated party to celebrate the marriage of the 19-year-old girl to Coyne's father were present in Criminal Court as the first witness was called.

The state first summoned George B. Carbert, father of the slain girl. Later it was expected the prosecutor would call Coyne's own father, the bridegroom, to testify against his son in an effort to obtain a verdict of first degree murder.

Assistant District Attorney B. Meredith Reid asked such a verdict as the trial opened before Visiting Judge Norman T. Boose, with a jury of six women and six men yesterday. In questioning prospective jurors, Reid asked whether they had scruples against the death penalty.

Carbert's testimony was brief. He said he had not seen his daughter for two days prior to the wedding, February 2. She was employed as a domestic and he had not seen a great deal of her for the previous two years, he said.

Police, deputy coroners and physicians followed Carbert on the stand. Chief Deputy Coroner John S. Aldisert will not be a witness. He became ill in the corridor outside the court room late yesterday and was taken to Mercy Hospital.

CUBAN REBELS CLAIM VICTORY

HAVANA, May 24.—(INS.)—Officials of President Gerardo Machado's government maintained tight-lipped silence today in the face of reports that federal troops had suffered a serious defeat at the hands of rebels in Santa Clara Province.

According to the advices received here, the government troops were routed in the bloodiest battle in a week while attempting to surround guerilla raiders in the Banao Mountains near Sancti Spiritus.

The rebels were reported led by Juan Blas Hernandez, insurgent commander.

An army plane hurrying into Santa Clara City with reports of the defeat and requests for federal reinforcements crashed on the outskirts of the town. It was believed the flier had been wounded while flying over the battlefield and died before reaching his goal.

It is known that the rebels have not been dispersed, as the government claims, but are entrenching themselves in the hills in rapidly-increasing numbers.

Ziegfeld's Widow To Offer Follies

HOLLYWOOD, May 24.—(INS.)—To carry on the traditions of her late husband, Florenz Ziegfeld, Billie Burke will produce the "Ziegfeld Follies of 1933" in New York, opening about August 1, she announced today.

The production, Miss Burke said, will not interfere with her own career in motion pictures, but she will spend much time in New York.

Student Quits Scene of Suicide

Absent From Class Following Burial Of Co-Ed Bride

His fraternity brothers at the Sigma Chi house, 165 North Dithridge street, said that he had withdrawn from the university and is now at his home in Bradford, Pa.

A senior student in the frat house explained:

Williams has taken most of his belongings home and we expect to send his trunk in a few days. I'm quite sure that he will never be back at Pitt again after this mess."

His pretty bride, Henrietta Brien Williams, died Monday in the Pittsburgh Hospital after swallowing poison tablets, when her husband's well-to-do parents are said to have asked them to annul their marriage.

Young Williams did not attend the funeral of his wife from her parents home, 429 Semple street, Oakland, nor did he attend the burial in the Gates of Wisdom Cemetery, Carrick.

At the grave, her mother, Mrs. Nettie Brien, became hysterical, interrupting the services by Rabbi Benjamin Lichter. She cried:

"My bride, my ri[illegible] my bride! Just 18 years old. Why did it all have to end like this? Your mother, your father, your brothers and sisters are with you! Even Bobby, your husband!"

Religious differences, it was said, caused the marital trouble. Henrietta was Jewish, while Williams is a Presbyterian.

'DIME' INJURY SUSPECT HELD

Israel Goodman, 3515 Beechwood boulevard, was held in $1,000 bail today in connection with the injury of a 12-year-old boy who got a dime from a man whose automobile struck him.

Claude McGuire, of 4408 Penn avenue, a city ward, was in a hospital for three weeks. Police said that after he was hurt, March 22, the boy was taken into the machine, driven around a corner, and there put out, given 10 cents and told to go home.

State highway patrolmen charged Goodman was in the automobile, and may have been driving. He was held for a hearing by Justice of the Peace James Hernon, of Sharpsburg, last night.

The Highway Patrol meanwhile is seeking Harry Harris, identified as a china salesman living in Webster avenue. Officers said he was arraigned before Magistrate J. Scott Morgan in Traffic Court after the accident and was discharged. Records disclosed the automobile was licensed in the name of Harris' wife, according to the Highway Patrol.

Japanese Destroyer Begins Pirate Chase

TOKIO, May 24.—(AP.)—A Rengo (Japanese) news agency dispatch from Dairen, Manchuria, said today the Japanese destroyer Asago had hastened from Port Arthur to the scene of a pirate raid off the mouth of the Yellow River, in Shantung province, China.

Husbands' Affairs Laid To Indifferent Wives

RICHMOND, Va., May 24.—(Special)—Wives do not take enough pains to make their husbands love them and it's no wonder the husbands fall in love with their stenographers, Mrs. John M. Phillips, of Pittsburgh, stated in addressing the biennial council of the General Federation of Women's Clubs here yesterday.

Mrs. Phillips suggested that people bring affection back into the home and make it popular in the neighborhood. She asserted that mothers and fathers are losing their sense of values and are placing stress on unimportant rather than worthwhile things. Too much money is being spent in beauty shops and golf has taken the place of God, she declared.

Louis McHenry Howe, confidential secretary to President Roosevelt, said the President looks to the women of America, particularly those in organized club work, to bring about a better understanding of government.

TRIAL OF 'RED' GOES TO JURY

The government's suit charging Bleddlyn C. Thomas, 34, with fraudulently obtaining naturalization went to the jury at 12:30 p. m. today.

Thomas, a native of Wales, admitted on the witness stand that he was a Communist when he became a citizen here in 1928. He said he was not questioned about his party affiliations in his naturalization hearing.

Asked whether he opposed the government of the United States, Thomas replied:

"I am opposed to the present government, which does nothing for workers who are starving. The present government, which is a capitalistic government, is under control of capitalists and obeys the dictates of boss and money classes, at the same time returning millions in taxes to Mellon and Rockefeller."

Husband, 73, Sued By Wife, Kills Self

LOGANSPORT, Ind., May 24.—(AP.)—John E. Rice, 73, was to have appeared in court in a divorce action filed by his 70-year-old bride of six months.

Instead, however, he shot himself. Yesterday he died.

25 HURT IN N. Y. SUBWAY CRASH

NEW YORK, May 24.—(INS.)—Twenty-five persons were injured, four seriously in a rear-end crash of two subway trains today at the Brooklyn Museum station of the Interboro Rapid Transit.

A Flatbush avenue train, according to first reports flashed to Police Headquarters, was just pulling out of the station, which is underground at the point, when a train bound for New Lots roared in. The trains telescoped.

The small crowds were thrown into a panic as frightened men and women scrambled for safety.

In his control cabin in the second train, Motorman James C. Reynolds was held a prisoner by the crushed steel. It was believed he was dying.

Shock of Attempt At Suicide Fatal

Shock following his attempted suicide today caused the death of Joseph Snyder, 81, of 1419 Fredell street, according to a Coroner's report. Fredell attempted to hang himself in the bathroom of his home last Monday, but was cut down by his grandaughter Mrs. Anna Schaeffer, the report said.

MAUG, TURPACK HUNTED IN ERIE

Police along the Great Lakes from Buffalo to Detroit spread a dragnet today for John (Killer) Maug and Edward Turpack, escaped Western Penitentiary convicts, following the holdup of an automobile salesman and a store in Erie last night.

The fugitive pair, posing as prospects, asked T. Sendell, the salesman, to give them a demonstration. About 15 miles from town Sendell was ordered out of the machine at the point of guns. Several hours later the pair held up the store of Hipolit Pogorzalski and robbed him of $233. Sendell and Pogorzalski identified pictures of Maug and Turpack as the bandits who robbed them.

The stolen car was abandoned in Erie shortly before midnight. Rewards of $5,000 each, dead or alive, have been posted for the escaped "lifers."

FIREMEN SAVE SMOKE VICTIM

Becoming confused as he made his way through his smoke-filled home at 223 Sycamore street, Mt. Washington, early today, Edward Dorgan, 46, collapsed and was carried from the burning building.

The fire was discovered by Marjorie, 20, a daughter. She screamed. Awakened by her sister's cries, Virginia, 14, made her way across a porch-roof to the home of C. W. Wall at 221 Sycamore street. Marjorie and her mother escaped by the stairway. Mrs. Dorgan was slightly burned.

Dorgan was taken to South Side Hospital.

Blackmail Evidence Aim of Defense In Heart Balm

The defense in the alienation suit against Judge Elder W. Marshall continued to pile up evidence today with a view to showing the case was a blackmail scheme.

More than a dozen witnesses have testified to having seen Thomas McMinn, the plaintiff, and his wife, Myrtle Irene McMinn, from whom he was alleged to have been separated February 9, 1929, together numerous times after that date.

TENANT TESTIFIES

John L. Joyce, who occupied the second floor apartment of the McMinn home in McClure avenue, Swissvale, from September 1, 1929, to May 1, 1930, testified McMinn was present with his wife when the lease was signed. Joyce also said he had seen McMinn about the house four or five times after he had taken possession.

Witnesses yesterday testified to having seen McMinn and his wife together at various times after their purported separation. These included neighbors of the McMinns in Swissvale.

SLEUTH ON STAND

Monty McCormick, an investigator of Pittsburgh, testified that he had followed McMinn and that the latter had met his wife in an automobile or at the McMinn home 50 times between March 2 and May 7, 1929.

McMinn, acting as his own counsel, cross-examined the defense witnesses. His line of questioning indicated he would seek to show the woman with whom he was alleged to have been seen in an automobile frequently was not his wife, but his daughter. He challenged the ability of several witnesses to remember dates and events concerning which they testified.

Leader in Old Age Pension Fight Stricken In Harrisburg

Dr. Ralph S. Boots, professor of political science at the University of Pittsburgh and leading liberal, died early today in Williamsport Hospital.

Dr. Boots

Death was due to acute leukemia. He became ill last Saturday after addressing the Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce in Harrisburg, and went with Mrs. Boots to the home of his mother-in-law, in Williamsport.

Funeral services are planned tentatively for Friday, in Williamsport.

SOCIAL REFORM WORK

Dr. Boots, as chairman of the Civil Liberties Union, one of the founders of the League for Social Justice, was active in social reform and was one of the leaders in the fight for old age pensions, minimum wage law, free speech and other constitutional guarantees.

He was born in Grove City, Pa.; received his A. B. and master degrees at the college there, and his doctor's degree from Columbia University, where he taught from 1917 to 1921. Later he became assistant professor in political science at the University of Nebraska, and in 1926 came to Pitt as a full-fledged professor.

He had suggested a park for the purpose, and had appeared before Council in many protests against police brutalities. He also worked in behalf of the city manager bill, and appeared before the Legislature espousing it.

Colleagues from the staff of the university plan to attend in a body the funeral services—as many as can get away from examinations.

Dr. Boots was a member of the National Municipal League, the Academies of Political Science of New York, Philadelphia, Nebraska, the American Political Science Association and the Civic Club of Allegheny County.

PEIPING DEFIES JAP TROOPS

By JOHN GOETTE
International News Service.

PEIPING, May 24.—A showdown over the status of Peiping appeared imminent today as Chinese troops disputed the authority of Japanese forces which entered the city yesterday.

Twenty members of the Japanese legation guard, reinforced yesterday by 600 troops from Tientsin, mounted the east wall of Peiping and ordered the Chinese garrison to evacuate immediately.

The Chinese forces at the garrison were among a portion of the Nanking occupying troops which failed to participate in yesterday's retreat to the south which was launched on orders of Gen. Ho Ying-Ching, Chinese commandant.

In demanding that the Chinese evacuate, the Japanese troops declared they "menaced" Japanase residents of the district.

Flying Jap Chief Killed by Chinese

TOKIO, May 24.—(AP.)—A Rengo (Japanese News Agency dispatch from Chinchow, Manchuria, said today Col. Takayoshi Matsumuro, chief of the Japanese special military mission in Jehol Province, had been found dead in the wreckage of an airplane near Weichang, north of Jehol City.

It was believed Chinese bandits shot down the plane. The body of the pilot also was found.

Ex-Ministers Thrive On Whisky, Drys Told

LOS ANGELES, May 24.—(AP.)—A meeting of dry leaders, including Methodist ministers and members of the W. C. T. U., was thrown into an uproar yesterday as the youthful Dr. Kenneth W. Taber, former chief police surgeon of Pasadena, calmly told his listeners he had administered whisky to retired Methodist ministers and that they had "thrived on it and lived longer."

An aged man stood and, pounding with his cane, shouted:

"I'm 84 years old and I've never taken a drop in all my life."

Dr. Taber replied:

A W. C. T. U. member asked:

"Isn't it true, Doctor, that liquor is poison?"

He answered:

Another inquired:

"Isn't it true that they have abandoned the use of whisky at the Philadelphia Memorial Hospital?"

Said the doctor:

TRADE UPTURN IN DISTRICT EXTENDED

New economic arms today were pulling the Pittsburgh district industrial machine out of the rut of depression on the road to business recovery, in the opinion of observers within the affected industries.

The Duquesne Light Company announced the first pickup in industrial power consumption in several months, indicating considerably more power is being used in manufacturing in general.

STEEL AT HIGH

Steel production in this section jumped to a new high for the year at 33 per cent of capacity, according to the magazine Steel.

And buoying these signals of business improvement is the first report of a slight increase in building construction here in more than a year. This is significant, experts point out, because the building field is always the last to react to a return of prosperity.

More requests for building information have been made at the Pittsburgh Builders' Exchange in the past three weeks than at any other time during the past year, it was announced today. "Some noticeable pickup in the building trade" was reported by McCrady-Rodgers Company.

BOOM PREDICTED

Once industry has started smoothly upward, a building boom is anticipated by many contractors, because of a growing shortage of houses. One index to this shortage is given by a comparison of building permit and marriage licenses issued in Allegheny County from 1925 to 1932:

Year.	Homes Built.	Licenses.
1926	2,781	5,535
1927	2,540	5,176
1928	2,760	4,987
1929	2,118	5,147
1930	1,300	4,585
1931	920	3,656
1932	192	5,018

Approximately $100,000,000 of federal building construction will get under way within the next three months, according to reports today from Washington. The Treasury will immediately advertise for bids on sites and buildings to the extent of $50,000,000 and will be prepared to advertise for another $50,000,000 within 90 days.

Improvement in employment conditions continues to be reported by the steel companies. More than 1,000 men in the Edgar Thomson work of the Carnegie Steel Company will be given full-time employment starting Friday or Saturday, rolling 12,460 tons of steel rails for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, it was announced.

CAR ORDERS JUMP

The Pressed Steel Car Company reported that since May 1 it has received orders for more than 4,200 cast steel sideframes, one order alone approximating 1,200 tons of cast steel. This is the largest order the company has received for more than a year, and will keep 200 men busy six weeks.

Receivers of the company said that orders taken from May 1 have a greater volume than the total tonnage shipped during the first four months of 1933.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation will start its second blast furnace at Eliza next week. Although no additional men will be employed, those already on the payroll will be given more work-hours, it was reported.

A wage increase of 5 per cent affecting 500 women employes was announced today by Roland L. Spaide, president of the Spaide Shirt Company, Butler.

HASSEL-LINKED BREWERY HIT

PHILADELPHIA, May 24.—(AP.)—The Federal District Court today had closed but had not locked the judicial door against the moves of the Harrison Beverage Company, of Harrison, N. J., to restrain the government from proceedings to revoke its brewing permit.

Judge Oliver B. Dickinson denied an application of the brewery for a temporary injunction to halt revocation hearing now under way in Newark, N. J., but he did not grant the government's motion to dismiss the bill of complaint.

Dr. Ambrose Hunsberger, acting supervisor of industrial alcohol, started the hearing after the slaying of Max Hassel, Reading, Pa., beer baron, and Max Greenberg, New York, in a hotel in Elizabeth, N. J. The government charges that Hassel was one of the real owners of the brewery, but that the application for a permit fraudulently concealed this fact.

Woman Judge Drops 'Four O'Clock' Suit

NEW YORK, May 24.—(AP.)—Discontinuance of a suit instituted by former Magistrate Jean Norris against the authors of the play "Four O'Clock," which was produced last February, was announced yesterday by Arthur Garfield Hays, attorney.

Hays made public a letter from the authors, Nan O'Reilly and Rupert Darrell, in which they expressed regret that the character of a woman judge in their play may have been misinterpreted to reflect upon the integrity of Mrs. Norris.

"I Can't Afford to Look Dowdy Even on My Salary"

She's a secretary right over here in one of the larger office buildings near us. Her salary has been cut by the depression, as whose hasn't. But the times haven't dulled her good judgment. Not by a jugfull! "I can't afford to be dowdy or I'll be going along forever on the money I'm making," she told us. "I've got to be cheerful and I have to look smart."

Because they know that we constantly display the last-minute fashion flashes, many of them modeled on the most expensive originals, all priced to slide unobtrusively into the most limited budget. And when there's a sale like this tomorrow, you should see the numbers of them!

TAKEN FOR RIDE BY KIDNAPERS, BOY SAYS

Wilmer Kroll, 18, a student at Oliver High School, today told a seeming unbelievable tale of adventures as a victim of two husky kidnapers. They dropped him off last night in New Castle, he said, after finding his people were poor.

Back at his home, 2647 Brighton road, he declared that two men halted him a block from his home yesterday morning when he started for school. He explained:

"One was over 40—a huge man weighing well over 200 pounds. The other, also husky, weighed about 175 and was a little over 30 years of age. The young one kept his hand in his pocket, as though he had a gun. They told me to come along.

"I was afraid the one would shoot, and walked with them through Highland Cemetery, and they put me in a car, taped my eyes with surgeons gauze, and drove me around all day."

He was scared only part of the time, young Kroll said. After driving around for many hours, the journey became monotonous, but the men would not permit him to remove his blindfold, although he was not bound. They abandoned plans to release him earlier in the day, he says, deciding to wait until late at night for the sake of safety. After he was let out near New Casle, on Croton Hill, he made his way to the nearest house and there telephoned his father, Alex Kroll, a Pittsburgh contractor. The elder Kroll drove to New Castle and fetched his son home, after notifying the New Castle police.

We Sent Our "Handy Book for Boys" Away to School!

We don't guess about how well you'll like the things we sell at Gimbels. We can't afford to. Our business is to find out before we ask you to buy. To test any items we're not sure of in some good sound laboratory. And we did just that with the new "Gimbels Handy Book for Boys" that we're selling at $1.

We had a hunch that boys would "eat it up." Because it's all about camping out, collecting stamps, magic and handcraft—the things boys like to do in vacation time. But we didn't know. So we sent the book away to school. We asked the principal of one of the largest Pittsburgh schools to loan it to twelve of his regular, freckled-face kids. When they said "Gee, I'd like to own that book!", we knew your boy would, too.

Tomorrow is a holiday for many school children. The "Handy Book" is only one of the things we have to interest them. There's one whole floor devoted to toys and games and children's wear. Take it from us, you can leave them on "The Fourth" and shop for yourself with the complete assurance that they'll be there when you get back!

CLUBS FIGHTING INCREASED U. S. GASOLINE TAX

Protests against proposed increases in the federal gasoline tax now before Congress were voiced today by the Pittsburgh Motor Club in the form of telegrams to Senators Reed and Davis and to Western Pennsylvania representatives asking defeat of the bill. Similar telegrams were sent by the Westmoreland Motor Club, the Apollo Motor Club and the Kittanning Motor Club, affiliated with the Pittsburgh organization.

C. H. Roth, secretary of the Pittsburgh club, said:

"Motor vehicle taxation has already passed the point of diminishing returns and an additional federal tax at this time is likely to prove as much a failure as the 3-cent postage passed during the Hoover administration. Oppressive gasoline taxation in Southern states has seriously crippled the sales and operation of full-sized automobiles. Entrance of the national government into gasoline taxes on a large scale is a serious threat to the automotive and oil industries which must be depended upon to help bring this country back to normal business standing."

The Pennsylvania gasoline tax is 3 cents per gallon and the present federal tax is 1 cent. The proposed measure would bring the tax here to 4¾ cents per gallon or almost 50 per cent of the present retail price of motor gasoline, which is selling at 10½ cents without tax.

Losses attributed to overtaxation of motorists and diversion of their funds during 1932 were approximately $1,415,000,000, the club report declares. It places the taxation loss due to decreased consumption of gasoline at $35,000,000; loss to business through 1,736,114 fewer cars on the highways at $347,222,800; loss in gasoline sales with corresponding loss in wages and salaries at $116,602,000, and loss to the automotive industry through 42.6 per cent decline in sales at $917,000,000.

TWO ON TRIAL IN BANK CASE

Horace S. Whiteman, former cashier and vice president of the Clearfield National Bank, at Clearfield, is on trial before Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker on charges of misapplying funds and credits of the bank.

Arnold Bishop Shaw, treasurer of the Clearfield Central Garage Company, a co-defendant, charged with aiding and abetting Whiteman, is also on trial. Whiteman, according to the indictment, accepted unsecured notes to cover checks drawn by Shaw.

Offers to Sell Baby to Feed 3 Others

AURORA, Ill., May 24.—(INS.)—Mrs. Eva Leino was awaiting a response today to her want ad inserted in a local newspaper offering to sell her 3-year-old daughter for $500 in order to care for three other children.

The offer read:

"Will sell one smart and beautiful baby girl, 3 years old, for $500 as the last source of living, or will exchange for a few days a week's work for its father to make a living for the remaining five in family."

FORMER TECH CASHIER DIES

Herman Stearns Davis, Sr., former cashier at Carnegie Institute of Technology, was found dead last night in the bathroom of his home, 4323 Andover terrace, the Coroner's office reported. Mr. Davis' body was found by his wife.

Dr. John M. Thorn attributed death to a cerebral hemorrhage. Mr. Davis' son, Herman Stearns Davis, Jr., a cadet flier at Kelly Field, Texas, was killed in a plane crash, May 4.

VOTE ON JUDGE OUSTER NEARS

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(AP.)—The Louderback impeachment trial was brought today to the final stage, ready for the jury of 89 Senators, to decide whether the California Federal Judge shall be removed from office.

Closing arguments by House prosecutors and defense counsel alone were needed this morning to fill in the last paragraphs of the record in the proceedings against Judge Louderback charging malfeasance in appointment of receivers and attorneys and fees granted them.

Conviction on any one would be sufficient to remove Judge Louderback from office automatically.

Clarence M. Young Resigns Air Post

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(AP.)—Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, has formally requested President Roosevelt to relieve him of his duties not later than June 15.

He has been with the Commerce Department since the aeronautics branch was established in 1926. It is understood the office will be abolished under the government reorganization plan now in the making.

'DOVE OF PEACE' DEBTOR TO MORGAN

his mouth as he interposes his wit and sarcasm between Pecora and Morgan; with McAdoo, of California; Steiwer, of Oregan; Gore, of Oklahoma, and Byrnes, of South Carolina, all firing away. Mostly at the moon.

So far as the public hearing goes, the matter actually brought out one gets the impression of Einstein being questioned regarding the solar system by a high school class. The whole swing of questioning and testimony today is around the rights, privileges and powers of private banking.

Inferentially, at least, Mr. Pecora, with voice, eyebrows and protruding lower lip, imputes much sin to Morgan and his partners. To which imputations the overman, incessantly smiling, frequently laughing aloud in his heavy, pleasant voice, continues his instruction in the act of private banking for the benefit of senators who seem greatly in need of it.

Under all prod- pokes and provocations Lorenzo the Magnificent preserves his unruffled good humor, maintains his attitude of a casual visitor in a menagerie—Gulliver among the Lilliputians.

Pecora, an earnest gentleman, from whose cradle the good fairies omitted a sense of humor, grows more pained as the hearing proceeds, and is now beginning to flinch as Carter Glass' rasping drawl is raised in bored interruption of his questions and his tactics.

Young George Whitney, of the Morgan firm, is now batting for the overman, explaining the pure and altruistic purposes of the House of Morgan in lending some ten million to Charles E. Mitchell four days after the stock market crash, and blandly rejecting any suggestion that Morgan made the loan to get a tailhold on the proposed merger of the National City and Corn Exchange banks; gently showing that the Morgan private bank was at greater pains to protect its capital and depositors than the examined public banks—so the hearing goes on into the early afternoon with the Senate committee and earnest Pecora still pecking at the overman and getting nobody knows where. But behind all this is drama—blazing drama—and it will yet flash out.

WIFE ON STAND, CLERK FLEES

John O. Burkey, of West View, rushed crying from the courtroom today as his wife, Mrs. Carrie Grace Burkey, also weeping, testified in his divorce action, which she is opposing.

Mrs. Burkey denied Burkey's charges that she was friendly with two dentists or any other men, that she caressed his brother Ralph Burkey, of Malvern, Pa., on an auto ride. She denied, too, threatening him with a butcher knife, and she complained that he refused to take her places.

Burkey, a railway postal clerk, admitted that he had an ungovernable temper and had slapped his wife a half-dozen times.

HINT INSANITY FOR HARRIMAN

NEW YORK, May 24.—(INS.)—Belief grew today that Joseph W. Harriman, former head of the Harriman National Bank and Trust Company, will plead insanity when he goes to trial on indictments charging him with falsification of the books of his bank.

Harriman was back in the Regent nursing home following his discharge from the Nassau County Hospital at Mineola, where he was taken after he attempted suicide last Saturday.

He is scheduled to go on trial in Federal Court next Monday, but it was considered probable that a postponement would be taken, due to his physical condition.

SWOPE BARES MITCHELL 'FAKE'

NEW YORK, May 24.—(AP.)—Through Gerard Swope the government obtained testimony today that after Charles E. Mitchell sold stock to Mrs. Mitchell "to record a loss" so that he would have to pay no income tax in 1929 he then made a claim on the National City Company in an effort to avoid loss on the stock.

Mitchell, former chairman of the National City Bank and National City Company, is on trial for evading income taxes in 1929 and 1930 by allegedly fake sales of stock. Swope is a director in both National City Bank and National City Company.

Swope testified concerning an informal meeting of National City Company directors in March of last year at which he said Mitchell made his claim "in broad terms," saying that he had originally bought the stock in behalf of National City Company and suggesting that the company ought to "hold him harmless."

Mitchell bought National City Bank stock in 1929 with money he borrowed from the Morgans, who held the stock as collateral. He then sold part of it to his wife, although there has been testimony that the Morgans were not informed of this.

ENVOY DAVIS AND DAWES NAMED MORGAN BORROWERS

Morgan partner, disclosed details of one of the loans, an advance of about $10,000,000 to Mitchell, former head of the National City Bank. He said it was now under-collateralized," but guarded by a reserve set up against it of more than $3,000,000.

The loan to Mitchell was said by Whitney to have been made to aid the National City head in maintaining the parity of his bank stock with the stock of the Corn Exchange Bank, with which a merger was contemplated.

First standing, and then sitting beside Morgan, Whitney said the firm had $18,000,000 in reserves set aside against "under-collateralized" loans.

Some Morgan partners are indebted to the firm, he said, without mentioning names.

MORGAN AT EASE

At ease, despite a shower of questions from Pecora and committee members, Morgan said he did not know the circumstances of the loans.

He told the committee new members were sometimes admitted to the firm without advancing capital.

ROOM CROWDED

The big, marble-lined committee room was filled almost an hour before the hearing began today, with half the spectators women.

The advance guard of the Morgan party arrived a full hour ahead of time with a trunk and suitcase full of documents.

Members of the committee and Pecora, committee counsel, were slow in arriving and their seats were vacant when the rest of the room was packed.

One of the first arrivals was Leonard Keyes, office manager of the international Morgan house, who testified yesterday that none of the 20 Morgan partners paid an income tax in 1931 and 1932.

Morgan, accompanied by his counsel and a number of his banking partners, reached the committee room at 9:50 a. m.

In an interview, Morgan denied reports he would retire at the conclusion of the Senate investigation. He said:

"I have heard nothing about it."

Thomas W. Lamont, his right-hand partner, also denied the report.

Morgan was dressed as on the first day in a conservative blue business suit. But this time he wore a black and white checked tie with a stick-pin.

MORGAN JOKES

Chairman Fletcher and Senator Goldsborough (Rep.), of Maryland, were the first committeemen to arrive.

Called to the stand, Morgan took the same seat he occupied yesterday near the middle of the long committee table.

John W. Davis, white-haired former Democratic presidential candidate and now Morgan counsel, was immediately behind him.

The committee counsel opened the hearing by addressing Morgan:

"You were asked yesterday whether your firm had made any loans to individual officers or directors of commercial banks."

Morgan nodded.

The counsel then recited that the committee had decided to put the list on record.

After Morgan had identified it by saying, "I am informed it is correct," the list went into the record.

Amounts loaned were not included on the list, which included the names of Norman H. Davis—now the administration's ambassador-at-large in Europe—, former Vice President Charles G. Dawes and Myron C. Taylor, of the United States Steel Corporation.

The record showed that the latter two had paid off their loans.

Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City Bank now on trial for income tax evasion, was on the list. He has disclosed that the loan to him has $6,000,000 outstanding, though it was larger at first.

One loan was listed to a joint account participated in by Harvey D. Gibson, Mortimer N. Buckner, and Artemus L. Dates. It was marked as still unpaid.

Morgan testified they were connected with the New York Trust Company, but no date of the advance was given.

DAVIS LOAN QUIZ

Pecora asked about the loan to Norman H. Davis. Morgan answered:

George Whitney, a partner in the firm, commented that it was a "very small loan."

In turn Pecora asked about details of other loans outstanding, mentioning F. C. Dumaine, of the First National Bank of Boston, and the loan to Charles E. Mitchell.

Morgan said:

"I don't know."

He suggested that Whitney be called and smiled as Pecora continued down the loan list. He said:

"I have to give you the same answer to all those questions about details of loans outstanding."

Another clash occurred between committee members over the course of the inquiry.

Senator Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, was again protesting, but Chairman Fletcher insisted the inquiry should go on as a basis for bank legislation. Pecora asked:

"With respect to chartered banks, you are familiar with the limits or the amount of loans to a single individual?"

Morgan said:

"I am roughly familiar with it."

"Do you approve of the principle of such a limitation?"

"I don't know enough about it. It is a matter of legislation which must be conformed to by commercial banks."

"You have no opinion of its reasonableness?"

NO OPINION

Senator Glass interrupted to say that for 40 years Congress had held the opinion such loans should be limited to 10 per cent. He added:

"I don't believe an opinion of Mr. Morgan would alter Congress opinion."

Pecora asked:

"Have you any opinion of the wisdom of applying such limitations to private banks?"

Morgan replied:

"My opinion is it wouldn't be necessary."

Pecora asked if J. P. Morgan & Co. had opposed New York state legislation for more extensive examination of private banks.

"I don't know of my own knowledge."

"Is the failure of your firm to advertise as a bank intended to avoid examination?"

"That is the natural conclusion."

"Why do you object to this investigation which is given commercial banks?"

"I object because our relations with our clients are much more confidential than the relations between a commercial bank and its customers can be."

LEGISLATION OPPOSED

As to putting private banks under the same legal regulation as commercial banks, Pecora asked of Glass whether he had overlooked that "such legislation has been opposed and that Congress might want to do something on its own account?"

Glass commented that he "didn't think Congress had authority for such legislation."

Fletcher broke in to say that banks did an interstate business and he didn't doubt that Congress had authority. Glass said nothing had been done and Fletcher then shot at him:

"Yes, a banking subcommittee has been trying to frame legislation for two years, but it hasn't done anything."

Glass heads the subcommittee which has been framing banking legislation. He flushed and looked over his spectacles at Fletcher.

Morgan said:

"I think the chief reason why our relation to our depositors is more confidential than those of a commercial bank, is that we have no board of directors, no shareholders. We can work swiftly, do what we want to do. Lots of people don't want directors to know their private affairs."

Senator Couzens commented dryly:

Morgan smiled whenever there was dispute between committee members.

Pecora asked:

"So you think the chief difference between the relation of a commercial and private bank to their depositors is that the latter have no directors and shareholders?"

Morgan said:

"Well, they have certain limitations by law and get certain privileges."

He submitted a prepared statement as to the differences and that was put into the record.

DEPOSITOR STATEMENT

Pecora asked Morgan if his firm ever had given a depositor a statement of its position.

Morgan replied:

"A depositor could have had one, but nobody has ever asked for one.

"My father made that statement before on the stand in the Pujo investigation."

He added that this investigation was "the only public statement we ever made about anything."

Barkley (Dem.), of Kentucky, asked if, when a new partner comes into the firm, as S. Parker Gilbert did on January 2, 1931, he puts in any cash.

Morgan replied:

"Not necessarily. He is assigned a portion of the profits and losses in the same proportion. There is no capital."

Barkley asked:

"There is nothing standing to the new partners' credit?"

"Not until profits come in."

Couzens asked:

"If there are no profits?"

"Then he is assigned a loss and works it off."

"Do you get a financial statement of a new partner?"

"No, we know them pretty well before we get them in."

In reply to Glass, Morgan said he wanted Gilbert in the firm because of his expert knowledge, especially of the foreign field.

WHITNEY TESTIFIES

George Whitney, one of the Morgan partners, testified that some members of the firm were indebted to it, but he gave no names.

As to the loan to Charles E. Mitchell, placed at $10,000,000, Whitney said it was made to aid him in maintaining a parity between National City Bank stock and stock of the Corn Exchange Bank, with which it was being merged. The merger was never consummated, however.

The outstanding portion of this loan, $5,800,000, is now under-collateralized, it was asserted, but reserves have been set up against it.

Whitney's testimony was given while he stood back of Morgan, the formal witness.

On some members of the firm being indebted to it, he said he could not give the amounts or names without checking the books. Whitney said he also could not recall whether the loans were backed by collateral, but said these were deducted from the net worth of the firm.

Whitney testified the firm had set up $18,000,000 in reserves to cover "under - collateralized" loans.

In reply to questions, Morgan said he had not "found government supervision had changed the banking situation much." He added:

"I still hear of banks on the edge. The examination seems to make little difference."

The whole room broke into laughter when he said, "No, we would not," when asked if Chairman Fletcher could come to his company unintroduced and deposit $10,000.

Fletcher commented:

"Then I suppose I couldn't borrow $10,000."

Morgan said:

"No, not unless you were introduced, Senator."

MITCHELL MORTGAGE

The financier said his firm did not make loans on real estate.

Bulkley (Dem.), of Ohio, asked:

"How about the mortgage on the home of Charles E. Mitchell?"

Morgan said:

"That was additional security, called for later."

'Experience' Discusses Gigolo

Twelve budding American concert stars are to be heard over combined coast-to-coast NBC networks, including WCAE and KDKA, as they compete in Minneapolis tonight for laurels in the National Young Artists' Contest.

The finals, the culmination of state and district competitions conducted by the State Federations of Music Clubs, go on the air for an hour beginning at 11:30 p. m. Classifications represented in the broadcast, with two artists appearing in each, are woman's voice, man's voice, opera voice, violin, piano and 'cello.

Lawrence Tibbett, Dr. Frederick Stock, Albert Spalding, Ernest Schelling, Rudolph Ganz and A. Walter Kramer head the judging committee. Prizes are $1,000 in each classification and in addition, two of the winners will be selected for appearances with a major symphony orchestra in New York.

* * *

Gigolo Problem

To be or not to be—a gigolo. The question has been raised by an actor who, at the point of starvation, accepted $100 to escort a dowager to the opera and now finds himself with a steady clientele. The Voice of Experience dicusses the idea pro and con via WJAS at 8 p. m.

* * *

With "What is Delinquency?" as his topic, Judge Benjamin Lencher is to be heard over WWSW at 8:45 p. m. during a broadcast from the Retail Research Bureau's banquet at McCreery's. Arthur C. Kaufmann, general manager of McCreery's, is toastmaster.

* * *

A trio composed of Letha Frazier Rankin, soprano; Viola Brygerson, contralto, and Jean Newman, and the KDKA male quartet—Arthur Ray Davis and J. Dickson Fulton, tenors; Reed Kennedy, baritone, and Russell Mitchell, bass—with Helen Bell Rush, soprano, as soloist, come into the "Pittsburgh Spotlight" at 6 p. m.

* * *

The CBS chain carrying the Fred Waring programs is increased by 20 stations tonight, making a total of approximately 80—said to be the largest network broadcasting a regular weekly feature.

* * *

Fannie Brice

Fannie Brice sings Helen Morgan's torch song from "Show Boat," "My Bill," on WCAE at 8 . . . Mildred Bailey's selections for WJAS at 7 are "Honey, Don't You Love Me Anymore?" "Ghost of a Chance" and "Georgia."

* * *

For the music lovers:

Chopin and Liszt, by Levitski, WCAE at 10:30.

The United States Marine Band, with Helen Corbin Heinl as piano soloist, KDKA at 9:30.

Act II of the Gilbert and Sullivan romantic comedy opera, "Yeoman of the Guard," WJAS at 10:45.

'Ump' Quigley Seals' Guest

Baseball, mushball and volleyball have their innings on the Trained Seals' weekly WCAE bill tonight at 6:45 with Umpire Ernie Quigley, National League veteran; Harry Sparr, "father" of mushball in Pittsburgh, and Harry Batchelor, the area's volleyball sponsor, as guest speakers.

Air Drama Based On Love Triangle

Baron Evades Lie-Detector On Radio

By AIRCASTER

The importance of Chicago as a source of novel radio entertainment seems to be growing. Perhaps the alertness of its studio showmen has been intensified by national interest in the world's fair.

Closely following the announcement that a Chicago savant would undertake to gauge the intelligence of the radio audience by means of an NBC broadcast, comes the news that on June 1, the Northwestern University will stage on the WJZ-KDKA network a demonstration of the scientific detection of crime by application of the lie detector and a potion known as truth serum by which, theoretically at least, subjects under observation may be forced to tell the truth.

But with all their alertness, the showmen in Chicago have failed to note that it will be more or less simultaneous with the show featuring Jack Pearl, the air's Baron Munchausen. It is almost criminal negligence on their part not to merge the two Broadcasts and apply the lie detector and the truth serum to the baron's glib and tall narratives.

Applause and Hisses

The gents who pay the bills for one of the WABC programs are hiring a hall—Carnegie—for future broadcasts because they believe that audience applause helps the show.

It should help, as Frank Black once pointed out, if the rest of the listeners don't resent it, because most studio applause is done by cue. Director signal the looker-onners, and a wave of cheering and handclapping follows. The applause is the heartier because the audience gets in free and will clap hands whether the show is good, bad or indifferent.

But I can't help anticipating the day when some courageous onlooker will work up enough individuality if he happens not to like the performance, to hiss right out loud.

Junior Patrol on WCAE Today

The weekly Junior Patrol program featuring Quin Hall, Sun-Telegraph cartoonist, and his three comic-page characters, Junior, Snuggins and Spike, is presented on WCAE at 4:45 today. The Prospect Junior High orchestra directed by Miss Emma O'Donnell is the guest ensemble unit.

Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, goes on the air daily with the latest bulletins over WCAE at 9:05 a. m., and WCAE-WJAS at 12:15 p. m., 2:15 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

Globe-Trotting

With the Globe-Trotter Of the Sun-Telegraph-Hearst Metrotone News

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Football in August is scheduled for the World's Fair at Chicago. The Mid-West stars will play the Pacific Coast star college players of last year. Bill Hinchman, Pirate scout, is all blowed up about his boy Lou, Ohio State backfield ace, who was picked by Dick Hanley for the Mid-West team.

* * *

Pittsburgh and vicinity is well represented at the Fort George Meade Forest corps, Maryland. The boys from here are all happy and content, as well as industrious. Angello Alu, Verona, has been appointed head work sergeant; John Maleski, Natrona, and Leo Fisher, Clairton, are section commanders.

* * *

Congratulate William Gorman, of Pitcairn. Last night he graduated from Pitcairn High School, leaving a perfect record for other students to shoot at. In 12 years' school attendance he has never been absent or late.

* * *

It took me time, but here is the answer to the frustrated gardener who has almost worn himself to a frazzle trying to get rid of ants. Digging the hills up and transplanting them was only healthful exercise on your part. Get some carbon bisulphide, put it in an oil can. Punch holes in the ant hill and earth nearby. Squirt the carbon bisulphide in the holes and then cover with paper.

The injured party in the motor accident in front of Isaly's ice cream place on the Boulevard of the Allies can have his glasses by contacting Stanley Bryson, 343 Ladson street.

REDUCE NOW
WITHOUT THYROID
WITHOUT DIET

Here's wonderful news for women who want to make their figures slim and lovely. A great physician, who has specialized in research with the Pasteur Institute of Paris and famous clinics of America, has discovered an absolutely harmless tablet that will take off 8 or 10 pounds a month.

Now it is absurd for anyone to take dangerous drugs, or a daily dose of laxative salts that rushes food through the system half digested, and leads to chronic constipation. The new treatment contains no Thyroid Extract, no laxative drugs at all. It is a safe, natural regulator of the digestive ferments (Lipases) which control the production of fat in all human bodies.

You don't have to starve yourself or go through painful exercises. You simply take the tablets each day and continue to eat three ample meals. The fat disappears at just the places where you want to lose it. We will donate $500 to charity if anyone can prove that Vannay contains Thyroid, Iodine or any harmful drugs.

Start the treatment at once and all your fondest dreams of health and slim loveliness should come true. Ask your druggist for Vannay and be sure to see that name on the package. If he doesn't have Vannay, insist that he orders it for you.

WANTED

Every Man and Woman who is overweight and wants to reduce safely without using dangerous drugs, harsh laxatives, strenuous exercises, or severe diets should use the new reducing food called SYL-VETTE. This new system of reducing is simply a food sufficiently rich in non-fattening proteins, carbohydrates and vitamines to furnish enough nourishment to keep you from feeling hungry or weak. Just one teaspoonful of Syl-Vette takes the place of breakfast or lunch and has absolutely proven the fact that by reducing the amount of food you eat each day, excess fat will soon vanish, because food and food alone creates fat. Syl-Vette is the one absolutely safe way to reduce and is guaranteed not to contain any thyroid or other harmful drugs or ingredients. 30-day treatment only $1. Ask any of these Department Stores about Syl-Vette: JOSEPH HORNE CO., ROSENBAUM CO., BOGGS & BUHL, GIMBELS or McCREERY'S.

BEER LICENSING PROCEDURE IN CONFUSION

plied for licenses today. With tomorrow's anticipated rush, more than 4,000 applications will have been made in Allegheny County.

More than a few applicants have been rejected because they do not live in the municipality in which they propose to sell the brew.

CLASH IN RULES

The Treasurer's office today received the Attorney General's interpretation of the bill from Harrisburg. Anke's interpretation differs on three points one being the deadline for applications. The Attorney General's office indicates that licenses may be granted at any time during the year.

Anke said that licenses would be refused applicants whose places are within 300 feet of schools.

But the Attorney General's office advises that Treasurers have no discretionary power to refuse licenses on such grounds.

Anke said also that counter stools would be counted under the requirement which calls for 10 tables and 40 chairs in an establishment.

The Attorney General's interpretation is that the stools (more than one) must be in addition to the 40 chairs at 10 tables.

However, the Attorney General's office emphasizes that its interpretation was gratuitous, and not binding.

Anke said the first list of successful applicants will be announced probably Monday.

LIBERAL VIEWS

Anke said that licenses will not be refused persons who have been convicted of crimes unless it is shown that such persons were habitual offenders of the laws. First impression was that one-time law violators were being turned down.

The state's opinion, prepared by Wilhelm F. Knaur, special deputy attorney general, interprets the McClure bill in this way, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Harrisburg:

"Eating places," to which the sale of 3.2 beer for consumption on the premises is limited, must have 300 square feet of floor space in one room. Two 150 square foot rooms, joined by a doorway or arch, won't qualify. With a 300 square foot room as the starting point, however, beer can be carried and sold in adjoining rooms.

An "eating place" is essentially an indoor establishment. No provisions are made for outdoor establishments, and a beer garden is possible only where operated in conjunction with a legal "eating place."

"REPUTABLE" DEALERS

The law does not prohibit treasurers from granting licenses to persons convicted of any offense during the three years preceding the application. Failure to note such conviction, however, would be ground for filing a remonstrance to the local court under the section requiring licensees to be "reputable" individuals.

Distributors need not be residents of the county in which they apply for licenses, but must have lived in the state three years. They may sell beverages outside the county, borough or municipality in which they are located.

A distributor is not restricted as to the minimum quantity he may sell to one person, may not conduct a bottling business and may break original packages and sell in less than case lots.

Drug stores may be licensed as retailers if they have a legal "eating place" and, in any event, may be licensed as distributors to sell for consumption at home.

BEER NEAR CHURCH O. K.

County treasurers have no discretionary power to refuse retailers' licenses because of the proximity of a church, school or public building, or because a poolroom or bowling alley is operated on the premises.

Beverages may be drawn from spigots attached to a lunch counter.

Employment of minors as waiters or waitresses in beer-retailing "eating places" is not regulated by the McClure act.

Sales after midnight are legal, except between the hours of midnight, Saturday, and 6 a. m., Monday, and on election days.

Receivers of bankrupt corporations are not eligible for licenses. A license granted to an individual may be transferred to a qualified corporation.

Treasurers must approve bonds before granting applications and bonds must be filed with the applications.

Licenses may be granted after June 1. The department's bulletin states:

"A reasonable interpretation should be given to permit the granting of a license at any time during the year, providing the application has been on file at least one week before being granted and payment is made of the license fee for the entire year."

WOMAN BEATEN, PAIR HELD

Charles Rodgers, 48, of 918 Climax street, was held for court today in connection with the beating up of a woman 84 years old.

Mrs. Mary Kampi, of 2357 South Eighteenth street extension, appeared in South Side Police Court to testify against him. Her face was still bruised.

An alleged companion of Rodgers, Harry Kuenher, 46, of 2367 South Eighteenth street extension, was held for court on the same charge. Magistrate J. J. Sweeney set bail at $1,000 each.

The two men are accused of going to the rooming house kept by Mrs. Kampi on May 19 on the pretense of renting a room, and beating her in an effort to obtain money. Alonzo Letson, a neighbor, caught Rodgers at the time, according to the testimony. Kuenher was arrested later.

DANCER, RACKET CZAR SLAIN

NEW YORK, May 24.—(AP.)—In what authorities described as a flareup of the slot-machine racket, two gunmen invaded a Glendale, Long Island apartment last night and shot to death George Kelledy, 35, and a cabaret singer known as Kitty O'Brien, 26.

Neighbors heard the pistol shots, saw two men run out of the apartment and called police. Kelledy and the woman, known to neighbors as his wife, were shot through the head.

The authorities advanced two theories for the slaying: Retaliation for the slaying in Corona, Queens, a year ago of Louis Goldstein, alias Louis Cohen, a racketeer; or reprisal against Kelledy's usurption of slot-machine rights in the Glendale-Jamaica area.

Kelledy was held for three months in Goldstein's death and was released for lack of evidence.

TWO HELD HERE IN RACKET LINK

Joseph LaRose, 34, described by City Detective William Sullivan as a personal friend of the late Mike Duffy, big-time racketeer and cabaret owner in Philadelphia, and James Cathens, 37, were held by police today for investigation after their arrest in a hotel here.

Sullivan testified before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg that LaRose, a resident of Atlantic City, N. J., and Cathens, of Washington, were card sharps who came here to "clean up." Both were held for five days pending investigation.

Sullivan said LaRose was present when Duffy was killed in the Ambassador Hotel in Atlantic City in 1931.

Woman Saves Home From Bomb Damage

DENVER, May 24.—(INS.)—A woman's daring early today saved the home of Fred Schmitt, Denver orchestra leader, from possible serious damage by bombing.

Mrs. Alice Wiley, Schmitt's sister-in-law, heard something strike against the porch. She ran out of the house, picked up the bomb and tossed it back into the street before it exploded.

What Are You Going to Do About It?

''Wholesale murder for insurance latest racket in New York''—that is the headline in the New York American Tuesday over the splendid article on racketeering by Damon Runyon.

''This seems incredible,'' writes Runyon. '' 'This cannot be America,' you say, 'and it certainly cannot be in New York.' ''

But several individuals are under arrest in the Bronx on that very charge and the prosecutor insists he has a strong case against them. The truth or falsity of the charge will not be determined until after the trial, but, as Runyon points out, the case ''REFLECTS THE UTTER DEPRAVITY OF THE GENUS RACKETEER.''

And in an adjoining column, this meets the eye—''rackets drive factories out.'' The story points out how legitimate business suffers, how willing workers are deprived of their right to support themselves and their families because their employers cannot meet the heavy exactions of the racketeers.

AND THIS IS IN 1933—IN NEW YORK.

And as it is in New York, so it is in the nation. No section is free of the racketeering blight.

When will it end? When an aroused populace sees to it that the constituted authorities stamp out organized crime and smashes the alliance between criminals and corrupt law-enforcement agencies.

When will that be? The answer rests with YOU.

WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO ABOUT IT?

'INSIDE STORY' JAILS MOBSTER

CHICAGO, May 24.—(INS.)—Arrested when he tried to sell for a few dollars the "inside story" of 200 gangland assassinations, Frank Beige, once a bodyguard for Al Capone, today was held for further questioning at the detective bureau.

Once a prosperous henchman of Capone, Beige is now destitute, he told police.

Beige was seized in Evanston when he offered to bare the details of some 200 gang assassinations to a newspaper reporter in exchange for a small fee. One of the murders in which he claimed to have taken part was that of Assistant State's Attorney William McSwiggin several years ago.

Installment No. 10.

MR. REED LEARNING HOW TO BUILD AN AIRPLANE WING

It was a bad day, so Bill was not surprised to learn that school flying had been suspended until the weather cleared. Having nothing to do he wandered over to the overhaul shop, where a big tri-motor airliner was getting its daily inspection.

"Come on and give Mac a hand washing her down. No use for ornaments around here," the crew chief called to Bill good naturedly.

"You wouldn't sleep well if you thought there was a guy around here who wasn't as busy as the proverbial one-armed paperhanger, would you?" Bill continued, laughing. "Where are the weapons?"

"You'll find them in that bucket, and don't miss half one side of the ship, as you did last time, either," the chief replied.

Bill armed with the necessary sponge and chamois began working on the side of the fuselage. "Great gang, these mechs," he thought as he watched them busily engaged about the big ship. Tom and Joe Ferguson, he saw were checking an outboard engine. The cowling was off, and every nut and bolt came in for the closest scrutiny. Both men were expert engine mechanics who had long ago passed the necessary Department of Commerce examinations on engines and their care, in addition to spending the required two years apprenticeship for their licenses. The chief himself was giving the plane a thorough going over. Ripping open the zipper fasteners of the inspection panels in the covering he examined the tubing and welds of fuselage and wings with the minutest care.

In the cockpit, George Landy was adjusting and testing the radio receiver and transmitter which was his pride. The boys at the airport could always tell if something had gone wrong with a ship's radio, because George would be seen looking as though his mother had died.

Engines Overhauled After 20 Hours Of Travel

"It's funny why people are scared to fly," Bill philosophized. "Guess it's just because they don't know any better. Of course some small unreliable outfits don't maintain their equipment properly and run a good chance of an accident, but then when they do everyone suffers. Just the same, it seems ridiculous that people won't differentiate. Here we are—our ships inspected before and after each flight. Engines top overhauled every 20 hours and completely overhauled every 350. Licensed pilots, mechanics and equipment, and yet if some half-baked pilot kills himself tomorrow we'll lose business even if we have been flying for six years and never killed anyone. There just isn't any Santa Claus."

ANSWER THES QUESTIONS

25—What is the difference between airway and airline?

26—What aids to navigation are provided on improved airways?

27—What factor determines the distance between intermediate fields?

When your list of questions and answers is complete, send them to the "Win Your Wings" Contest Editor, Sun-Telegraph, Telegraph Square, Pittsburgh, together with an essay of not more than 250 words on "Why I Want to Fly."

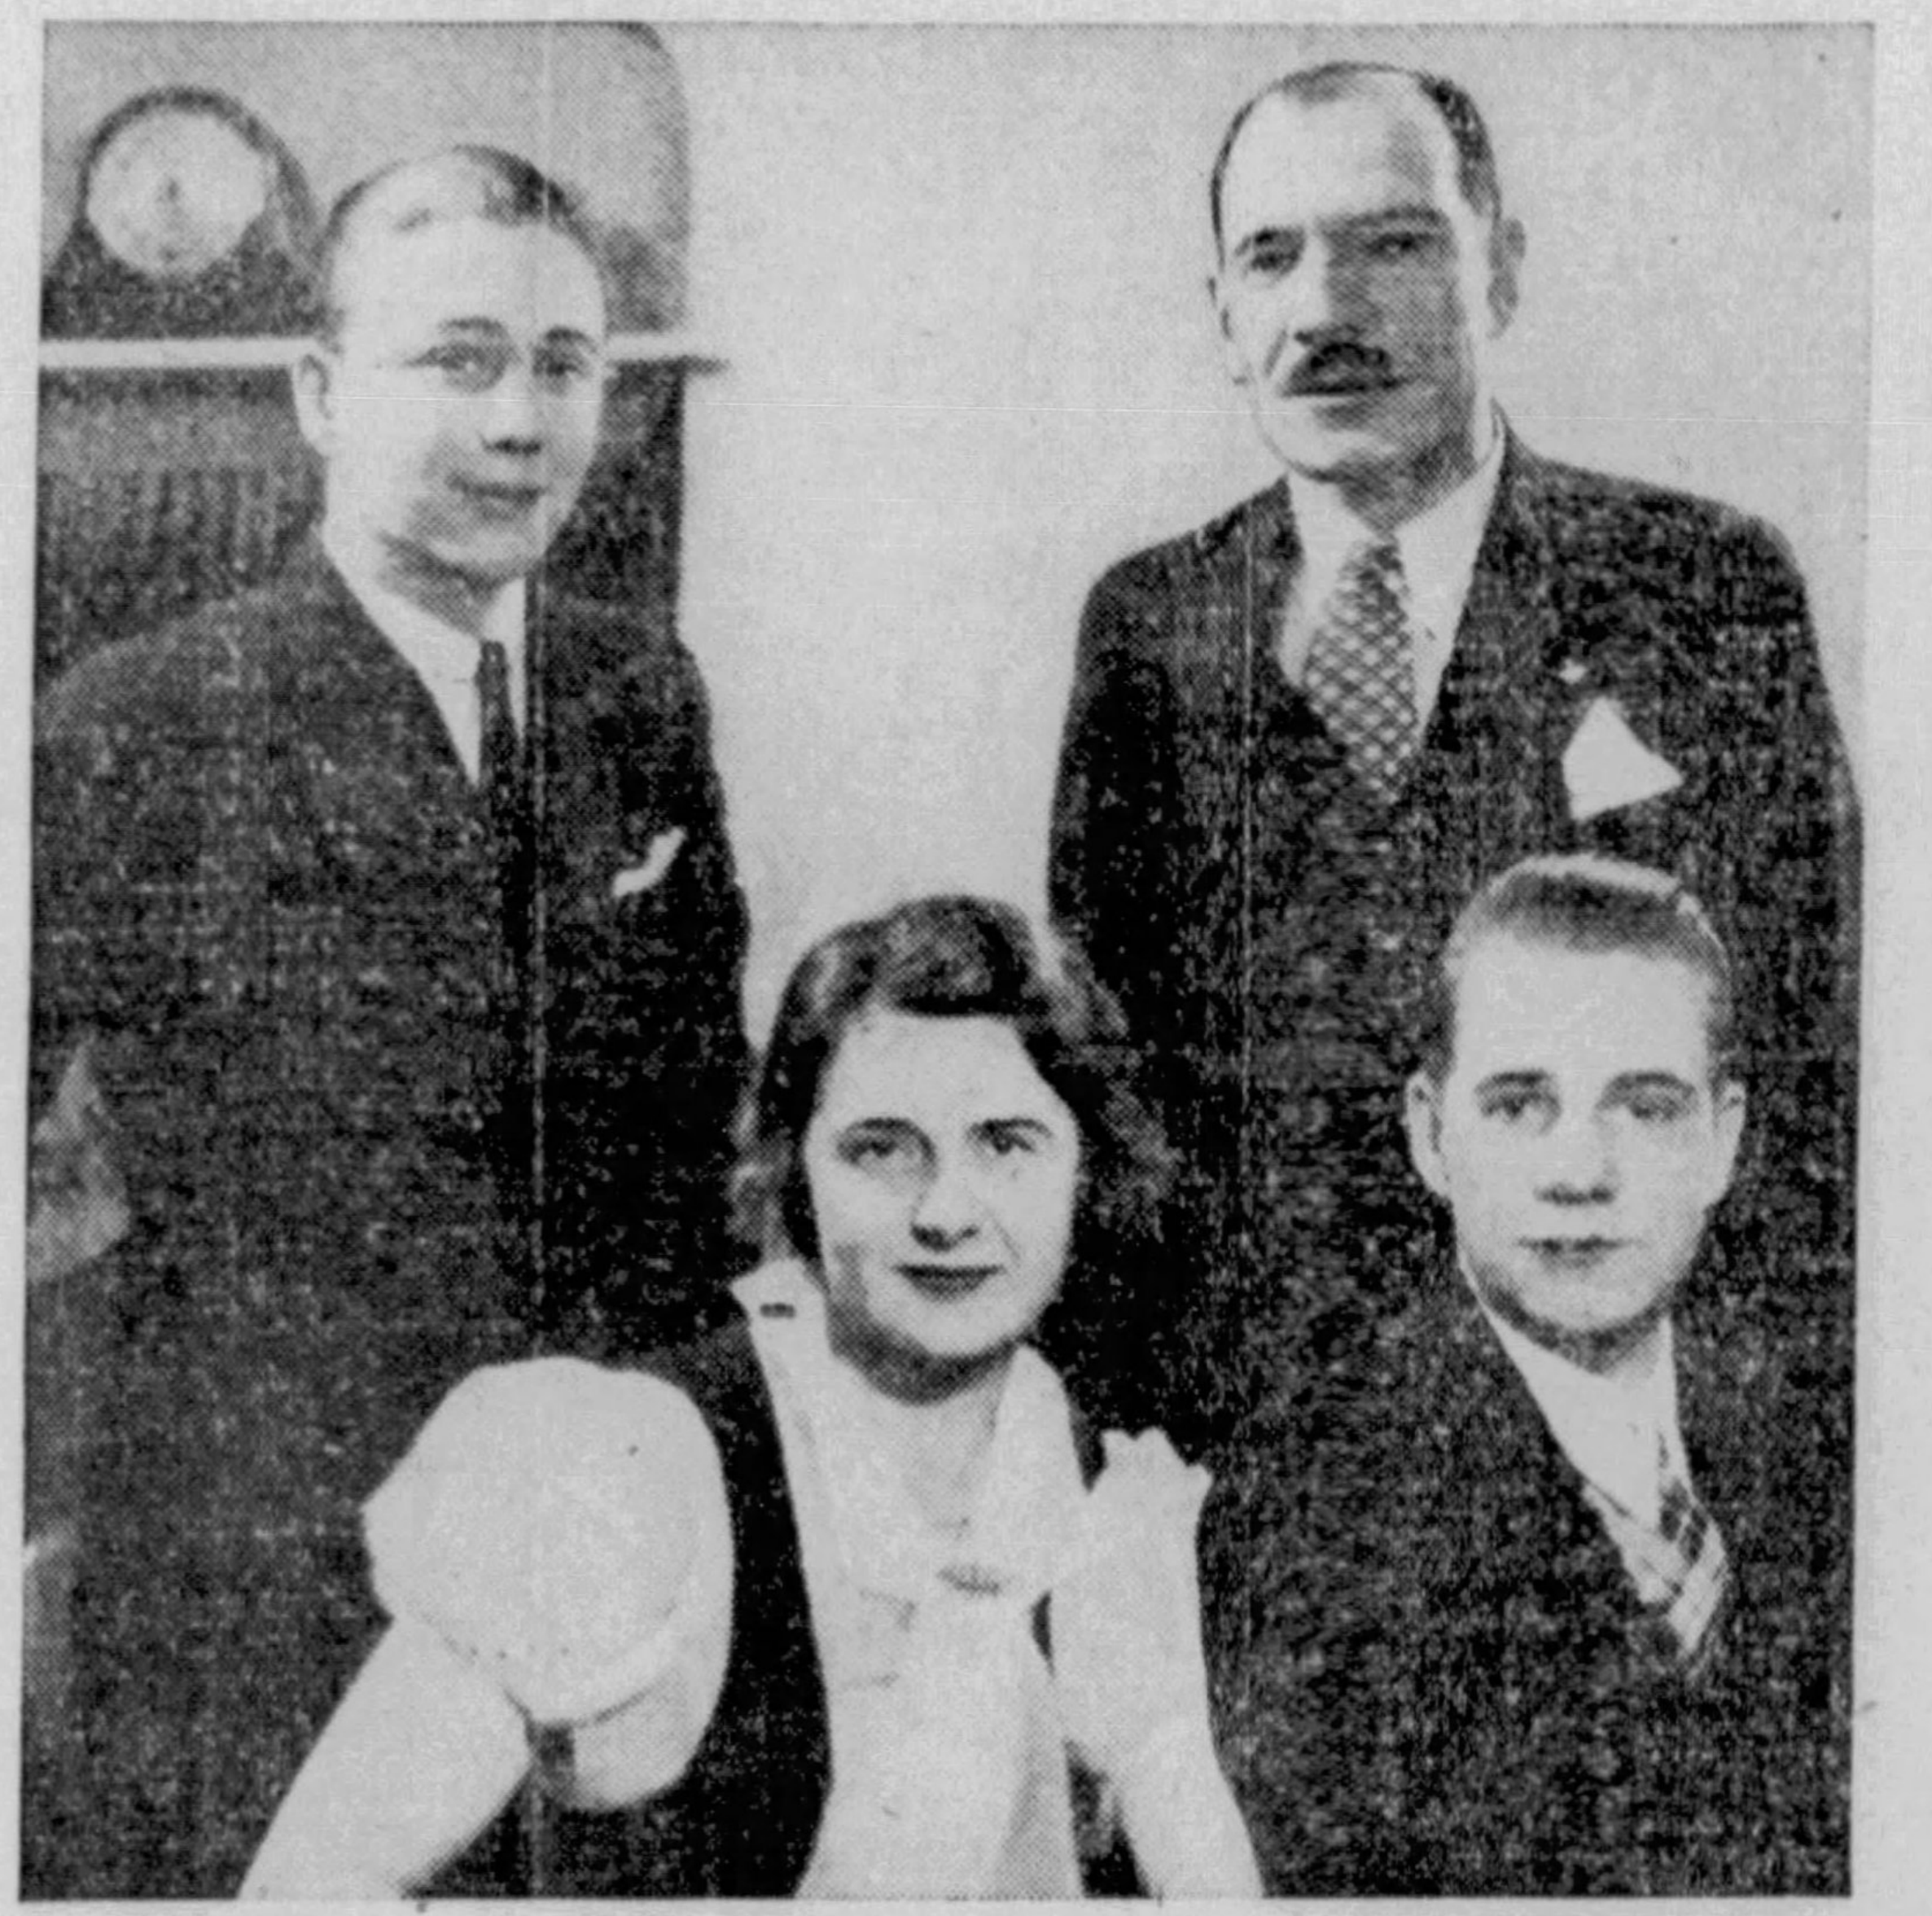
TWO FAMILIES



THE ARENS FAMILY, 7125 N. PAULINA ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

THINGS are looking up for the Arens family. The new bottle-cap Mr. Arens is selling is going great guns. And out at the curb is the family's new Standard Plymouth.

Is there a thrill in that? Ask the boys! They both want to sell Plymouths! And Mrs. Arens. She's keen about its good looks. As for The Family Budget-Book . . . it was heard to sigh with relief when their old "big car" drove away forever!

• • •

That's one thing about the Standard Plymouth. Drive it awhile . . . get the "feel" of it . . . and you forget completely it is one of the lowest-priced cars on the market.

Floating Power engine mountings have ended forever the annoying vibration of other low-priced cars. Hydraulic brakes . . . sure, safe, smooth and always equalized . . . are a "big car" luxury if there ever was one.

Bodies are big and roomy. Rigid-X, double-drop frames and safety-steel construction give you confidence.

See the Standard Plymouth. See how Plymouth matches competition on price . . . and beats them on value. And never forget this . . . Standard Plymouth 4-door sedan is the lowest-priced 4-door six you can buy today!

Just to satisfy yourself, go take a fresh look at all three . . . and see how Plymouth sets the pace in giving people bigger value.

THERE'S going to be fun in the Oakes family . . . and some neat family questions to be settled. All because there are two cars now . . . and one is a De Luxe Plymouth.

Daughter Margaret is learning to drive. She'll want the Plymouth. The heavy car makes Mrs. Oakes nervous in traffic. She likes Plymouth better too.

But Mr. Oakes drives to his office. Plymouth gets him around faster and easier. Question: How are three people going to drive one Plymouth at the same time?

• • •

It doesn't take many minutes to convert a "heavy car" owner to De Luxe Plymouth. It's a big car . . . 112-inch wheelbase and the biggest six in the low-priced field.

Free Wheeling is one thrill. Floating Power engine mountings are another. Transmission is all-silent, automatic clutch only $8 extra.

Then there are springs that never need oiling . . . valves that go 30,000 miles without grinding. Seats upholstered in real broadcloth or mohair . . . Duplate Safety Plate Glass windshield . . . windows slightly extra.

Dig down deep and you'll find no less than 30 places where the De Luxe Plymouth has the edge in quality over competing sixes.

BOROUGH BANS STATE POLICE

UNIONTOWN, Pa., May 24.—State police are told that regardless of reported bombardments of ripe tomatoes, aged eggs and vegetables and Sunday blue law violations, their presence in Fairchance is not welcome.

E. H. Burke, Fairchance food manufacturer, called troopers last night to stop a shower of garden truck and poultry products which he said was damaging his establishment.

They answered the call and dispersed a crowd from the vicinity of Burke's place.

They said Constable Joe Lawson had brought charges against Burk for violation of the blue laws.

Justice of the Peace James Bailey, of Fairchance, called headquarters after the ruckus was over. He was quoted as saying:

"We don't want any more state police in Fairchance. We can handle our own troubles."

BERLIN, May 24.—(AP.)—The former Crown Prince Freiedrich Wilhelm has joined the national socialist motor corps and Prince August Wilhelm, known familiarly as "Auwi," has been appointed to the Senate of the famous Prussian scientific institution, the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute.

The Hohenzollern administrative offices denied that the former Crown Prince by his action had become a member of the Nazi party.

DIVORCE 'SURPRISE' TO WIFE

NORRISTOWN, Pa., May 24.—(AP.)—For more than four years, Mrs. Abigail G. E. Hustler, now of Philadelphia, says she lived with her husband Horace Chopin Hustler, an organist, without knowing he had divorced her.

She began action in Montgomery County Court yesterday to have the decree annulled.

Mrs. Hustler testified she did not learn of the divorce until last February.

Mrs. Hustler declared she was served with a divorce subpena in 1928, after a quarrel. She testified:

"But he called to see me, and we were reconciled. He told me to forget all about the divorce action, and I believed him."

Henry Ford
Dearborn, Mich.

May 22, 1933

I suppose that I may claim to be the first Ford Dealer. I not only made cars, but sold them and frequently delivered them myself.

The "drive away" is not new; often I have driven cars from Detroit to towns in Ohio or Indiana or Michigan to make delivery.

There were no good roads in those days, and the people where I drove had never seen a motor car before.

My first really enthusiastic customers were Country Doctors. They were the first to realize the value of dependable transportation to a widely scattered practice.

Even today I occasionally hear from some of those first Ford users.

We had to teach local mechanics how to care for the cars. That is how Ford Service began, which is now found everywhere in the world.

We believed from the beginning that a sale does not complete our transaction with our customer—it creates upon us an obligation to see that our customer's car gives him service. Ford Dealers know their duty to the public in this respect.

I can say of Ford Dealers generally that they have been and are men of character and standing in their communities. Most of them have been with us many years, which indicates that we agree on basic business principles The Company provides that the methods used to sell the Ford car are consistent with the self-respect of the Dealers who handle it.

The present Ford V-8 is the peak of our 30 years experience.

We have never made a better car. Its eight-cylinder engine is powerful and smooth running. The car is admittedly very good looking and has comfortable riding qualities. It is economical in operation because of advanced engine design and low car weight. It is the fastest, roomiest and most powerful car we have ever built.

TELL IT TO ELSIE -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By ELSIE ROBINSON

Dodging Truth Often Leads To Unhappiness

Must Marcia tell her age?

"Why should she?" you ask.

Well, you see she's four whole years older than the Boy Friend, and he doesn't know it. Oh, no; she didn't exactly lie to him about it. She just let him "guess" how old she was, and didn't tell him when he guessed wrong. That was when they first met.

And now? Well, things are different. Maybe they'll be married. So—what?

Dear Elsie Robinson:

I have a problem that is a terrible worry to me, and I am coming to you in the hope that you will be so kind as to help me with it.

For over two years now I have been going steady with a wonderful young man. I am 32 years old and he is 28. We are very much in love, but this difference in our ages terrifies me.

When I met him, he guessed my age at 24, and I let him think that that was all I was, never dreaming that our friendship would develop into love.

As time went on, and we saw more and more of each other, I didn't have nerve enough to tell him the truth, even though there were times when I had ample opportunity to do so.

He thinks I am only 26 years old now, and while he adores me, I have a constant fear that he will find out the truth and I will lose him. I have this fear especially when he is around my family.

Sometimes I think, "let him find it out. What's the difference?" Then again I am almost frantic, when I think that he might learn about my deception.

DID NOT LIE

I don't want him to know that I didn't tell him the truth about this, or he will think I have lied to him in everything, which I honestly and truly have not.

I have met and learned to love his family, and they are simply grand to me. He has told them, too, I presume, what he thinks is my age, and I wouldn't want them to know that I've been fooling him all this time.

Please, perhaps you can tell me the right way for me to do. I'll try hard to take your advice, if you'll give it. I am so wretched. MARCIA.

Well, sister, you certain' have gotten yourself into a tangle, haven't you? Just the kind of tangle that "drifters-along" usually get into. And now you want to know what on earth to do?

Think it over for yourself. What is there to do—except step out and take the situation on the chin? You've already handed yourself two long years of fear and misery, by your ducking and dodging and your refusal to face things. If you keep on the dodge, you'll be handing yourself a lifetime of it—if you don't lose out entirely. So?

EXPLAIN TO HIM

Tell this man the truth, just as you've told it to me in your letter—how the whole thing started; how it grew, and how you want to be really honest with him. If he is a real man, he'll honor you for telling him about it straight out—and the chances are that the actual difference in your age will mean mighty little to him.

He didn't fall in love with your age. He fell in love with you. He fell in love with you because you added something to his life—filled some need in it. The fact that you're a few years older than he thought you were needn't have any effect whatever on your love—if you'll clear the slate, and then stop jittering about it.

And if it does affect it? If he turns you down, when he finds out? Well, if he's like that, isn't it better to find it out before you tie your life up with his?

Gifts for Father

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My father is very ill and has to go down South for about six months. My mother, my two brothers and I would like to give him a small gift, so that we may be remembered by him every day. Please advise what you think would be appropriate. G.

The most beautiful gift of all, I think, would be a daily letter to your father. You might take turns writing these letters. How he would love them! He would look forward to them, and how they would halo the hours he must spend away from you! When he leaves have one group of letters written, all ready to give to him when he is getting on the train, one each day for a certain number of days to come. It would be a great gift to his spirit, that now needs so much help.

Another suggestion I would like to make is to subscribe to the newspaper that he most enjoys, so that every day he may look forward to receiving this, too. A weekly news magazine would also be a delight to him; likewise, a subscription to his favorite monthly magazine.

A fountain pen and pencil set couldn't fail to be a welcome gift, if he hasn't them, and he would enjoy a lounging robe or an ensemble of pajamas and lounging robe. A writing portfolio completely equipped with letter paper, postcards and stamps would be a convenient gift. Any of these gifts would be used daily—but the letters are the most important! And I hope, dear girl, that your father will be well very soon.

Wedding Gifts

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have been invited to attend a church wedding. Shall we give the couple a gift? We have known the bride-to-be for a number of years, but lately have seen her very rarely. She and I were chums at High School.

K.

Our wish to send a wedding gift is the only thing that governs the sending of this gift, so of course no one can decide this but yourself. Your letter doesn't sound as if you especially wish to send the gift, and if so, there isn't any reason why you should send it. Or perhaps you'd like to send some small, inexpensive gift for the new home.

Household Hints

If the fountain pen runs dry and there is no ink on hand to fill it, fill the pen halfway with water. There is usually enough dry ink crystallized in the barrel to make a writing fluid sufficient for your purpose.

If there is no laundry in the house, a bedroom should be set aside on ironing day instead of ironing in the kitchen. Then when lunch must be gotten ready for the school children, the work can be left undisturbed until afternoon and the kitchen is free to work in. This will prove a splendid solution for the woman who uses an electric iron.

Interest Can Propel One Into Any Channel, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

I am convinced that if one's interest is great enough in any direction it will propel one into that channel.

My greatest interest is travel, though I have never been out of the United States. My library is composed almost entirely of travel books and atlases, and I can spend hours reading or listening to tales of travel.

Now certainly this great interest of mine has brought to me—or me to them—the most delightful circle of globe-trotting friends and acquaintances that ever anyone could welcome and value.

A few of them have been around the world. Several are permanently settled in remote places.

I have had cards and letters from nearly every country, and they delight me no end!

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

Mystery Car Leaving Jerry's Place Is Halted

I knew better than to answer Nick's command to draw the car to the side of the road and turn off the engine. Indeed, I hardly dared breathe, for there was that in the tone of his voice that told me this emergence of a car from "the back way out of Jerry's" was fraught with menacing significance.

"Quck, Tony! the rope!" he commanded. "And don't forget to come heeled. Babe! do you see the lights of that car through the trees?"

"Yes," I whispered.

"It's quite a way off yet, and coming slow. But if it turns into this road before we get this fixed, you call 'Oh' just as if you were hurt. Understand?"

"Yes." I spoke the second word louder for Nick was no longer on the running board. He and Tony were on either side of the road a few feet ahead of our car, busily engaged in pounding something into the ground. Then they came racing back, and I saw that both held revolvers in their hands.

"Know how to use a gat, Kid?" Nick said to Ronald.

"Yes." Ronald said laconically and I remembered that he belonged to the R. O. T. C. at college.

"Then, here!" Nick passed the gun in his hand to Ronald, drew another from a hidden holster. "You probably won't have to use this, but if we get in a jam, you get us out. If you don't your sweetie can just—Here they come. Scram, Tony!"

MACHINE STOPS

The two men raced back beyond the point where they had been working—as nearly as I could tell in the darkness.

Across the road, just high enough to catch the radiator of an advancing car, was a taut rope, the size of a hawser. I knew now what had been the meaning of the sounds I had heard in those breathless seconds after Nick had vaulted from the car with the injunction to Tony to "bring the rope." They had passed smaller ropes attached to that hawser around trees, and driven spikes into the earth in order to reeve the ends of the supporting cords. Thus managed, it was a formidable barrier. If the car whose headlights I was watching with terrified fascination had been advancing rapidly there might have been a bad wreck. But it was coming slowly, because of the rutted road, and the driver evidently saw the rope, for the car stopped short within a few inches of the obstruction.

Its lights went out, even as it stopped, its doors flew open, and I heard sounds that indicated the men inside had sprung to the ground. Then for an instant there was silence, and I conjectured that the men from the car, like Nick and Tony, were lying prone, waiting to see how the cards of this dangerous game were stacked.

NICK IS DEFIED

Ronald had softly made his way to the left of the road, and I presumed that he, too, had dropped to the ground to await developments. I was anxious about Ronald, fearing that his boyish exuberance and his devotion to Marion might cause him to do something rash. I waited breathlessly for the first move.

It was Nick's voice that first broke the silence.

"Look here, you ———," he said, and his voice held something akin to the whirr of a rattlesnake. "We aren't looking for trouble, see, if you don't hand us any. If we had been, we'd have started the music playing first and talked afterward. Now you've got something in that car we want, and if you hand it over quiet, you can go back to Jerry's, or the other way, just as you like."

"You're crazy," answered a voice that seemed to come from behind the car. "Somebody's steered you wrong. We haven't got a bit of stuff with us."

"Who said anything about stuff?" Nick retorted. "We aren't looking for anything in bottles this trip. But you've got a dame with you that doesn't belong to you, and you'd better fork her over."

I wondered if I imagined a low muttered colloquy coming from the halted car. Then the voice from behind the car snarled, "Come and get her then!"

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

A smooth pumice stone will grind off hairs from the legs. It isn't a permanent cure, remember. Acts just the same as a razor, cutting the hirsute shafts at the point where they emerge from the skin.

Try scalp friction with eau de cologne on hair that is inclined to be oily soon after the shampoo. Afterwards dry the hair, strand by strand, with a soft towel. If a dry shampoo is more convenient than a sudsy one, sprinkle the hair with corn meal. Remove it by brushing.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

First Aid for Simple Accidents in the Home

Accidents may occur in the best regulated households. Knowing how to meet these emergencies is most important to the welfare of the victim and one of the duties of every mother.

Dr. Copeland

Bruises are one of the most common accidents, usually the result of blows or falls. The skin may or may not be broken, but usually there is pain, swelling and discoloration. The change in the color of the skin is due to the injury to the blood vessels.

If the bruise is not very deep the swelling appears quickly and the part becomes red and inflamed. When there is some involvment of the deeper structures, the bruised part soon becomes purple and mottled. When this is the case the return of the normal color sometimes requires days or even weeks. Some persons have more sensitive skin than others and the slightest bump will cause these "black and blue spots."

The treatment in these cases is simple. Apply a cold compress to the injured part, using ice water if it is available. Lead and opium lotion or arnica may be used if there is severe pain. As soon as the acute symptoms have subsided, gentle massage may be used to aid the absorption of the effused blood. In some cases it will be found that heat gives much greater relief than cold. But as a rule this is only true when the injured person is suffering from lowered vitality.

Cuts and tears are dangerous because of the possibility of infection. If the wound is contaminated with dirt at the time of the accident, pour plenty of warm boracic acid solution on the injured part until there is no trace of the foreign material. These wounds must be carefully cleansed with boric acid solution, swabbed out with iodine or mercurochrome, and a moist dressing kept over the area. Boric acid salve will often be more soothing, particularly where there is a jagged tear.

Incised wounds made by knives, glass or any other clean cutting instrument are all too common. The treatment in these cases is to first cleanse the wound. If the bleeding is not severe, permitting the flow of blood to continue a few moments will do no harm and will assist in cleaning the cut. Then tincture of iodine or mercurchrome should be applied, but not in large amounts. After pressure has stopped the bleeding, the wound should be covered with a compress wet with a solution of boracic acid. The compress can be kept in place by a bandage.

In any case where there is gaping of the edges of the wound, stitches may be needed to keep the parts together. This will help to prevent the formation of a scar.

If a wound shows any sign of infection, apply a hot boracic dressing. If the redness around the area seems to be extending to neighboring parts, consult your doctor at once.

Every household should have on hand plenty of sterile gauze and cotton, bandages of different sizes, and a half pint bottle of boracic acid solution. In addition, there should be tincture of iodine in a bottle with a glass cork. Uncorked iodine becomes too strong to use safely. It is important to have a package of old linen that has been sterilized and kept snugly covered.

Olive oil makes Palmolive
gentle, soothing, safe

— and it's olive oil that makes Palmolive green

NOTHING has ever supplanted the rare oils of olive and palm for protecting youthful, tender skin. For these oils—discovered centuries ago as skin cleansers—are supremely mild, gentle, safe. Olive oil is advised by doctors for the delicate skin of infants. Combined with palm oils—in Palmolive Soap—it makes a bland, creamy, lotion-like lather that cleanses safely and thoroughly.

And that which is best for the skin of youth is best also to retain the skin of youth.

For the bath as well as the face—for adults as well as for children—Palmolive is the ideal beauty soap. And today you may buy it at the lowest prices in history.

A two-minute daily beauty rule

Massage a thick lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water gently into the skin of face, neck and shoulders. Rinse first with warm water, then with cold. See, with delight, how refreshed your skin is after this simple, daily care.

The finish is dull, flattering. The colors are good. $1.65 these days may seem like a high price for silk stockings, but, take a tip from us, these stockings are really an economy, plus the satisfaction of knowing that you have the aristocrat of silk stockings.

Man About Town

Nina Wilcox Putnam and her ex, Philip Eliot, are rehearsing the wedlock step again . . . The 6-weeks time limit (set by their counsellors) for the A. C. Blumenthals (Peggy Fears) to decide on whether or not to stay asunder, expired Thursday . . . Her best bus was "thefted" last week, too—but she has her suspicions . . . Vincent Youmans, who told a judge that "It was a Night in June" was burgled from his piano box by Gorden & Revel, couldn't make Justice Valenti believe it . . . The Radio Roxy (which lost the decision to use the Roxy tag) will be re-christened the Radio Theater . . . The Robert Ritchies (Jeanette MacDonald), who deny that they were secretly blended here before sailing—are Design-for-Living in France . . . Police Headquarters Biggies anticipate "fireworks" in a Bulb-Belt beanery any dawn. Reprisal stuff.

The Elmer Rice-Paul Muni war started when the author refused to star the player over the "Counsellar-at-Law" billing—which Muni feels he rates after his "I'm a Fugitive" hit . . . Talk about toting coals to Newcastle—America is shipping 3.2 lager to Paris! . . . When Cagney banged Alice White across the mouth into the rumble of the car in the ending of "Picture-Snatcher," he destroyed most of her teeth.

Tallulah Bankhead is under the Alabama-hammer because she is a patroness on the Scottsboro Case Benefit Committee . . . Lillian Roth, the recent bride of Judge Shalleck (she renounced the stage at the ceremony) has the letch for the amusement temples, already . . . Lew Ayres never uses makeup for the screen—but neither does W. C. Fields! . . . The "inside" on the transfer of John Cordes (New York's "best" detective) is that the hard-hitter and the new Police Commissioner no like each other for too long . . . Brown and Henderson have split! . . . Add comical libels—Lupe's privately shown imitations of her former heart—Gary Cooper . . . "The Big Brain" will reveal George Stone in his first starring flicker. He will be billed over Phillips Holmes and Fay Wray . . . Victor Moore of "Of Thee I sing," says he has one great advantage over all vice-presidents . . . "At least," observes Moore, "I can hear them laugh at me!"

Geo. Cukor, who directed Constance Bennett in her best kodaks, now has a clause in his contract which provided that is case he is lent to RKO, he need not direct her any more . . . The John Ds have decided to go ahead building the German and Italian edifices in Rockefeller City . . . The Palace Theater, with its new policy, has passed the crisis and is retreiving its lost prestige . . . Earl ("Zeppelin") Crooker and Ruth Garner were sealed Sunday at Blanche Ring's Rye home . . . Zelli, reported dying in Yurrop recently, is still picking losers at the foreign tracks.

Orchids to "Mad Moments," the most exciting of the numbers in the new Paradise menu . . . Orchids to Lee Brown's contagious wordage and melody: "I've Got to Pass Your House to Get to My House" (his first song alone) . . . Scallions to the police crew at the Elizabeth St. Precinct for gypping Detective Henry Oswald, of the Homicide Squad, out of credit for breaking the Ridley murder case. They gave one of their own men the palm, when Oswald, who has been sleuthing it since the start, got the evidence . . . Orchids to La Waters and Prof. George Dewey Washington for their song-dramas at the Cotton Club . . . Scallions to the staff of a shakedown mag, pulling "Town Topics" on top-hats, who are telling the Dis't Att'y.

Murrel Finley and Edw. Cronjager, her groom, are romancing here—again . . . Yvonne Vallee, M. Chevalier's shelved shadow, returned to London musical comedy and triumphed . . . Most of the Paris cafes and music halls are cancelling German turns . . . "Tattle Tales," the Frank Fay-Barbara Stanwyck revusical from the Coast, anticipates a run here—figuring on "no opposition" George White, however, anticipates the same thing with his new "Scandals" . . . Tony Wons, who will pen a book exposing radio, will retire forever from the microphones May 27.

Amy Vanderbilt, of the H. Sells Agency, resigned tomorrow to be advertising chief of George Jean Nathan's gazette, which vowed it wouldn't accept ad copy . . . As predicted months ago—W. C. Durant is in back of the present bull market . . . Locals are telling yokels that cotton will hit 15c a pound and wheat $1.25. . . . Jeff Machamer introduces his new assistant as his common-law secretary. . . . Joseph Widener maintains a private cemetery for his thoroughbred steeds that fade. . . . Loretta Sayres, once one of "The Nightingales," has shifted from the Monte Carlo to the Royal Box and wants it relayed that her bay-bee still is A. Johnston, of Hollywood. Mr. J., however, will board a Honolulu-bound boat to join his heart, Winona Love, a native. . . . Add swelegant descriptions of the movie colony by I. Hoffman: "The Land of Yes-Men and Acquiesce Girls."

"Prince" Romanoff, new guesting with Uncle Sam at the W. 11th St. Federal cage, is wearing the Royal Purple under his left optic . . . When Garbo and her manager, Edrington, feuded, he immediately signed to serve La Lietrich . . . Alan Dinehart and Moselle Brittone have made their betrothal official. He just placed a square-cut rock on her engagement finger. An ex-Senator attempted suicide three times last week at the Yale Club. He's now in a private hosp.—a Dr. Caldwell attending. And new handles for Reno, the divorce mecca: The Garden of Allah-mony." Local listeners say that Gaston M. Means will be riddled in the Atlanta hoosgow—for naming certain cons on the Lindy kid-snatcher.

Henry Garat, Lilian Harvey, Who Co-Starred Abroad, Will Be Team Here

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, May 24.—Lest you be wondering about Henry Garat, Janet Gaynor's partner in "Adorable," the French star will be returning here in the fall to do a picture called "In Your Arms."

Mr. Garat

He's to appear with Lilian Harvey (remember the two of them in the European film, "Congress Dances?").

The idea of reuniting the team has been in Fox's mind from the start, established Hollywood names. In Garat's case, it was Janet Gaynor. First, however, it was deemed wise to introduce them in pictures with and in Miss Harvey's, John Boles. By the time Garat rounds out a UFA contract and reports to Fox, Lillian also will have appeared in Buddy De Sylva's "My Weakness."

The new co-starring vehicle is a re-write of a French play, "The Lottery Lover." It's to be a musical and Sam Behrman, one of Fox's ace writers, will get it in shape for the screen.

Around Hollywood, they call United Artists the only studio retaining any atmosphere. Something of this must have been in Anna Sten's mind the other day when she came to talk to Samuel Goldwyn, just back from Europe and seething with plans.

The actress paused and looked dreamily down the main studio street deserted except for a few cars in front of the Pickford and Lloyd bungalows. She said:

"It will be a shame when they start a picture here. It will take all the charm away from the place."

Miss Costello

Newest fad here is to have a doll replica made of yourself. A shop in one of the smart hotels does it for $7.50 and has enjoyed plenty of business. George Raft and Mae West sent a couple of the dolls to Charlotte Greenwood in London so they could be raffled off at a benefit for actors' orphans.

* * *

Out at the Beverly Wilshire the other evening, Countess Frasso was dancing with Douglas Fairbanks. But dont' get excited. Mary Pickford had planned to be with the party. A story conference intervened . . . Latest camera fan in Hollywood is Joseph Schildkraut. The actor was telling friends about it in the Grand Hotel . . . Scouts in London report that Jerry Horwin is taking Gertrude Lawrence around. And Sally Eilers, they say, hasn't started to get that rest yet. But then everyone agrees that London has never been so gay.

* * *

Whatever else happens, Dick Arlen insists the new son will not be a junior . . . Here's a tip for pretty girls in Hollywood. Samuel Goldwyn is out to get a new chorus for the Eddie Cantor film. He'll personally hold the first interviews . . . Lona Andre's sister, Margaret (Lona's one of the Paramount "Panther Girls), has got a job working in a picture on the Pathe lot. She's using the real family name, Anderson . . . Biology lesson: Up until recently, reports Tom Reed, Southern Greenland had no polar bears. Universal had to import them there from Germany to film "S. O. S. Iceberg." During the filming of a scene, the animals escaped. Now there are bears in Greenland.

Mr. Arlen

Did you know: That the Prince of Wales once gave George Raft a monogrammed pencil and cigaret lighter and expressed the wish that he could dance as well as the movie actor?

Molly Cohn, Pittsburgh's own Yiddish actress, who recently has been on a tour of eastern cities, will appear in a benefit performance of "The Street Singer," in the Roosevelt Theater, Sunday, May 28. Miss Cohn will play the role of a boy.

Mae West Cracks Wise In Catty Way

Mae West, soon to star in "I'm No Angel," gives a sigh of relief that the newlywed Buster Crabbe and ditto Kathleen Burke did not marry each other.

"Imagine the Lion Man married to the Panther Woman! They'd just lead a dog's life," said Mae.

Odds and Ends.

THE NIGHT before last I happened to pass the stage door of the Apollo Theater, where "Take a Chance" is playing. It was just about time for the show to break and the usual 10 or 12 people were standing around. I exchanged greetings with the one or two whom I knew and then walked on.

I hadn't gone more than six steps when a man stopped me and requested a match. I obliged gladly. He was a rather portly gentleman, fairly well groomed and carrying a flower in his lapel. On his arm hung a cane. I should say he was about fifty years of age and it would have been obvious to almost anyone that he was waiting for one of the girlies in "Take a Chance."

"Thanks," he said, as he puffed on his cigaret. I nodded and was about to move on when he tapped my arm.

"This show will be out in a few moments," he observed. "Some nice girls in it all right. I suppose you're waiting for one, eh?"

"No," I returned affably, "I am not. Just happened to be passing, that's all. As a matter of fact, I don't know much about Broadway or girls. I'm in the hardware business."

He rested easily on his cane.

"You're better off," he murmured. "The less you know about Broadway today, the better off you are. It's not what it was when I was a youngster. The spirit is gone. And the girls are different. They're out for money and—well, they're different."

I smiled to myself. Here was one gentleman, I felt, whose baby was going sour on him. I couldn't feel particularly sorry for him because it was apparent that he was in the dough. I said something that wasn't very important, and he returned the compliment. And at that particular moment the show broke.

The side doors were opened and the people began to file out. My companion excused himself hastily and dashed back to the stage door. I watched him—and my eyes grew wide.

He yanked the flower from his lapel and placed it in his pocket. He stood his cane carefully to one side. And then, racing to the line of taxis, he opened a door.

"Taxi, sir?" he cried. "This way, madam. Taxi, sir?"

The mug was a grifter who made a living opening taxi doors! . . .

ONE of the strange angles in this profession of mine is the false impressions the readers sometimes draw from a certain article. A few days ago, for example, I did a column on the thoughts of a man who was suffering from insomnia. It was pure fiction, of course, and I thought that fact was very evident.

It now turns out that I was greatly mistaken. Thus far, I have received exactly 53 letters of every description on the article, and there are several counties still to be heard from. Aside from the messages of sympathy, I now have twelve different cures for insomnia and the addresses of seven doctors who would fix me up in no time at all.

Accordingly, I must take this space to assure my good friends I was not referring to myself in the story of the man who was counting sheep. I should have known better, I suppose, than to write it the way I did.

But it proves one thing conclusively, at any rate. It shows that, even when I write about insomnia, I am asleep on the job. . . .

In one of the town's better clubs the other morning, one of the old time fights suddenly took place. It was a honey while it lasted and reminded some of those present of the pre-depression days when a customer was guaranteed a fight a night or his money back.

I spoke to one of the owners about it a few days later. Told that tables, chairs and bottles had been tossed around with gusto, I asked the boss how it had started. He shrugged his shoulders.

"Everything was going along very peacefully," he said laconically, "when some guy at a ringside table got up and shouted 'Hooray for Hitler!' That was all" . . .

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Walter Hampden, who will be seen in "Caponsacchi" in the Nixon tonight and Thursday night, and in "Hamlet" tomorrow afternoon, will be playing roles that he has done about an equal number of times—nearly 600 performances. "Caponsacchi," derived from Robert Browning's poem, "The Ring and the Book," was first presented by Mr. Hampden in 1926, in his own theater in New York, where it ran for approximately an entire season of 300 performances. Tours and subsequent revivals of the play have almost doubled the number of showings in the original run. Mr. Hampden's "Hamlet" first attracted attention to him as a Shakespearean actor, at a time when he was about 25 years of age. Yet he had played Shylock when he was 16, in a student production given by the Dramatic Club of Brooklyn Polytechnic. When school was finished he thought of music as a career, either as a bass singer in grand opera or 'cellist. He decided on the latter, but when he went to Paris to study music, he gave more attention to singing than he did to the instrument. The training has been of use to him, he says, as it taught him how to use his voice. On making up his mind definitely to become an actor, he went to England, where he joined the company of Frank R. Benson, in which he played more than 70 parts in three years. His first appearance as Hamlet was in the company of Sir Henry Irving, in which he was Laertes. When Mr. Irving became ill, Mr. Hampden was asked to play the Dane, and did so for a week in London, as substitute for the great Irving.

Each year the Players' Club of New York, founded by Edwin Booth, does something by Shakespeare, usually a play that is not performed in the regular Shakespearean routine, last year's production having been "Troilus and Cressida." This year the Bard is forsaken in favor of Harriet Beecher Stowe, and "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will be presented, opening next Monday night. Otis Skinner will play Uncle Tom and Fay Bainter will portray Topsy.

* * *

Mr. George Cohan Parker, of "Pigeons and People," who has seen more road this season than in any since the days of the Four Cohans, will end two weeks in Chicago Saturday, and take his play back to New York to join others now playing in that city for the second time this season.

Aerial

Jessie Ward is a member of the Arbaugh Troupe, four aerial performers who will be the free out-door feature at the opening of the daily season at West View Park tomorrow. The act will be a regular park attraction until June 10.

CITY TO BE HOST TO ENGINEERS

Pittsburgh today had been selected by the national board of directors as the convention city of the Association of Iron and Steel Electrical Engineers.

John F. Kelly, managing director at the national offices here, said the convention will be held at the William Penn Hotel next October. Plans include an iron and steel exposition, displaying modern mill equipment. The exhibition will be of particular interest to the Pittsburgh district which represents an ingot tonnage capacity of 17,000,000 tons.

Five divisions will hold meetings simultaneously. These are the mechanical, lubrication, combustion, electrical and safety divisions. An important announcement during the convention will be naming of winners in the association's new uses for steel campaign.

U.S. PARTY FINDS ANCIENT TOMB

CAIRO, Egypt, May 24.—(AP.)—An expedition of the Metropolitan Museum of Art of New York has discovered at Lisht, in upper Egypt, a large and very fine mastaba, or Pharonic tomb, belonging the chief priest of Ptah at Memphis.

The burial walls of the chamber are covered with no less than 296 columns of hieroglyphic texts. The spot is the site of the pyramids of the first two kings of the Twelfth Dynasty.

Star Circle Gives Minstrel-Vaudeville

The Young Men's Star Circle will present a minstrel show and vaudeville program in the Arsenal High School auditorium tomorrow and Friday nights. The circle presented the same show last week at the Catholic Boys' High School.

Roosevelt, Judge's Son to Get Degrees

Frank P. Patterson, Jr., son of Judge and Mrs. Frank P. Patterson, will receive his degree from Catholic University, Washington, June 14, when President Roosevelt will receive an honorary degree of doctor of laws, according to a report from the university. Patterson was graduated from Sacred Heart High School in 1928.

School to Present Original Operettas

Two original operettas will be presented by pupils of the Woods Run School tomorrow night in the auditorium.

"Finella in Fairyland" will be given by the primary pupils, directed by Miss Eva Myers. The pupils in the upper grades will present "The Purple Iris," under the direction of Miss Helen Weber.

COX TO RELATE CAPITAL VISIT

The thousands of listeners who follow Father Cox on the radio were disappointed yesterday. Owing to some inadvertent mechanical trouble, the first he has encountered in seven years of broadcasting, the hookup to the pulpit of Old St. Patrick's could not be made. The trouble was in the equipment at the church. This was particularly disappointing as it had been announced that Father Cox would describe his recent visit to the White House and his interview with President Roosevelt.

Father Cox will, however, to-morrow at 12:30 p. m. over WJAS tell the story he was going to tell yesterday. It will include an intimate word picture of the President today as Father Cox saw him. Old St. Patrick's was deluged with telephone calls yesterday from regular followers who wanted to know why Father Cox was not on the air.

Incidentally, Father Cox is in another week of his campaign for Sun-Telegraph subscriptions, the commissions from which bring him a check every Saturday. Every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page or is telephoned in with the request that Father Cox be given credit for it, brings to his unemployment relief fund a liberal cash commission.

Contract Bridge

How to Play and How to Win

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Playing Out the Cards

There is an altogether too prevalent habit among bridge players of laying down the cards instead of playing them, sometimes claiming tricks that cannot possibly be made and at other times conceding tricks that need not be conceded.

An example of the danger of laying down the hand rather than playing it occurred on the hand below, which was played in a Duplicate game:

South, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

	♠ Q 7 ♡ A K ♢ 6 4 3 ♣ A J 10 9 8 5
♠ 10 6 5 4 ♡ Q J 10 9 8 ♢ 8 5 ♣ 7 2	North West East South	♠ K J 9 3 2 ♡ 6 3 ♢ J 10 9 7 ♣ 6 4
	♠ A 8 ♡ 7 5 4 2 ♢ A K Q 2 ♣ K Q 3

Inasmuch as the scoring was on a match-point basis, South elected to play the hand at seven notrump in preference to clubs. The contract, on the face of it, appeared one too high unless the diamonds broke, and after the opening lead of the heart Queen, South studied his hand, led the clubs, followed with the diamonds—only to find that the suit did not break—and then remarked:

"I must lose a spade. I am sorry, but the contract was too high."

At another table a similar contract was reached, but there the Declarer conceded nothing. The Opening lead was again the heart Queen, and the Declarer saw there were two chances of winning 13 tricks. First, there was the possibility of the diamond suit being 3-3 in the hands of his adversaries. Second, if four diamonds were in the hand of the same player who held the spade King, then that player could be squeezed into discarding a diamond or unguarding the King of spades. This player won the opening heart lead, took two rounds of clubs, then three rounds of diamonds, and followed with four more rounds of clubs. This left the following situation:

	♠ Q 7 ♡ A ♢ — ♣ —
♠ 10 ♡ J 10 ♢ — ♣ —	North West East South	♠ K J ♡ — ♢ J ♣ —
	♠ A 8 ♡ — ♢ 2 ♣ —

When the heart Ace was led from Dummy, East was squeezed, and the success of the contract was assured.

This particular squeeze is rather unusual and interesting. In the usual three-card squeeze situations the hand opposite the two-card menace—in this case the spade suit—has only one card of that suit. In this hand, however, both Dummy and South had two spades. This type of squeeze will win only when the hand squeezed is to the left of the squeeze card and when the second-best card of the menace suit—spades in this case—is higher than the highest card of that suit held by the opponent who is not squeezed.

It is true that it required a great many favorable conditions to make the Grand Slam which should not have been bid; but, having undertaken the contract, South should make it almost automatically, as the squeeze should develop by itself if the hand is played skillfully, even if the Declarer does not know its name or understand its underlying principle.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Your partner has opened the bidding with a vulnerable no-trump bid. What do you bid, holding:

♠ 9 8 3 ♡ 8 6 ♢ Q 8 7 3 2 ♣ A 5 4

POLITICS

Coyne-Herron Attack Mirage-Like

By MARK SHIELDS

Mr. Shields

These should be political dog days, but as a matter of fact they are the political dog fight days, with more struggling, pushing and hauling for an advanced position than the theoretical unselfish attack on the present Republican city organization would seem to warrant.

The projected concerted attack on Mayor John S. Herron and Senator James J. Coyne is rapidly developing the aspects of a mirage, peopled by a lot of gentlemen whose strength entitles them to no greater rating than wraiths in a dissoluble picture.

The names of some have been mentioned publicly, the names of others are merely whispered, but with a hope that the whisper can mount to a roar—which it won't. There seems to be a belief that this is THE YEAR, and that most anyone can ride to victory on an "anti" sentiment. And that, also, is not true.

* * *

Reaction of Magee to Duggan Entertaining

It will be entertaining to view the reactions of former Mayor William A. Magee to the appointment of Frank Duggan as a member of Council. So far Mr. Magee has repulsed the suggestion that he be a candidate for mayor, despite admitted strength he would have. He is understood to have leaned instead toward a council candidacy.

Yet as a candidate for council he would be compelled to jeopardize the chances for nomination of his friend and political associate of the past, Mr. Duggan. That unquestionably was in the minds of Mr. Herron and his associates when they selected Mr. Duggan, that as well as the fact that Mr. Duggan has ability for the place to which he has just been chosen.

It is possible that, in resentment, Mr. Magee might consent to become a mayoralty candidate if there could be a unified effort behind him.

* * *

Practical Politicians Needed For Success

Judge Frank P. Patterson continues to assert he is not concerned about a mayoralty candidacy for himself. Accepting that statement as sincere, it is nevertheless true that many of his friends are urging him, and may alter his determination. The question of unified support is also something for Judge Patterson to consider if he grows warmer to the pleas.

At the moment there is no apparent disposition to unify enthusiastically. It is true that the entry of one or two of those mentioned as opponents to Mr. Herron might not swing other independents and dissatisfied regulars—desirous themselves of the spotlight—to the present Mayor. But a number might just go fishing for the duration of the campaign rather than engage in an adventure for which they had no enthusiasm.

Any independent movement to succeed should have the assistance of some practical politicians. That term does not mean "racketeers" or some of the small-bore fixers who are dignified by the title of politician. It does refer to men who are familiar with the procedure of campaigns, the conduct of an election—and the protection of a result. They are almost vital to any successful political movement.

Diagram on How Hitler Aided Lencher

I had better diagram my humor in the future. Among the others I credited with assistance to Judge Benjamin Lencher in receiving from Gov. Pinchot an appointment to County Court at the time it was made was Adolf Hitler. And this was the story:

There had just been imposed by the new German government a boycott on Jews in Germany. There was protest meetings throughout the United States, with one in Pittsburgh. The then Mr. Lencher was scheduled as a speaker.

So at 7 o'clock of the evening of that meeting Gov. Pinchot made Mr. Leneher Judge Lencher. It clothed the young Pittsburgh attorney with an added dignity when he spoke, and I imagine put Mr. Pinchot somewhat more prominently in the minds of those gathered—which was a consideration by no means ignored by the appointing power.

So to that extent Adolf Hitler hastened, though he did not dictate, the appoinment of Judge Lencher. I am sure Herr Hitler would not indorse the able young jurist, which would not worry Judge Lencher.

Day of Consistency In Politics Afar Off

Democratic County Chairman David L. Lawrence is being criticized for not mentioning Senator Coyne in his castigation of Republican leaders Monday night. Mr. Lawrence mentioned no banner-bearing politicians of the opposition party, singling out W. L. Mellon and Joseph R. Grundy.

Friends of Mr. Lawrence explain that the smaller personalities of a Republican primary fight are not their concern, and that they will fight any Republican faction which wins. They link Mr. Mellon to all.

It was an omission to cause comment, in view of the association between Democratic leadership and Republican factions in the past.

But, by the same token, some of those who center on Coyne and Herron do not speak ill publicly of Mr. Mellon, which, in view of the connection between the three, is quite as notable an omission. It is true a few do smack Mr. Grundy, but he lives far away.

But on the day there is consistency in politics I'll break a hundred at Shannopin—and that won't be soon.

BEERLESS PARK CONTRACTS TO BE SIGNED

Friends of McGovern Turned Down On Concession

Contracts were to be signed today by county officials and the representatives of concerns awarded the park concessions yesterday by the County Commissioners. No beer will be sold in the parks, Commissioners C. M. Barr and W. D. Mansfield having voted against it.

The Rhea Baking Company will begin work late this week to open its refreshment stand in South Park. The Martin & Vandervort Company is expected to make ready to open a stand in North Park. Mrs. Mary Schade already is operating a stand in South Park, which was also approved yesterday.

The Commissioners made the awards after Park Director A. M. Marion had recommended the concessions be given to Edgar Collins and Ross Thomas, political friends of Commissioner C. C. McGovern.

Marion said the Rhea company would not be able to take charge of the stand until the end of the week, but this delay was not enough to persuade the Commissioners to give Thomas and Collins the concessions.

Mansfield presented the motion to ban beer after three letters had been received asking the action. Mansfield maintained it would be improper to sell beer in a place where many church people and children seek recreation.

Letters had been received from the Rev. J. E. Morrison, president of the Methodist Episcopal Preachers' Association; the Rev. George W. Shelton, of the Second Presbyterian Church, and Mrs. Elizabeth J. Gibson, president of the county W. C. T. U.

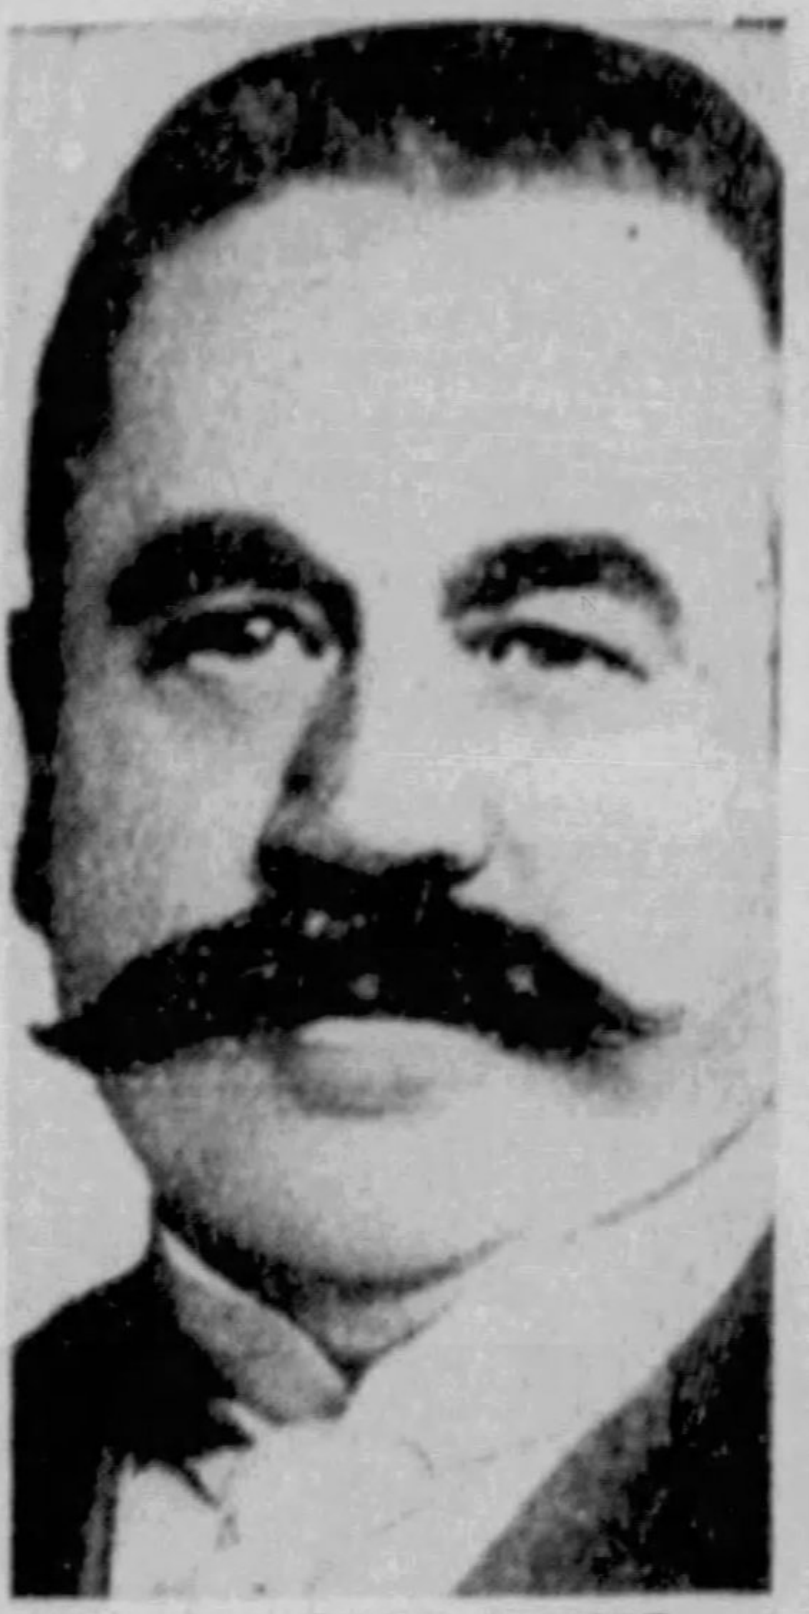
Evelyn Nesbit's Story Of Stanford White's Killing by Harry Thaw

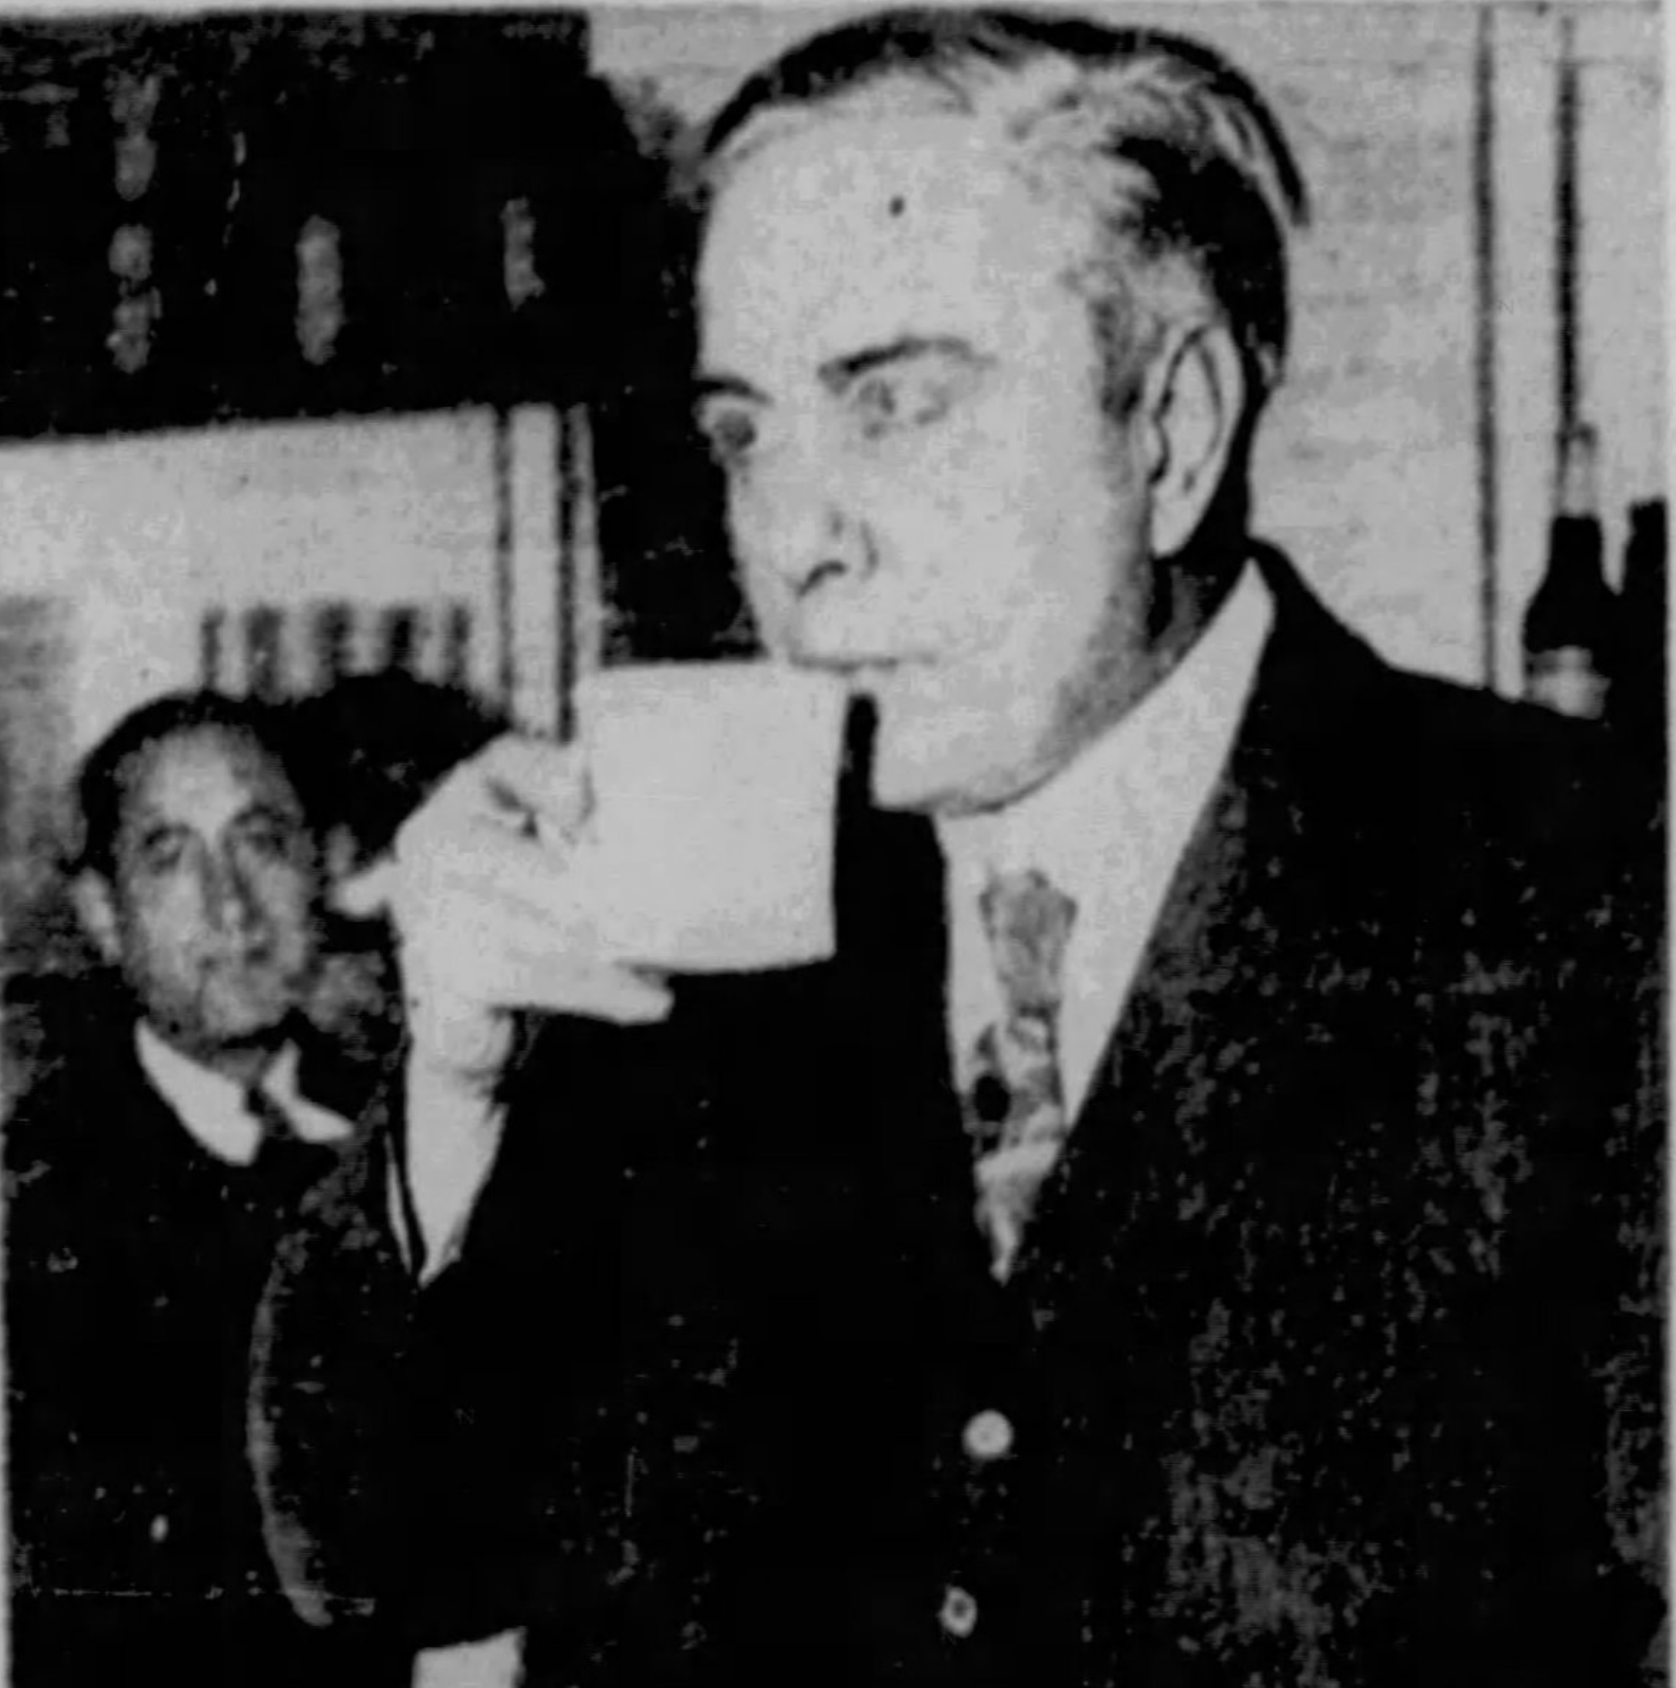
By EVELYN NESBIT THAW

(Copyright)

CHAPTER XVIII.



STANFORD WHITE



HARRY THAW PICTURED IN THE LATER YEARS OF HIS LIFE

First night or no first night, the show which we were watching in the old Madison Square Garden Roof Theater was deadly dull. I never had seen anything so bad. I remarked as much to Thomas McCaleb, who agreed with me. So did Truxton Beale.

We were going to leave when we suddenly realized Harry had not returned to his seat. Looking about for him we didn't see him, so we waited.

How long we waited I don't know. It may have been 20 minutes. It may have been a half hour. Finally, Thaw returned.

McCaleb said:

"The show is awful, Harry. We ought to get out of here and go somewhere else."

Harry nodded and we started. We rose from our seats, filed out into the aisle and made for the elevator. In this way we had to walk around the back from where we were sitting and through an aisle bordered by tables and potted palms. Thaw walked ahead with Mr. Beale, I think, and I followed with McCaleb.

As we neared the elevator, Thaw suddenly left us and walked rapidly in the direction of the stage. We stood there wondering where he was going.

SYNOPSIS

In yesterday's chapter of her own life story, Evelyn Nesbit Thaw described the setting for the great tragedy of her life—the killing of Stanford White by Harry K. Thaw. She told how she had gone to a music show premiere at the Madison Square Garden Roof theater with Thaw and two of his friends; how she had given him a note at dinner that night telling him that White had passed close to their table and then left; how Thaw had taken the news calmly and smilingly, although on a previous occasion he had drawn a revolver and hidden it under a napkin when he saw White. Earlier installments of Evelyn's autobiography recounted her love for White, her pursuit by Thaw, her "confession" and marriage to Thaw, and her life with him at the Thaw mansion in Pittsburgh.

White Shot

I saw Thaw suddenly turn and raise his right arm. There was a loud report before any of us knew what had happened. Then two more reports. It all happened before anyone had time to think or realize what he was doing.

A woman screamed. Then I remember hearing several screams.

There are some things so terrible, so unbelievable, so horrible, that the mind either cracks under them or is rendered numb. An icy terror took possession of me. I couldn't speak, couldn't move, couldn't even think. I heard McCaleb say:

"He's shot a man! He has killed somebody! Oh, my God!"

They say Harry raised his arm and broke his gun immediately after the killing, but I didn't see that. I stood staring at the empty place where Stanford White had been sitting a moment before.

After the Tragedy

Thaw walked over to me, his face a livid, chalky white, leaned over, kissed me and said:

"It's all right dear. I have probably saved your life."

An officer held him by the arm.

McCaleb and Beale got me into the elevator and down to the street. A hansom cab stood there. We got into the cab and drove up Fifth avenue.

LEADERS LOOK TO GOVERNOR AS LAST HOPE

Pittsburgh Delegation Urges Continuation Of Industry Bureau

Their social legislation program defeated by the Legislature, labor leaders today looked to Gov. Pinchot to maintain the Bureau of Industrial Relations as the sole means of curbing sweatshop operations in the state.

Twenty-five representatives of labor and groups interested in social legislation from the Pittsburgh district conferred with the Governor yesterday in Harrisburg. They were part of a state-wide delegation who urged a special session of the Legislature be called to enact minimum wage, shorter working hours and old age pension laws.

Pinchot and John A. Phillips, president of the State Federation of Labor, said the conferees were particularly interested in finding some means of keeping the Bureau of Industrial Relations in operation.

Stephen Raushenbaush, head of the bureau, is to speak at a mass meeting in the Second Presbyterian Church here tomorrow night.

Gov. Pinchot explained a rider had been attached to the Legislature's general appropriation bill stipulating that none of the money appropriated for the Department of Labor and Industry should be used for the work of the Bureau of Industrial Relations.

It was explained here that if the bureau is eliminated, there will be no personnel nor money to investigate working conditions and to enforce laws now in effect.

After the conference, Gov. Pinchot said:

"I told them that I would do anything I could to remedy the serious mistake made by the Legislature."

Pinchot Blames Martin, G. O. P. for Sweatshops

HARRISBURG, May 24.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot last night asserted sweatshops have flourished during his administration because the Republican organization and the Legislature have refused to give the state adequate weapons with which to fight them.

Gen. Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, and Representative Ellwood J. Turner (Delaware) both were said by the Governor to have issued statements asking how it was possible for sweatshops to spring up in the state while Pinchot is Governor. Pinchot said:

"Sweatshops are being driven out of other states. The sweatshop owners know that the lawmaking bodies of Pennsylvania were in absolute control of the Republican state organization; that the Republican organization is absolutely opposed to all social legislation; that New York and New Jersey have minimum wage laws, and that Pennsylvania has no minimum wage law, and that the Pennsylvania Senate has refused to pass minimum wage legislation."

MAY FETE TWINS PUZZLE PARENTS

Betty to Be Queen Unless Mother Pins Veil on Rosemary

If Betty Kline's mother doesn't make a mistake and pin the veil on Betty's twin sister, Rosemary, Betty will be May Queen at St. Francis Xavier School, California avenue, this afternoon, with Rosemary maid of honor.

Both were chosen yesterday. There was no explanation why one was chosen queen and the other maid, except by Rosemary. She said:

The twins, 10, are children of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Kline, the father a city detective. Accustomed to carrying mental pictures, the father said:

"I've got to think twice before I can distinguish between them."

And to prove they are like two peas in a pod he told how once, when Betty was bitten by a dog and both twins were crying, Mrs. Kline started to the hospital with Rosemary.

As Mrs. Kline held a dress rehearsal for the crowning today, she had to ponder which should wear the veil.

PAY ARGUMENT SETTLED

Workmen engaged in razing the fire-swept Turtle Creek High School, who walked off the job yesterday in protest of what they termed "starvation wages," returned to work today following a wage compromise with representatives of H. Tuber & Co., Cleveland contracting firm.

The workmen, under leadership of the Turtle Creek Unemployed Council, protested a 30-cents-an-hour wage, to be paid in tax receipts. They demanded an eight-hour day and 50 cents an hour, half in tax receipts and half in cash.

A 40-cents-an-hour wage, 25 cents in tax receipts and 15 cents in cash, was accepted by the 30 strikers at a meeting last night in the Unemployed Council headquarters.

Lady Wylie also will be here. Arrangements to entertain the visitors, who will stop at Hotel Schenley, are being made by Samuel E. Eliot, executive secretary of the Manchester Educational Center, one of the eight Rhodes scholars in the district.

Mildred Does a Casey, Knocks Out Pal's Teeth

It was the last half of the ninth, the score was even, or thereabouts, and the bases all were filled.

Mildred Myers, 13, of McLaughlin road, Bridgeville, was at bat. She wanted a homer. The ball shot across the plate and Mildred took a mighty swing.

She missed. The bat whizzed through the air, right in the direction of her pal, Adele Anton, 13, of Baldwin street, who wasn't thinking of tragedy.

It struck her on the mouth, and the family dentist was in for a job. They picked her up—her friends. She spit out a tooth, felt another that was doomed to follow, and pretty soon she came back to earth. Said Adele to the pinch hitter:

"Tell 'em we're still friends. I'm not a bit sore. What's a tooth between friends?"

Maybe Europe's Just Collecting Noted Autographs

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

They're going in for that old college debate at Geneva. This is the second time around for most of the boys. They can give the Johnny Newcomers tips on the accustics.

Fifty-four nations and fifty-four tongues. Well, we're rooting for them like the hog that dug the truffles for the farmer.

No sensible person wants war. That's the trouble. They don't ask the sensible persons.

We hope they get the thing washed and ironed this time. It has been going on 15 years.

And our diplomats have signed so many gentle parchments that we don't know whether Europe is sincere or whether it is going in for collections of prominent autographs.

If that is the racket we'll trade 'em Button Gwinnet for Napoleon, Philip of Macedonia, Bismarck, Peter the Great, Tamerlane, Cleopatra, the dying gladiator, Marshel Ney, Charlie the Fifth and the bird who swam the English channel.

FIRE PARK CHIEF TO EMPLOY INDEPENDENT

Custodian Don Graham, of North Park, today learned that his services are no longer required by the county. Dropping Graham from the payroll, Commissioners C. M. Barr and C. C. McGovern made room for Peter P. Beatty, independent organization chairman of the Twelfth Ward.

Graham is to be succeeded by Press Anderson, who as special representative of the Commissioners spent six months searching for a swimming pool site in North Park. Transferring Anderson from South to North Park, the Commissioners are making Beatty South Park custodian.

The changes were decided upon at a conference a few days ago by Barr and McGovern. McGovern was out of the city yesterday when final action was taken. Barr said Graham's work was satisfactory and that he probably would be given another job.

GETS PAY RAISE

By the transfer Anderson will receive a $25 increase in salary unless the Commissioners rescind the raise they unknowingly provided for the North Park custodian recently.

Park Director A. M. Marion had asked changes in the salary schedule to take the place of rent deductions from employes living in park houses. Anderson was not among these, but was on the schedule for an increase from $175 to $200 a month.

The Commissioners refused him the raise, but approved the remainder of the schedule, including an increase for the North Park custodian. This increase will now benefit Anderson.

GOLF PRO APPROVED

The Commissioners yesterday approved the appointment of Walter Loeffler as golf professional at North Park.

R. P. Jordan, of Bellevue, is to be hired as a construction supervisor at $1,980 a year; George H. Eiser, of McComb street, as a bridge draftsman at $1,980, and Thomas A. Frazier, of 2220 Perrysville avenue, as a painting supervisor at $175 a month.

The Commissioners announced the creation of four other positions to be filled in the near future. They are one assistant engineer, two painting supervisors and one bridge draftsman.

RETAIL PARLEY TOMORROW

A number of Pittsburgh store executives tomorrow will attend the first annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Retailers' Association, in the Penn Harris Hotel, Harrisburg.

Featuring the morning session will be an address by Arthur Kaufmann, president of McCreery & Co., and regional vice president of the association. His topic will be "The Retailer's Place in Politics," a matter that has been concerning heads of mercantile establishments. Mr. Kaufmann has been a leading figure in organizing retailers in the Pittsburgh area in the protection of their legislative interests.

Committee reports and the election of officers will occupy the balance of the morning. In the afternoon Speaker Grover C. Talbot, of the House of Representatives, will speak on "Relief Legislation in Pennsylvania." "The Lost Customer of Business" will be discussed by Dr. Joseph H. Willits, University of Pennsylvania, and "The Newspaper and the Retailer" by Col. Ernest G. Smith, publisher of the Wilkes-Barre Times-Leader. A banquet with two addresses is scheduled for the evening.

Sleuths Renew Hunt Of Aged Pair's Killer

County detectives today were making a last-minute effort to locate the killers of Frank Kosulak, 70, and his wife, Kathryn, 56, found murdered on March 17 in their home at Champion Hill, near Sturgeon. The inquest will be held Friday.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(AP.)—The 1933 bonus camp in Washington was evacuated peacefully last night with 2,372 of the veterans en route to the reforestation camps.

Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, reported to President Roosevelt that the camp at Fort Hunt had been closed.

Beer Truck Rides Into Yard - But Not Out

A New Jersey beer trucker who brought a load of German beer to Pittsburgh is in a quandary over how he is to get his truck out of A. P. Weilersbacher's yard at South Thirteenth and Sarah streets.

It's a question of loading the beer back on the truck or tearing down Mr. Weilersbacher's gate.

The loaded truck passed through the gate without difficulty, but with the cargo removed the springs were released, and now the vehicle will not pass under a crossbar embedded in brick over the entrance.

The problem is one for Abe Cohen, driver for Carlo & Son, of Trenton, N. J., to solve.

CITY CHILDREN TO HAVE PARK

minus acrobatics

CHEVROLET Chevrolet has done away with all the acrobatics of starting a car—by giving you the Starterator. This invention reduces car-starting to one simple, easy motion. Just push the accelerator all the way down—and there you are. A typical Chevrolet advancement!—and it's exclusive to the Chevrolet Six in its field. What's more—Chevrolet has banished a great many other "pet peeves" of the modern driver. Annoying vibration? It's gone forever, due to a patented cushion balanced engine-mounting. Stubborn, noisy gear-shifting? It's gone, too, because Chevrolet has a Syncro-Mesh transmission and Free Wheeling. And don't forget—high costs are also gone, and gone for good. Because you SAVE with a new Chevrolet. Save on gas and oil, save on upkeep, save on everything!

"Where in the world is the starter button?"

"There isn't any, dear! Just step on the accelerator pedal—there you are! Isn't that easy?"

PINCHOT VETOES BILL HITTING INDEPENDENTS

HARRISBURG, May 24.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot yesterday vetoed the Long (Philadelphia) bill, criticizing it as a measure which "would in effect do away with independent nominations entirely" in Pennsylvania elections.

The bill required that nomination papers of independent candidates be filed 14 days before the primary election. It made no provision for filing of papers by independent candidates after a primary election.

In municipal elections the Governor said this would require independent candidates to file in August for the November election and would require independent candidates in state-wide elections to file in April or May for the November election.

POINTS OUT EFFECTS

The Governor said:

"This is vicious legislation. This bill is absolutely indefensible.

"If a nomination at the primary election is stolen, a defeated candidate would have no adequate redress, and could not secure the printing of his name upon the official ballot for the general election as an independent candidate.

"It has been the practical experience that independent nominations are brought about on account of conditions arising at or after primary elections. Approval of this measure would in effect do away with independent nominations entirely."

OTHER VETOES

The Governor vetoed other bills, including:

Armstrong (Allegheny) permitting counties to appropriate more than $75, the limit now provided by law, for burial of deceased service men who were residents of the county.

Einstein (Allegheny) permitting Allegheny County Commissioners to appropriate $500 a year for the support of each regiment of the organized reserve having its headquarters in that county and to permit them to appropriate money for the conventions of reserve officers' associations, the American Legion and other army veterans' organizations.

JUVENILE BILL APPROVED

The Governor signed bills including:

Mansfield (Allegheny) requiring the Commissioners of Allegheny County to appropriate money for maintaining houses of detention for juveniles under 16 years of age who are awaiting trial.

Mansfield (Allegheny) fixing the salary of Allegheny County Poor Directors at $3,500 a year.

Mansfield (Allegheny) providing that the special county road tax which cannot exceed two mills may be used for bridge purposes whether the bridges are or are not on county roads.

MY OWN LIFE STORY

No one said a word for a few blocks. Then McCaleb spoke:

"Whom did he kill? Do you know the man he killed?

"Yes," I answered. "Stanford White."

"Stanford White!" cried McCaleb. "Stanford White! Oh! My God! OH! My God."

"But this is a nightmare!" I said. "It isn't true!" It can't be true!"

"Where shall we take you?" asked Truxton Beale. "To the Lorraine?"

There was some conversation between McCaleb and Beale about my going to the hotel—about newspaper men finding me there.

"Is there anyone there to take care of you?" they asked.

"No one," I said, "but my maid."

"That won't do. She can't be left alone," said McCaleb. "There will be a reaction soon. She will have to have some one to take care of her. Maybe we'd better call a doctor."

"No! No" I cried. "Don't do that! And don't take me to the Lorraine. I'll go to a friend. Take me to 148 East Forty-ninth street."

So they drove me to the house where May MacKenzie lived. How I got up to her room I don't know. I don't remember. I was in some sort of daze. She had gone to bed. I woke her and told her what had happened.

"Harry has shot and killed Stanford!"

That was all I could say. She got me a glass of water and then called Mrs. Molloy, the landlady.

Mrs. Molloy was a well-to-do woman who let only a few rooms on the two top floors of her house to a few chosen lodgers. She was very fussy and particular about who lived in her place. The house was quiet, well-furnished, clean and a safe refuge for me that night.

Reporters' Siege

But New York newspapermen work like lightning. In a short time the front door bell began ringing. Mrs. Molloy looked out an upper window and saw the newspapermen—at least a dozen of them, she said— on the steps below.

"What do you want?" she called out.

They had a dozen questions.

"Did May MacKenzie know where I was? Did she know what had happened?"

Then I was taken down to Mrs. Molloy's room, where I lay on the bed. I remember they put cold compresses on my head. But I just couldn't bring myself to believe that this terrible thing had happened. I kept saying:

"I'll wake up and find it's a dream, a hideous nightmare. It just can't be true. It can't be true!"

The newspapermen came back again and again all through the night. There was no sleep for any of those people. They were too excited, anyhow.

In the morning, George and Margaret Carnegie, Thaw's sister and brother-in-law, came after May MacKenzie telephoned them telling them where I was.

"The best thing for you, Evelyn," they said, "is for you to go back to the Lorraine Hotel. You can't stay here without the newspapers finding out where you are. And for the present, they seem to think you have left town, so it's a good chance for you to slip away and into the hotel before they know it."

My weeping and faithful maid, Nellie, came with a change of clothes and they took me back to the Lorraine.

In a Daze

All that must have happened, but it is hard for me to remember it definitely. Nature is kind at such times, for I couldn't shake myself out of the daze into which I seemed to have fallen. I couldn't even believe I was alive. I seemed to move about mechanically. I don't think I slept or touched a morsel of food for over a week. I couldn't even take milk.

Slowly, but surely, I began to collect my thoughts.

Harry's mother was on the high seas, Europe-bound, and George Carnegie and Margaret, Harry's oldest sister, then about 30 years of age, were the only members of the family in town at the time. They had taken a house at Roslyn, Long Island, and so were nearby.

My first talk with anyone regarding the tragedy was with George Carnegie.

"Evelyn," he said, "we have all known for a long time that Harry is crazy."

"He's eccentric, erratic, yes," I answered.

"I could tell you a lot of things you don't know," George continued, and he did. "But, for Heaven's sake, don't say I told you this. I'd never hear the end of it if you did. Be careful what you say to anybody. Don't talk to anybody. There are some lawyers coming up here to see you—Harry's lawyers, Clifford Hartridge and a man named John Gleason."

"Why," I exclaimed, "they are friends of his. He plays bridge with them at the Whist Club."

"Well, he seems to have retained them. Anyway, they are coming up here to see you."

The Lawyers

Hartridge and Gleason soon came to my room. They advised me to say nothing to anybody and said that if the District Attorney insisted on subpenaing me, I was to accept the subpena, but that no matter what happened or what was done, I was to have nothing to say to anyone, not even a dearest friend.

There I was, all alone. Harry Thaw had surely succeeded in cutting me off, separating me from my family and friends so that the only two friends I had left were May MacKenzie and Mrs. Caine. I don't think anyone in the world, under such circumstances, was ever so alone.

A few days later Bedford, Thaw's lifelong valet, died, when he failed to rally after an operation for appendicitis.

New York began to set itself for the trial. If Bedford had lived, with all he knew he would have been the star witness. As it was, the spotlight played on me. Harry languished in the Tombs. That is, he didn't exactly languish. He loved the publicity and reveled in his situation as the undisputed Page 1 headline of the world.

CLEAR CABARET IN ROW

Police Supt. Franklin T. McQuaide today cleared the New Plantation Club, 340 Third avenue, of any connection with a free-for-all fight near the club quarters and said he would not revoke the license permitting it to operate. He also explained why police did not appear against four prisoners at a hearing.

McQuaide said:

"It was only a disorderly conduct case. It didn't happen in the Club Plantation. It was nearer to the Keystone Club. The lieutenant let the officer appear at the hearing after giving him a history of the case. I am not going to revoke the license."

At the hearing yesterday, the prisoners were discharged after Patrolman Harry Levine, to whom the arrests were credited, testified the men were in the patrol wagon when he arrived and he knew nothing of the trouble.

Spring is burgeoning with romance, and the synonym of romance, engagements, this year. Today I want to tell you of the betrothal of one of our most attractive young girls.

Dr. and Mrs. Harold J. Dorrance, of South Negley avenue, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Harriet La Salle Dorrance, to David Marshall Humphreys, son of William Y. Humphreys, of South Dallas avenue.

Since her debut, La Salle has been interested in amateur theatricals, and has appeared in Stage and Play Society productions.

A group of Pittsburgh's smart set is in New York for the wedding this morning of Mary Haskell and Richard Egan, a member of the Rolling Rock Hunt.

Richard King Mellon, Paul Mellon, the Herbert A. Mays, the Thomas F. Smiths, the James Blacks, the David M. Gilmores, the Bailey Balkens, George Gordon Crawford and Ambrose N. Diehl were among the Pittsburgh guests, and Mrs. William Randolph Hearst and the Alfred E. Smiths were at the wedding, too.

The wedding took place in St. Ignatius Loyal Church at 11:30 o'clock this morning with the Rev. James Farrell, of Georgetown University, an uncle of the bridegroom, officiating.

In Gown Of Satin

The bride, who is the daughter of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. William N. Haskell, of New York, was given in marriage by her father. She wore an ivory-white satin gown and a veil of old lace brought from Russia by her father. She carried lilies of the valley.

Her sisters-in-law, Mrs. John Haskell and Mrs. Joseph Haskell, of New York, wore turquoise blue gowns, leghorn hats and carried lilacs. The bridesmaids wore similar gowns in corn-color and carried sweet peas.

Charles Egan, Jr., was his brother's best man, and among the 12 ushers were Richard King Mellon and Herbert A. May. Bridal wreath and dogwood decorated the church.

End Play Season

The Stage and Play Society had as the climax of its season a production of Milne's "To Have the Honor" last night in the Twentieth Century Club with Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby playing the lead.

After the annual meeting followed the play, the Fitzhughs entertained with a supper in the Pittsburgh Golf Club.

Springlike weather gave the feminine members of the audience an opportunity to wear their new spring frocks of organdies, organzas and starched chiffons over rustling taffeta slips, and the ever-popular chiffons and flowered crepes.

In White Organdie

Petite, blonde Mrs. H. Allen Machesney, Jr., was charming in a checked black and white organdie with an upstanding ruff about the neckline and a trim black velvet Eton jacket.

Merrick, Mrs. George Pomeroy Bassett, Mrs. Elizabeth Moorhead Vermorcken, Mrs. George Pearson, Dorothy Blaxter in white crepe printed in magenta and pale green, Mrs. Mortimer Miller and the George C. Dry Resolution Given To Parent Congress

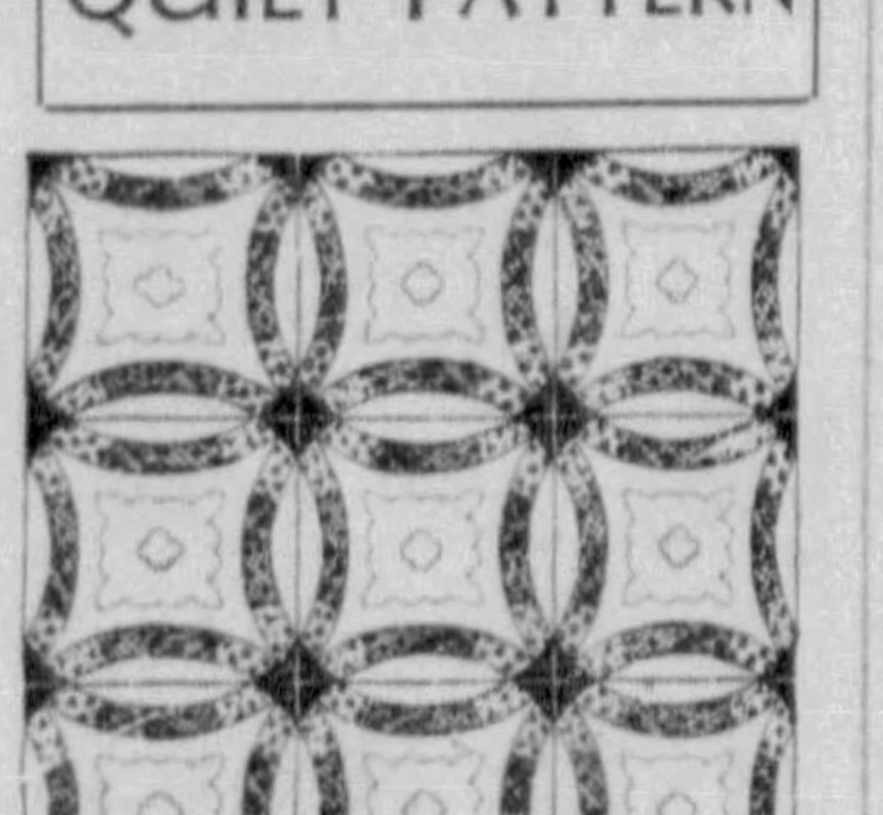
SEATTLE, May 24.—(AP.)—Resolutions intended to put the annual convention of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers on record against legalized beer and in favor of creation of school sentiment against liquor were in the hands of committee members today.

The proposed policies were submitted by Mrs. W. T. Bannerman, of Washington, chairman of the legislation committee, and Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools at Atlanta, Ga., chairman of the committee on the use of alcohol and narcotics.

Mrs. J. K. Pettengill, of Lansing, Mich., director of the department of public welfare and Mrs. Bannerman's immediate superior, said she believed Mrs. Bannerman had exceeded her authority in "going into the philosophy behind alcoholic and narcotic legislation."

PATCHWORK QUILT PATTERN



PATTERN NO. 434 By Laura Wheeler

Double Wedding Ring

The quilt has always been a product of the home. In its design or in its name the ideals and the activities of a simple home life were reflected. So the wedding ring has given its name to various forms of quilt designs. The best known and most popular is this lovely Double Wedding Ring, whose interlacing circles can so effectively be made from small scraps of material. When carefully arranged, these patches form a charming color gradation. The simple quilting motif adds to the richness of the pattern. The large blocks quickly form a quilt that will enhance any bedroom.

The pattern comes to you with complete, simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, quilting motif, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10 cents for a pattern for this design to the Pittsburgh Sun Telegraph, Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

Literature Department Of New Century Gives Rainbow Luncheon

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Many clever ideas were carried out yesterday at the annual luncheon of Dormont New Century Club's literature department. It was called a rainbow luncheon and in decorations, program and, in some instances, even the food color was the predominating note. The versatile Mrs. E. E. Houghtelin (one wonders what would happen to Dormont literary affairs without her) presided and furnished original rhymes and songs for part of the program. Each woman taking part in the program was given a color as her subject.

Mrs. C. B. Clover did an original rhyme on red, mentioning "the red-headed woman" who was presiding. Mrs. C. C. Taylor gave a small boy's very amusing composition on orange. Mrs. E. L. Thomssen's contribution was a whistling solo and a highly humerous class in botany with the dandelion as the study subject.

For green, Mrs. C. W. Scheck, the new department chairman, gave an original monologue in Irish dialect. Mrs. L. M. Christie and Mrs. G. D. Francisco, in rompers and hair ribbons, sang "Two Little Girls in Blue." Mrs. H. H. Heinrich had violet "for humility" and paid tribute to the retiring department head, Mrs. C. K. Harvey, who, she said, "had humility plus ability."

Reading from a "pot of gold," Mrs. Richard B. Perry gave a potpourri of quotations, poems and stories. And in conclusion there was a playlet by Mrs. J. N. Orbin, Mrs. Harry Brinkman and Mrs. Christie.

STEVE'S FORM MEANS MUCH TO BUCS

Owen Carroll

ONE SUCCESSFUL PITCHING performance may be due to a lucky day, to a lot of breaks, or to catching the opposing club out of stride. But when the same pitcher follows up with a four-hit shutout, there is no longer any room for doubt that he is winning on form. In blanking the Dodgers yesterday, Steve Swetonic clinched the preliminary evidence he had given against the Phillies five days earlier that his arm is O. K. and that he is again in his best stride. In his two winning games he yielded only two runs and 10 hits. That's typical Swetonic pitching—one of the smartest heads in the majors behind a wealth of slab stuff. When Steve is normal there's none better, and the signs that a continuance of such high-grade pitching may be expected to mean a lot to the Pittsburgh club's future.

Swetonic's latest victory is all the more noteworthy because it was scored in a duel with a pitcher who has been one of the season's standouts. Prior to yesterday, Owen Carroll had lost only one game, his initial start as a Dodger, and even in that defeat he allowed only two runs and was not scored on until the ninth inning. From that time until yesterday he had won five games and pitched a one-run tie, and in all his seven games, or a total of 63 innings pitched, he had allowed only 12 runs. Beating that kind of opposition was a big achievement by Swetonic and the Bucs.

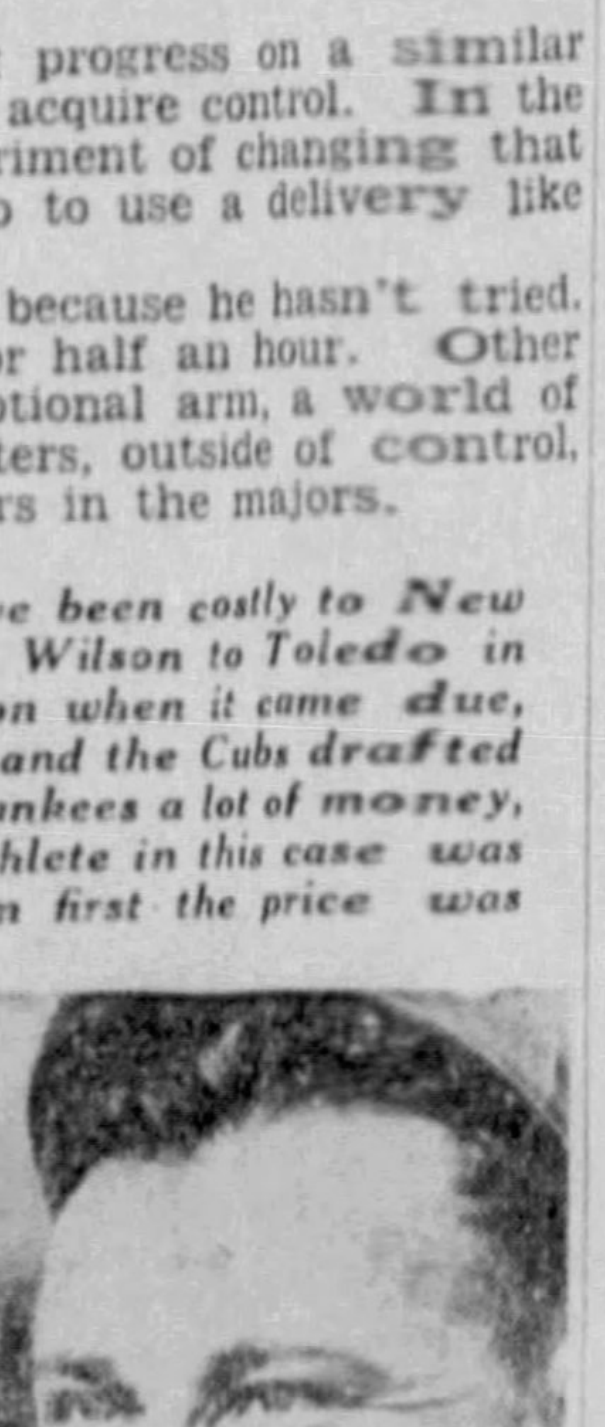
THE GIANTS MAY not stay up there, and many baseball men think they will not, but Bill Terry is given all the credit for having made the surprising showing continue even up to this time.

It seems that Terry used opposite methods in handling Parmelee and Schumacher. He told Bud to concentrate on control, and confidence naturally would follow. But in the case of Hal he worked on confidence first, made the youngster believe himself to be as good as the best, and control came later. Terry got the same result from different directions, proving his shrewdness in knowing and handling his men.

MAX CAREY is reported to be making progress on a similar problem of making an otherwise good pitcher acquire control. In the case of Van Mungo, Carey has tried the experiment of changing that Brooklyn hurler's delivery. He wants Mungo to use a delivery like that of Lonnie Warneke.

If Mungo doesn't find himself it won't be because he hasn't tried. On three off days he went out and threw for half an hour. Other Brooklyn players predict that, with an exceptional arm, a world of stuff and all that it takes to overpower hitters, outside of control, Mungo will yet be one of the greatest pitchers in the majors.

MISTAKES IN THE business office have been costly to New York clubs. When the Giants farmed Hack Wilson to Toledo in 1925, somebody forgot to exercise the option when it came due, with the result that title to Wilson was lost and the Cubs drafted him for 1926. A similar oversight cost the Yankees a lot of money, though they did not lose the player. The athlete in this case was Dusty Cooke. When the Yanks bought him first the price was $12,000, but when he was farmed to St. Paul a clerical error caused the major league club to lose title to him and it had to pay $50,000 more to get him back. The Red Sox paid about $25,000 to obtain Cooke recently from the Yankees via Newark, and if he lives up to his early promise the Yanks may discover in the end that they made another mistake in letting him go.



Johnny Vergez

WHEN THE GIANTS invade Forbes Field tomorrow you can fine one of the reasons for their surprising showing this spring by looking at third base. The great comeback pulled by Johnny Vergez has been one of the biggest factors in making the New York club an early contender for first place instead of the hopeless second-division outfit it had been labeled.

When Vergez slumped badly last year after a brilliant debut in 1931 he was tagged as just a one-year flash who had shot his bolt and was due to return to the minors. But they had Johnny wrong. It wasn't lack of ability that caused him to sag. He was heart-broken over the death of his infant son during the training season of 1932. The shock put him down for months, and he couldn't put his former zest into his work.

BUT TIME TEMPERED the player's grief, and he has come back this year in a manner to make himself even a greater performer than he was in his first season in the majors. Now he is called the sparkplug of the team, and his all-around brilliance has had much to do with the Giant rush.

Not only has the defensive steadiness of Vergez helped to make the Giant infield one of the spring standouts, but his hitting has been an even mightier factor. He has been maintaining the highest batting averages among the regulars on the club, and has turned the tide in many a close game that otherwise would have slipped away.

COACH MYLES LANE notified Boston University that he would not accept a 25 per cent reduction in his football salary and would resign first. The college powers have shown no inclination to change their decision, so Lane probably will be allowed to carry out his threat. Lane has had a lot of ups and downs since he starred with Andy Oberlander in the backfield for Dartmouth's great eleven in 1925. Detroit gave him a baseball contract, but he couldn't make good when farmed to Evansville for a tryout. While very fast, he couldn't hit well enough to get anywhere in the professional ranks. Turning to hockey, he joined the New York Rangers, was shifted to the Boston Bruins and finally to the Boston Cubs. Then he signed as football coach at Boston University, and it looks now as though he is done there, too.

THE TOUGH NATURE of the football coaching job at which Tuss McLaughry is so remarkably successful at Brown is never fully realized until you take time to give the schedule that the Providence school plays every fall a thorough weighing. Little is ever said about Brown's schedule, but each year it is one of the heaviest.

The slate mapped out for next season is a sample of the grind through which McLaughry has to steer his team each year. During the 1933 campaign Brown will meet Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Holy Cross, Colgate and Syracuse in its major games. And in 1934, the Providence gridders again will play six major team, with Columbia replacing Princeton. There are no soft spots for Tuss.

THE FOUR CLUBS that will vie with one another for patronage during the outdoor boxing season in this district might keep in mind the experience of the men behind similar ventures in other parts of the country, who have found that the size of the gate depends on the kind of attractions offered.

In San Francisco, for instance, they tried to lure the fans to the opening outdoor show with a main bout that presented K. O. Christner against Leroy Haynes. The result was a new all-time low in public boxing enthusiasm, as witness the total receipts of $300

Abe Attell

DISCUSSIONS OF UNUSUAL limits set for ring battles have caused old-timers to recall that Abe Attell and Owen Moran probably set the record in that direction when they fought for the featherweight championship on September 7, 1908, in Colma, Cal. On New Year's Day in the same year they had boxed 25 rounds to a draw in San Francisco. For the second meeting, Moran wanted 40 rounds, and Attell tried to have the limit cut to 20. They finally compromised on the freakish distance of 23 rounds, and 23 rounds it was. It went the limit to another draw and Abe retained his title. Attell met Moran twice after that before losing his championship to Johnny Kilbane in 1912, but each time it was for 10 rounds, no decision. A draw was the best any of them could get with Attell in those days, except for the pasting that Jem Driscoll gave him in 1909 in New York. One of the few who actually defeated the great Abe was Jack McClelland, Pittsburgh's master fighter of the same year. McClelland won a clean-cut decision over Attell in a 15-round bout at St. Louis, on June 2, 1904.

TED FORSAKES WELTERWEIGHT COMPETITION

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

That is the new battle cry of Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, following his victory in a hard-fought battle with Tommy Freeman, former welterweight champion, now campaigning as a middleweight, at Hickey Park, Millvale, last Monday night.

Yarosz, who contends he still can make the welterweight limit of 147 pounds, and will do it for any of the outstanding performers in that division, is looking ahead. Along with his manager, Ray Foutts, he has pondered over the situation and is ready to take a flier in the heavier class. Here's how Foutts explained the situation today:

"Teddy satisfied himself in the Freeman bout that he can cope with the strong middleweights. He didn't do any road work for five days before that battle so he would come in at somewhere near Freeman's weight and just matched him at 154¼ pounds. Doing roadwork and watching what he ate he could have come under 150 without any trouble.

STARS PASS HIM UP

"However, we have decided that if the welterweights won't come to us, we'll go after the middleweights. There are only a few leading welterweights Yarosz has not boxed. They include Young Corbett III, the champion; Jimmy McLarnin, Jackie Fields, former champion, and Johnny Indrisano and Lou Brouillard, the latter also a former champion, and the promoters claim they can't get them for Teddy. This being the case, it is up to us to do something to help ourselves."

"The Freeman fight really was a test for Teddy. It was one of the roughest and toughest affairs he's ever had, and he learned more in it from Freeman's strategy than he's picked up in a dozen other fights. If Freeman wants a return fight, Teddy will grant it gladly, for he thinks he has absorbed enough knowledge about the former champion's style to beat him more handily the next time. He discovered, after a few rounds, that he could push off Freeman in the clinches and break up Tommy's body punching, and Tommy will be minus his best bet if they meet again.

READY FOR DUNDEE

"Now, Teddy is gunning for at least one or more big bouts this summer. The middleweight field looks ripe. There is no generally recognized champion, and the field narrows down to Vince Dundee, the outstanding American title claimant: Ben Jeby, who is recognized as champion in New York State; Gorilla Jones, who is in bad with the authorities; Frankie Battaglia, strictly a puncher; Marcel Thil, of France, and possibly one or two others.

"I think Yarosz is ready now

RIPLEY

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: ENTEBBE, LAKE VICTORIA-NYANZA, AFRICA—The deeper into Africa I go the more interesting it becomes. It is the most unbelievable continent of all. Instead of being the "Dark Continent" the word "Africa" (of Arabian origin) really means "The Dazzling White Continent." As soon as I arrived in Entebbe, Uganda (this makes the one hundred and thirty-seventh country visited), I immediately got busy drawing yesterday's cartoon. THE TSETSE FLY—This dreadful scourge of Equatorial Africa is responsible for the prevalence of "sleeping sickness" in humans, as well as for the spread of "nagana," a fatal disease in cattle. The tsetse is the chief curse of the continent. It claims a horrible toll of human life and severest economic loss. Where the tsetse appears, life comes to a standstill. At one time the German government announced that it had discovered a chemical remedy against sleeping sickness, and offered to donate it to humanity in exchange for a restoration of the colonies it lost as a result of the World War. The German secret was promptly solved by a French chemical firm. THE SENTINELS OF THIRST—The two tombstones situated in the Sahara, near Atar in French West Africa, mark the scene of a gripping desert tragedy. The last survivors of a luckless caravan, the Egyptian merchant Ab Ishay and his camel-driver, Arik, died here with thirst in 1883, only about 1,000 paces from the well that would have saved their lives. Minutes before he expired, Ab Ishay persuaded the driver to part with a last mouthful of water, paying him 10,000 ducats for the precious drops. The money and deed, certified in the handwriting of the merchant, were found on the dead driver. A protracted litigation between the heirs of the two men resulted in a decision favoring the next of kin of the camel driver.

ARENA BOUTS CALLED OFF

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Eddie Shea vs. Jimmy Vaughn, 10 rounds, and Tommy Hudson vs. Mike Tucker, Gene Marsh vs. Frank Mayville, Joey Boldin vs. Billy Pirrone, and Christ Harley vs. Mickey Dugan, 6 rounds each, Cleveland.

Joe Teiken vs. Frankie Nour, 10 rounds, San Francisco.

The first club to be hit by the week-old ruling of the boxing commission that all contracts for main bout boxers must be in the hands of the commission, including substitutions, five days before the night of the show, is the Arena, on the North Side. As a result, the show carded for tomorrow night is off.

Pete DeGrasse, who was to box Petey Sarron in the main bout, is down with ivy poisoning, and will not be able to box for at least a week. The rule barred a substitute opponent on two days' notice, and the club cannot carry over the show intact to next week because Sarron boxes Johnny Datto, local Filipino, in a return bout in his home town, Birmingham, Ala., Friday night of next week.

Sarron recently won by a technical knockout in less than a minute over Datto at the Arena, and the folks down South refused to believe it, for they have heard so much of Datto as a topliner, so they are bringing the pair together again.

Matchmaker Lew Raymond is piecing together the loose ends and will be able to announce his new card within a day or two.

Between Rounds

The program is complete for the second show at Hickey Park, Millvale, next Monday night, with the exception of an opponent for Louie Severo, of Meadville, in the semi-final of six rounds. Jimmy Gilligan boxes Sammy Paris in the second bout and Shorty Washko and Teddy Mancuso are in another six-rounder, with Johnny Warner boxing Joey Adams, of Johnstown, in the four-round opener. Lew Massey and Tony Herrera are in the 10-round windup.

Harry Jacoby, formerly of Newark, N. J., and Fort Wayne, a middleweight, is the latest addition to the stable of Ray Foutts, of East Liverpool, O. He is a graduate civil engineer of Tri-State College in Fort Wayne, and has scored nine knockouts in 14 professional fights and stopped 21 opponents in 24 bouts as an amateur. He recently boxed Carmen Barth in Ohio and Foutts is enthusiastic about his prospects. Jacoby is Jewish. He will make his home here and work out with Ted Yarosz for bouts tentatively arranged for the Arena and Hickey Park.

Lou Jallos, of Homestead, formerly of Cleveland, has been signed for the eight-round semi-final to the Eddie (Kid) Wolfe-Tracey Cox 10-rounder in the North Braddock Bowl one week from tonight. He meets Pete Gulotto, of New York. Two six-round preliminaries will complete the bill.

Bill Simendinger writes that Frankie Karnash knocked out Jimmy Bentz in two rounds in an amateur bout at East Pittsburgh last Saturday night, and not vice versa, as reported.

FAMOUS PROS PLAY HERE

A banner event in the local golfing realm is scheduled for tomorrow when Gene Sarazen, holder of both the American and British Open titles, comes to town with Joe Kirkwood to play Pete O'Hara and Vincent Eldred, local professionals, in an exhibition match at the Pittsburgh Field Club.

Sarazen got his start in Pittsburgh, winning the National Open title for the first time at Skokie while serving as the professional at the Highland Country Club, in Bellevue, where Eldred now holds forth. He will defend both of his titles this year and is playing at the top of his game. He has been very much in the limelight recently as the sponsor of the idea for bigger and better cups on the greens.

In opposing Eldred and O'Hara he will be facing two of the best scoring stars in the district, both of them with a great deal of tournament experience.

Sam Parks, Jr., and Rader Jewett oppose Sarazen and Kirkwood at the Elm Grove Country Club, Wheeling, on Friday.

Steve Swetonic's return to the form that made him one of the outstanding pitchers of the game in the first half of the 1932 campaign, coupled with the smart angle of the team's play gave the Pirates a buoyant step today as they looked into the future of what promises to be a very exciting season.

In holding the Dodgers to four hits yesterday, Swetonic gave his best exhibition of the season, there being an especially pleasing development in the late rounds. Steve tripled to win his own game in the fifth round. Instead of allowing the chase on the paths to interfere with his slab work, Swetonic appeared to profit by the dash for he proceeded to retire 12 Dodgers in succession to complete his shutout victory. The score was 3 to 0.

PADDEN SAVES GAME

The real high spot of the slab duel between the University of Pittsburgh grad and Owen Carroll, of Holy Cross, was furnished by Catcher Tommy Padden and Capt. Pie Traynor in the second inning. Very frequently, a smart move in the early rounds will decide a ball game and Padden and Traynor had the smart action wrapped up for the Dodgers.

Tony Cuccinello and Jimmy Jordan hooked up sucessive singles in the second with one out. Tony went to third on the second hit and Jimmy ran to second on the play at third. At this point the Padden-Traynor trick clicked. Tommy and Pie have a pitchout stunt and the catcher called for a waste pitch. Steve let fly with the decoy ball and like a flash Padden had the rocket in Traynor's hands for a quick putout of the little Italian.

PLAY DAZES DODGERS

Arky Vaughan started the winning drive in the fifth with a walk. He was on second with two out when North Side Steve nicked Carroll for a three-sacker to right to score Arky. L. Waner then carved out a single to score Steve.

BASEBALL COMEDY

By NICK ALTROCK

Nick Altrock

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The title of Uncle Nick's sermon today is "You Never Can Tell." For instance, take the New York Giants. When John McGraw subtracted his master mind from the bench, they were supposed to be like chickens with their heads cut off. Then the boys got caught in that California earthquake (now called a four-alarm fire by the chamber of commerce) and came from spring training with the heebie-jeebies and the jitters.

The experts glanced 'em over and decided his year's Giants would be buried so deep in the cellar it would take archaeologists to exhume 'em. They ran into snowstorms, sleet and rain the first week of their season and when they finally started playing they dropped most of their games.

And look at the Giants now. The poor old wrecks are up there fighting with the Pirates for the flag. And how did it happen? Well, Bill Terry kept his lads from reading the obituary column in the papers and they just don't know they're supposed to be dead.

LOCAL CLUB TENNIS LEAGUE CARD ARRANGED

SEVEN MATCHES SCHEDULED FOR SATURDAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Seven contests will feature the inaugural card of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association Inter-Club League Saturday, according to official schedule released at P. T. A. headquarters today. Four engagements call into action each of the eight first division squads, while three tussles occupy attention of six of the entrants in division 2, the new Belmont array being the lone idle outfit in the entire loop.

Capt. Dave O'Loughlin and his champion P. A. A. crew will open upper sector hostilities and defense of their title by entertaining the powerful Shannopin followers of Bob Lampus on the Winged Head lot. Frank Smith's Edgewoodmen, thrice winners of the Keg immediately prior to 1932, are at home to the recently advanced Rockwood troupe. Two greatly strengthened contingents battle as Stanton Heights visits University Club, while another fast company addition, College Avenue, treks to Westinghouse.

In the lower group, Minnetonka returns to the fold after two seasons' absence and invades Washington Heights, as Bureau of Mines and Rockwood Seconds fight it out at Rockwood, and Westinghouse Seconds travel to the lot of the lately mustered College Avenue reserve combine.

SECTION I

June 3—Rockwood at Shannopin, Edgewood at University Club, Westinghouse at Stanton Heights, P. A. A. at College Avenue.

Grant Siverd's Dukes, disappointed over hairline setback at the hands of Pitt on Monday, seek victory over Waynesburg on the Bluff in the sole varsity fray listed for the district this afternoon.

Capt. Billy O'Loughlin, of the Panthers, pounded out 8-6, 1-6, 6-4, triumph over rangy Bill Thompson, leader of Wash-Jeff's netmen, at little Washington yesterday and thus settled for a time the long-standing question of supremacy in a rivalry that dates back to the days when the pair dominated the boys' tournaments of the district. The Blue and Gold racqueteers, emulating their pace-setter, breezed to 7-2 verdict over the Presidents, the point now at issue being whether Pitt or Grove City is entitled to the college crown of the tri-state area. Settlement is slated for Saturday, when the Golden Cats journey to the Crimson bailiwick.

YAROSZ QUITS WELTER CLASS

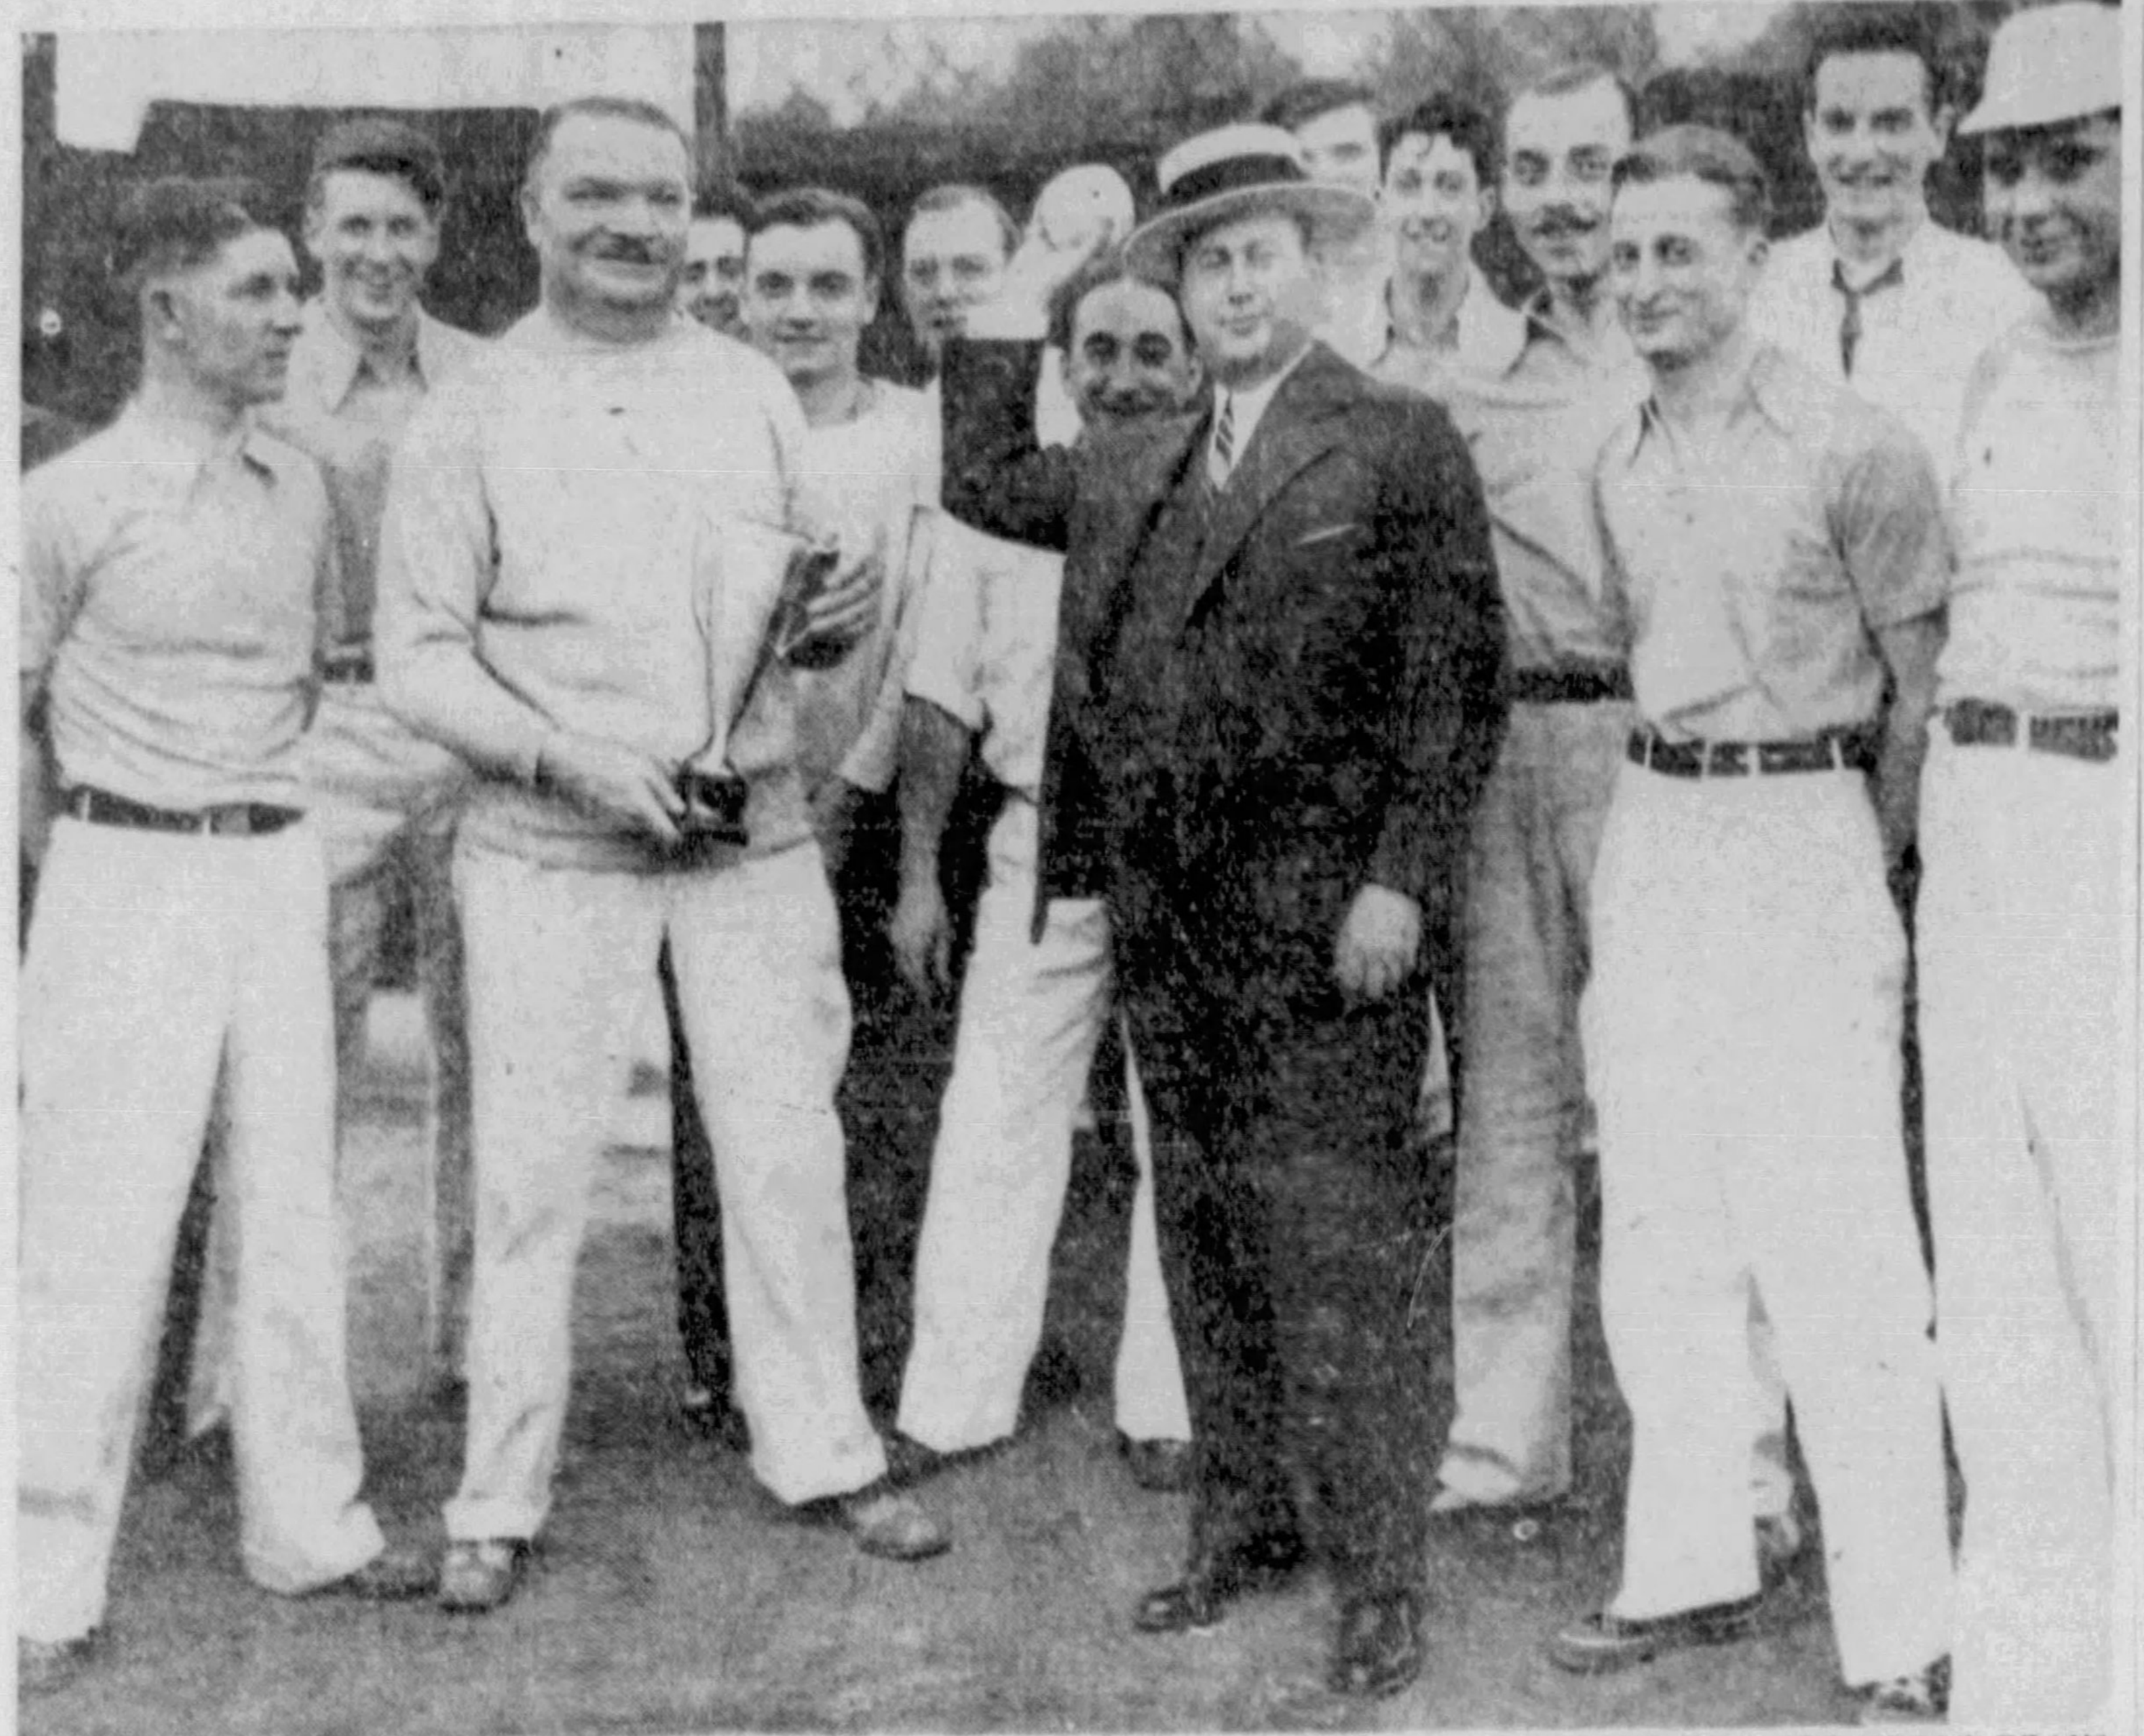
to take on any of these and beat them. I'd like nothing better than to match him with either Jeby or Dundee. If Dundee beats Frankie Goosby when they meet at the Arena here on June 8, and goes over well, I'll be glad to sign for Yarosz to box him. Teddy would rather give away a few pounds to the good middleweights than hurt himself making weight for a flock of mediocre welterweights while the better welters pass him up."

MAY BE CHAMPION

A right sensible idea this is on the part of Yarosz and his manager. Teddy proved in the hard going of his bout with Freeman that he has championship possibilities and that he is ready to be cut loose without delay against the best of them. He also demonstrated once again that he is Pittsburgh's best fistic drawing card by packing in the fans for the outdoor inaugural on a cool night. Don't be surprised if the announcement of his manager today proves to be the first step in the coronation of a fourth middleweight champion of the world from the Pittsburgh district, the others having been, in order, Frank Klaus, George Chip and Harry Greb.

The Freeman fight was Yarosz' sixty-sixth as a professional. He has lost only one decision, to Eddie (Kid) Wolfe, and has been held to a draw twice, by the same Wolfe each time. He also owns a decision over Wolfe.

Gimbel Employes Open Mushball Season



PRESIDENT JACQUES BLUM TOSSES OUT FIRST BALL, MARKING OPENING OF SUMMER CAMPAIGN FOR STORE TEAMS

A doubleheader featured the opening of the mushball league season for employes of the Gimbels store at Linden Field last evening, with officials participating in the festivities. Manager J. O. Bick's First Floor team played F. Brennan's Fifth Floor team and A. Davidson's Downstairs team opposed J. Fishel's All-Stars. Bick is holding the trophy which will go to the league champion. Two games will be played every Tuesday and Thursday evening throughout the season. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

BOBBY JONES' GOLF

By BOBBY JONES

Only Golfer Who Has Won U. S. and British Amateur and Open Championships in the Same Year

Golfers, on the whole, display very little interest in the history of their game. Beyond the record of who won what and how many championships, and with what scores, they care little so long as they can play the game and like it.

Bobby Jones'

But a little delving into the history of golf provides a very delightful excursion. It is not a lengthy history, in point of years, and much of it, in the beginning, is at best uncertain. But for a lover of the game there is a wealth of romance in the story of its evolution.

I like the story of how golf balls first came to be "marked" or scored with something similar to the dimple or mesh marking which is common today. The first golf ball, as everyone knows, was the "feathery." The cover was of leather and sewn much on the style of our present-day baseball. The seams apparently performed the function of marking so that the ball traveled quite well. But the first gutta-percha balls were molded quite smooth Here is what Horace Hutchinson wrote of them in "The Book of Golf and Golfers," published in 1899.

FLIGHT WAS UNCERTAIN

When first the gutta-percha ball was brought to the notice of the golfing public—a very select little public it was in those days—it suffered the fate of all new inventions. Golfers then, as now, were conservative. They had no good word to say for the new ball. And at first the 'gutties' seemed to justify ill words. They started well off the club, but after flying a little way they ducked unaccountably. Still they gained some admirers, by virtue of their transcendant merit of comparative cheapness. Four shillings was about the price of a feather ball, and a knock on the head with an iron cleft a hole that let the feathers, and the virtue, out of it. But the iron had no such ill effect on the gutta-percha ball, which cost only a shilling.

"Not only so, but observers were surprised to see that after a few such severe blows on the head the ball seemed to fly better than ever—not to 'duck' as in its days of perfect globular smoothness. This fact led certain persons to reflect on its causes. The ball when new was smoothly round, when new it 'ducked;' but when scored by an iron, several times cleaving its smooth roundness, it ceased to 'duck.' As confirmatory evidence it was seen that the old-fashioned feather balls, that flew well, were not smoothly globular, but had excrescences where the seams joined the several pieces of leather. From these observations the inference was simple that the scoring of indentations and roughnesses on the ball aided its flight."

MARKINGS GAIN FAVOR

According to Mr. Hutchinson, when this fact was recognized, professionals began to hammer new balls with the nail-pulling end of a hammer in order to mark them. He tells us that the pros became quite skillful in this work, and, turning the ball in a little wooden socket, could complete the scoring in about two minutes. It seems strange to us now that it should have taken several years for someone to think of producing the marking by means of the molds with which it was pressed into spherical shape.

Of course, the golf ball business was very small in those days. Now with the great quantities of golf balls sold each year, manufacturers can afford to spend real money on research. Modern balls are molded in costly molds which are accurate to the tiniest fraction of an inch. Great care is used in finishing to assure that the perfect product of the mold is not deformed. And balls and markings are tested carefully for defects and to exhaust the possibilities of improvement. No ball now could reach the market with a fault like the gutty's ducking tendency. So far has golf progressed.

PITT TO SEEK TEAM TITLE

By JESS CARVER

Unless the lads are away off form or are only kidding the good gentlemen of the A. M. A., filing entries merely to give Messrs. Taylor, Haddock and Blum something to do, the annual junior A. M. A. track and field championships, scheduled for Saturday afternoon at the Oliver High School field figures, to produce generally the best times and measurements of Pittsburgh's track and field campaign.

The entry list to date not only has been heavy, but is formidable to the extreme. The entire University of Pittsburgh outlay of track and field performers, freshmen and varsity men alike, with the exception of Capt. Bill Keller, William Albright and Fred Kiger, who will be competing in the I. C. A. A. A. A. event in Boston, has been entered by Coach Carl Olsen. It will take some heroic expending of power for any other organization to wrest the team title from the Panthers.

With the annual P. I. A. A. championships off the boards, due to a lack of dough, the high school stars will be on hand, adding greatly to the class of the competition.

The P. A. A., Carnegie Tech, Geneva College and most of the stronger W. P. I. A. L. teams will be represented.

The meet will be run under the metric system of measurements, making all victors record holders, for the year at least.

Keller, who is to run the half-mile; Kiger, entered in the quarter-mile; Albright, entered in the two-mile run, and Coach Olsen will leave for the Boston meet at 10:15 tonight.

STOCKS SPURT IN ACTIVE TRADING

Trading was more active, and the market was called upon to absorb considerable selling on the way up, but there were several advances of 1 to 5 points. Commodities were also higher, with wheat up more than 1½ cents, and cotton more than 50 cents a bale. Inflation psychology resulting from the modest start of Federal Reserve open market operations was evidently a motivating factor, although the dollar recovered a little against leading gold currencies.

Strength of silver issues was notable, evidently reflecting bullish operations in connection with the latest inflation talk, but bar silver advanced only ¼ of a cent an ounce. National Distillers was again bid up in response to the administration efforts toward repeal. Farm implements reflected further strength in grains.

Corporate news included some regular dividend declarations, notably by Union Carbide, Commercial Solvents, Mathieson Alkali and American Safety Razor. Freight car loadings reports continued favorable in the main. Pennsylvania reported for last week 84,333 cars handled, against 83,181, the previous week, and 81,029 in the corresponding week of last year.

STEEL SHOWING BROAD GAIN

NEW YORK, May 24.—Iron Age says:

Renewed confidence in the persistence of recent improvement in the iron and steel market characterizes the attitude of both buyers and sellers. Such hesitancy as was caused by the recent pause in steel demand or by the reaction in scrap has been dispelled by increased buoyancy in the automobile industry, a new spurt in tin plate business, a steady broadening of miscellaneous steel buying and further price advances on both finished steel and pig iron.

Buyers are offering less and less resistance to prices, evidently being impressed both by the earnestness of sellers and the possibility of subsequent stabilization at still higher levels under government auspices.

Steel production, under the stimulus of reaccelerated bookings, has again increased in most districts. Ingot output has risen from 23 to 25 per cent at Pittsburgh, from 33 to 37 per cent at Chicago, from 41 to 44 per cent at Cleveland, from 38 to 42 per cent at Birmingham and from 75 to 80 per cent in the Wheeling district. The national average has advanced from 35 per cent a week ago to 38 per cent of capacity, the highest rate since June, 1931.

WHEAT PRICES IN NEW BULGE

Buoyancy of the stock market before grain dealings began was a decided fresh stimulus. Notice was also taken of the calling of a conference by Secretary Wallace to place in operation methods of advancing commodity prices. Opening ⅞@1¾c higher, wheat afterward held near the initial limits. Corn started ¾@2c up, and continued firm.

A rush of general buying hoisted wheat to more than 4 cents above Monday's low point, with corn up about 3½ cents above the low of the same day. Corn and oats borrowed strength from wheat. Provisions went up with grain.

An interesting chart has just been prepared by Robert A. Burrows, of A. E. Masten and Company, showing the relationship between American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the parent company, and all its associated companies, giving the capital structure, total assets, miles of wire, a complete earnings record for four years, and other pertinent data for each company. A copy of this chart may be obtained on request.

ASSOCIATE POWER OUTPUT

The power output of the electric subsidiaries of the American Water Works and Electric Company for the month of April totaled 119,032,028 kilowatt hours, against 124,360,148 kilowatt hours for the corresponding month of 1932. For the four months ended April 30 power output totaled 474,784,602 kilowatt hours, as against 514,587,224 kilowatt hours for the same period last year.

NEW YORK COLLECTIONS

Retail collections during April showed a decrease of 0.85 per cent, according to the index of 20 local key stores issued by the Credit Bureau of Greater New York, Inc.

RAYON BOOKINGS

Rayon orders on producers' books for July delivery are said to be the heaviest placed for that month in several years. Very little yarn is available for spot delivery.

MESTA, BREWING PREFERRED HIGHER

Securities on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange followed the New York market upward today with the heavy industrial list showing gains ranging up to a point and Pittsburgh Brewing preferred again providing the day's fireworks. Big Brewing ran up sharply at the opening of business, moving well above last night's close into new high ground for the current advance. The stock's present price is the highest in about 20 years. At today's high the stock was up more than 15 points from the level at which the sensational rise started last week. The other brewing issues were dull and but slightly changed.

Mesta Machine reflected a scarcity of supply in an early advance and Armstrong Cork rallied on good demand at the opening. Blaw Knox fell back moderately. There were no conspicuous changes in the fuel group and the oil producing company shares held steady.

TRADE BUYING LIFTS COTTON

NEW YORK, May 24.—Cotton futures opened firm, 10-15 points advance on higher Liverpool cables and Wall street and trade buying. July, 8.75; October, 9.00; December, 9.15; January, 9.24; March, 9.42.

Houses with Liverpool and Continental connections were also among buyers on the early advance which carried July contracts up to 8.84 and December to 9.22 or 19 to 20 points above yesterday's closing quotations. This advance met a good deal of realizing as well as some scattered selling which was again supposed to include a little selling against red cross cotton. There were reactions of 4 or 5 points from the best by the end of the first half hour.

Heavy realizing and scattered selling attracted by the early advance was absorbed on reactions of some 4 to 7 points on the more active months and prices firmed again later in the morning. Active months showed net advances of 20 to 21 points at midday.

LIVERPOOL, May 24.—Cotton, no receipts. Spot in fair demand; prices 13 points higher; quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 6.87; good middling, 6.57; strict middling, 6.27; middling, 6.12; strict low middling, 5.97; low middling, 5.77; strict good ordinary, 5.57; good ordinary, 5.27. Futures closed steady. May, 5.87; July, 5.84; October, 5.85; December, 5.87; January, 5.88; March, 5.92.

Rail Stock Average Tops Previous High

NEW YORK, May 24.—The Dow, Jones railroad shares averages this morning went above 40, which penetrates the September top of 39.27. The Dow theory of the averages is that if the rail averages penetrate the September top more than one full point, as the industrial average already has, a bull market is really on.

Wall Street Indulges in Real Picnic

—By B. C. FORBES—

Mr. Forbes

WALL STREET yesterday enjoyed a picnic. Stocks and bonds alike soared. Owners of American securities were a billion dollars richer at the end of the day.

Conviction grows that the country has embarked on general recovery.

Anticipation of reflation started the upward movement. Since then, and particularly during May, substantial improvement in many lines of business has been the main lever. Just as deflation led to further deflation, so incipient recovery has led to further recovery.

Most basic commodities have increased 50 per cent—some even 100 per cent—from the year's low point. Low-priced stocks in most instances have more than doubled in value; some have trebled. Even the highest-grade issues have risen an average of fully 50 per cent.

The effect of all this naturally has been far-reaching. As manufacturers and other users of raw materials become convinced that the downward movement had ended, they began placing orders. They found suppliers unwilling to contract for many months ahead at rock-bottom prices. Consequently, there has been something of a scramble on the part of buyers, many of whom had allowed inventories to dwindle to dangerously low dimensions.

More orders have entailed more employment. Higher prices have brought announcement of higher wages in not a few cases. I am told that certain shoe manufacturers and cotton textile manufacturers have actually experienced difficulty in enrolling enough experienced workers to get out rush orders.

Already improvement has been sufficient to turn a great many losses into profits. Let the current trend continue and, instead of further dividend reductions and omissions, we will begin to witness dividend resumptions and increases.

The truth is that many companies who stopped or cut dividends as a precautionary measure are financially in a position to do better by their stockholders whenever the directors become convinced that there will be no lurch back to panicky conditions.

So drastic have been retrenchments, economies, salary and wage reductions that many companies, perhaps the majority, could show reasonable profits at 50 per cent of the 1928-1929 volume of business. Some executives tell me they are in shape to make a creditable showing on one-third of boom-time turnover.

After all, we are a mercurial people. Andrew Carnegie declared that the steel industry always was "either prince or pauper." Similarly, we as a nation are usually either emphatically pessimistic or emphatically optimistic. We have remained ultra-pessimistic overlong. Maybe we are ripe for a period of pronounced optimism.

WHY CONGRESS should plan to aggravate the already-crushing income tax burden when less onerous and objectionable means are at hand to raise the additional taxation necessary to meet the interest on extraordinary government expenditures, passes the comprehensions of normal mortals.

Opposition to a general sales tax has evaporated almost everywhere except, apparently, in Congress. Even labor's leaders have been converted. "You canna tak the breiks aff a Hielanman," postulate the Scots, meaning that you cannot remove trousers from a Highlander who doesn't wear trousers, but kilts. "Soaking the rich" cannot hope to be successfully carried further

THE REDOUBTABLE A. P. Giannini, stalwart upbuilder of the Pacific Coast's biggest bank and creator of the far-flung Transamerica Corporation, who crossed swords violently with New York's financial powers when he accused them of contriving to wreck his institutions and organizations, tells me that, since returned to the helm after his temporary retirement, things have been going encouragingly.

He attaches infinite importance to the unquestionable faith people everywhere now have in President Roosevelt. Although he questions the wisdom of certain proposals, he is not shivering in his shoes lest reckless inflationary action be unleashed by Washington.

Probably no man in America will read with more relish the Senatorial quizzing of Wall street banking magnates!

Government Policy Draws Attention To Oil Stocks

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

THE OIL BILL has opened prospects for far reaching changes in the petroleum industry. A few weeks ago the condition of oil appeared to be so chaotic that there was little hope for any prompt revival. But since the introduction of the administration oil bill by Congressman Marland, the outlook has been greatly improved. This has been reflected in the oil stocks which have been making outstanding upward progress during the past few days.

One of the companies which has been the subject of speculative interest has been Barnsdall. This organization has reduced its bank loans by one-third since January 1. William D. Loucks, chairman, has declared that by next September the company will have paid off all its bank loans.

Barnsdall has materially increased its distributing facilities along the system of the Great Lakes Pipe Line Company in which Barnsdall owns a 20.8 per cent interest. Control of the following units has been secured: The Mono Motor Oil Company, at Council Bluffs, Ia.; Oneil Oil Company, of Milwaukee, Wis.; Advance Oil Company of Chicago, Ill.; Minnesota Oil and Refining Company in Minneapolis and St. Paul; Browrell Corporation in Minnesota; Beacon Oil Company at Fort Wayne, Ind., and the Pennsylvania Oil Company, of Madison, Wis.

Dictator Offers Ready Solution

THE WEIGHT of opinion in the oil trade is increasing in favor of federal regulation of production with control of maximum and minimum prices as provided in the oil bill.

Control through a dictatorship by the Secretary of the Interior is seen as the only ready means to bring output into line with consumption and to put the industry back on to a basis at which a reasonable profit can be made.

It is quite probable that Federal control of oil, if it is placed into operation, will increase prices to the ultimate consumer. On the other hand, however, it may be expected to result in conservation of valuable natural resources. The existing uncontrolled method of producing oil results in waste of gas pressure and the exhaustion of fields before a maximum amount of oil has been recovered. In addition, crude oil and refined products in storage evaporate so that a further saving may be expected through the process of bringing production into line with consumption.

Government Gets New Industrial Function

THE POLICIES of the Roosevelt administration and the efforts to stimulate a revival in business are giving government entirely new functions. While most of the emergency legislation is limited to two years of operation, it is not impossible that these extraordinary functions will be extended at later times. To free industry of some of the provisions of the anti-trust laws carries with it the need for Federal regulation. We have had such government supervision over the railroads for many years. The railroads mistrusted this form of control at first, but it is doubtful if many railroad executives at present would want to return to the former conditions of complete operating freedom.

Oil is only one of the industries which is turning to government for relief from its troubles. Unless some sudden change in plans takes place, the federal government will have an important voice in the affairs of many of the nation's outstanding industries. Control of this kind, once it has been started, rarely is relinquished. It is altogether probable that the federal government may be a dominant factor in business in the future instead of a minor influence as in the past.

EXHIBITION GAME

The Dormont Baseball Club will clash with an old rival this evening, when Homewood appears in the South Hills for the only game carded in the City League.

A few years ago, when the East Enders featured the best ball club in the district, the park would be packed when the two teams clashed.

There is a chance that Homewood will play the part of the giant killer this evening, inasmuch as Bill Dalzell's club already has tucked away three victories in the City League race so far.

Whitaker's surprising win over Dormont was the feature of the week, and the other clubs are going to take advantage of the fact that Elmer Knetzer and Leo Carroll, the Dormont slab aces, are not in shape as yet.

Knetzer, usually a strong early starter, was blasted off the mound by the Cochrans and Whitaker. Billy Fuchs probably will send his left hander, Richards, to the mound this evening.

At Greenlee Field, the Crawfords and the House of David nine will resume their series. The Crawfords copped the first game played at Cycler Park last evening. The House of David management announced that Al Warneke, brother of Lon Warneke, of the Chicago Cubs, will twirl this evening.

The Books recovered well enough from their defeat of Monday night by downing the J. L. Thomas nine last evening at Greenlee Field, on the occasion of the opening of the Thomas nine's home campaign. Martin was in fine form, turning the Bloomfielders back with six scattered hits as the Books won, 5 to 0.

In the other City League fray the Cochrans, with Art Rooney leading the attack with five hits, defeated Homewood, 14 to 4. Rooney pasted four two-baggers.

PHILS DEFEAT CUBS AGAIN

Associated Press.

The weakness of the Chicago Cubs was evident yesterday when they took their second straight trimming from the last-place Phillies, 9 to 5. After scoring three runs in the first inning, they bowed to Flint Rhem up to the ninth while the Phils hammered Bush into submimssion in three frames and piled up 19 hits off four fingers.

Chicago thus missed a chance to move into sixth place, for the Cincinnati Reds took it on the chin from the New York Giants, 6 to 4, when Dolf Luque's pitching saved a game for Roy Parmelee after the young hurler had given himself a good start with a home run.

BRAVES BEAT CARDS

The Boston Braves handed Tex Carleton his first defeat of the season to go into fourth place, rapping him for four straight hits and two runs in the tenth to win, 3-1.

Pittsburgh's league leaders turned the tables on Brooklyn, beating the Dodgers 3-0 when Steve Swetonic pitched four-hit ball and walloped a triple in the fifth that was good for two runs.

After chalking up six straight victories, Oral Hildebrand, of Cleveland, ran into the New York Yankees' home run barrage and lasted only three innings as Babe and Lou Gehrig hit their first circuit drives since April 30. It was the sixth for the Babe and the eighth for Lou, and homers by Earl Combs and Ben Chapman accounted for the rest of the Yankee runs in an 8-6 victory.

The Washington Senators, who apparently had rounded up all their "jinx" pitchers, found a new one in Fred Marberry, a former Senator. He gave them only three hits in winning 7-1 for Detroit.

WHITE SOX COP

Chicago's White Sox shattered a three-game winning streak for the Boston Red Sox by doing some long distance hitting behind Milton Gaston's six-hit hurling and winning 7-0.

The Philadelphia Athletics turned on their powerhouse in the middle innings and slammed out an 8-6 victory over the St. Louis Browns as Lefty Grove made his third relief appearance in as many games.

Buc Stars Attend Benefit Performance

Pirate President William Benswanger, Honus Wagner and many other members of the Pittsburgh club featured the musical and athletic entertainment held last night at St. Mary's Lyceum Hall, Forty-fifth street, for the benefit of the unemployed of the district. The affair was unler the auspices of the St. Vincent De Paul Society.

Benswanger made one of the principal addresses of the evening and he then introduced the players to the audience. Wagner responded with an interesting speech.

The payment to Shareholders of record at the close of business on the 31st day of May, 1933, and whose shares are represented by registered Certificates of the 192 issue, will be made by cheque, mailed from the offices of the Company on the 14th day of June, 1933.

The transfer books will be closed from the 1st day of June to the 15th day of June, 1933, inclusive, and no Bearer Share Warrants will be "split" during that period.

The Income War Tax Act of the Dominion of Canada having been amended, effective April 1st, 1933, to provide that a tax of 5% shall be imposed and deducted at the source on all dividends payable by Canadian debtors to non-residents of Canada, the above mentioned tax will be deducted from all dividend cheques mailed to non-resident shareholders and the Company's Bankers will deduct the 5% tax when paying coupons to or for account of non-resident shareholders. Ownership Certificates will be required by the paying Bankers in respect of all dividend coupons presented for payment by residents of Canada.

Stockholders resident in the United States are advised that a credit for the 5% Canadian tax withheld at source is allowable against the tax shown on their United States Federal Income Tax return. If it is desired to claim such credit the United States tax authorities require the receipt or certificate of the Canadian Commissioner of Income Tax for such payment. In order to secure such proof from the Canadian Commissioner it is necessary for the United States stockholder to submit, at the time of cashing his dividend coupon, an ownership certificate on Canadian form No. 601. Only in this way can the Canadian Commissioner identify the withheld Canadian tax with the specific recipient of the dividend in order to furnish the necessary individual receipt. If Forms No. 601 are not available at local United States banks, they can be secured from the Company's office or the Royal Bank of Canada, Toronto.

By order of the Board.
J. R. CLARKE,
Secretary.

CITY INSURANCE TO BE CHECKED

City Controller James P. Kerr is to report to Council on the amount of fire insurance carried by the city on its buildings.

The report was ordered yesterday after the Controller told Council he believed there was more fire insurance than was justified by the value of several of the buildings.

CHAPTER VIII.

Curious how, among myriad recollections and impressions, certain utterly unimportant things will stand out as high lights. I remember meeting a happy native once who was singing the untranslatable arpeggio of the islands. In his hands he dangled a string of small jade fish just caught. Only that—I cannot forget it.

But there was one unforgettable moment of great beauty that I think I shall never duplicate. One night Nicki and I had wandered away from the noise of Ah Chee's, in Rabaul, where a new crowd of gold prospectors were celebrating. It was a beautiful dim night, sweet with frangipani. Back in the Botonic Gardens was a spot rarely frequented, but of unearthly loveliness by night.

We reached it through a narrow path hedged with jungle growth. Suddenly—always it took me unawares—we came upon a little clearing that looked like the setting for some fantastic opera. At the far end rose a mammoth ficus tree, its branches spreading 80 feet high, while at its feet huge dead limbs lay prone where they had fallen during the years, barkless and white in the moonlight. Jungled hills closed in upon the circle; luminous mushrooms grew among the dank undergrowth. In a thickly foliaged tree hovered millions of fireflies. Nicki and I had found in each other the same love of books. And that night we had brought with us his powerful flashlight to read by, together with a copy of "The Light of Asia." Beginning where we had last left off, I read to the end, and closed the book:

And lift my leaf and mix me with the wave
The Dewdrop slips into the shining Sea!

Above us two flying foxes—huges bats—flapped clumsily, and then were still as they clung hanging to a branch. These and the throb of the everlasting drums from the hills were the only sounds in the world. Close to us stood a clump of slender bamboos. Out of nowhere, delicate as some lovely lyric thought, a fugitive trade breeze wandered through the bamboos, played there for a moment, bending them delicately . . . beautifully . . . and wandered on.

AN UNPOPULAR WOMAN

There is one woman in Rabaul who stands out from the rest. She lives on the social ragged edge; her rating is even lower than that of the lowliest of traders' wives. For the most part the women have nothing to do with her, nor do some of the men. But not all of the men.

The first time I saw her was at Ah Chee's, where one day she was keeping a planter company with a shandy. Nicki had warned me to avoid acquaintance with the attractive Mrs. Jessaby, chiefly because it might injure me in traveling alone through the islands, for her notoriety has spread through Melanesia. But I wasn't prepared for a genuine sacrifice in this direction. As I entered Ah Chee's that noon I was arrested by an English voice—a cultured, charming voice, husky, and with a blessed infection that was an oasis in the desert of Austral-Cockney about me. I regarded her with some interest.

She turned to me and, holding out her furled fan, said: "Miss America, I have been looking forward to meeting you." I paused and suddenly found myself sitting down at table on friendly terms with this undeniably reprehensible woman, partly because it is not polite to refuse a "spot" in the islands and largely because I was drawn inexplicably toward Mrs. Jessaby.

OUTSTANDING PERSONALITY

She and her planter were good enough to be flatteringly interested in my adventure out to New Guinea alone, and admiring of what they chose to term my "courage." Later I saw Mrs. Jessaby frequently along the shaded streets of Rabaul. But only once again did I have opportunity really to talk with her. In the little settlement of Rabaul she is an outstanding personality. When she passes along the street she seems to leave an elusive trail of the romance of gay cities, sophistication, cosmopolitanism. She is not beautiful—her eyes are too closely set together for that—but she has shapely ankles and hands, and her ungirdled figure is pleasantly rounded. Nor is she young any more, though there are remarkably unfrayed remnants of a husky-voiced, lithe-moving youth that must always have drawn men to her. She is in the ageless forties. She is superbly poised. If her social ostracism troubles her, the world does not know it.

She came out of England some years ago. Why she chose New Guinea, rather than some other and more promising port, I don't know. She is too purposeful a woman to have been part of the flotsam washed up against far-lying coral shores. White women are scarce in New Guinea, and the lure of the gold fields was then, as now, drawing reckless adventurers from the corners of the earth. She bought herself a tract of land fronting on the water, her only neighbors being the natives whose villages spread low grass roofs beneath tall, leaning palms along the beach. Her native servants built for her a house of limbung poles, and a path was worn to her door.

Her exile has done her no perceptible harm. Her dark eyes remain amused and good-humored, her brown hair waves elegantly and closely. Boats from Sydney bring her smart continental frocks. About her is an elegance and well-groomedness that sets her altogether apart from the island white women.

Occasionally, not often, she appears like a shining constellation for a brief interval at a ball in the European Hotel. Then she may wear a white gown, beaded so that it clings to her shapely thighs and cut so that it displays the provoking beauty of an attractive woman's back. She and her gold-miner cavalier of the moment do not stay for long. He will order half a dozen bottles of champagne, pop all the corks, whether or not the wine is to be consumed, and rush off in one of Ah Chee's motor cars.

GOES VISITING

Government House is closed to her. To the head of the great mission at Rabaul she is a thorn in the flesh, but I have seen her glance at the tall, rusty, fever-racked missionary with amused and tolerant eyes.

She had said to me, "I should be happy to have you to tea with me, if you ever feel inclined, Miss America. I live in a strange little place." One day my feet led me along the road from town, the blue sea on one hand, the dull green mountains on the other. It was exercise I needed, but I knew all the time I was going to tea with Mrs. Jessaby. A short distance out of Rabaul, at the crude gateway of her province, an old luluai, a king at the gates, has his small village of two woven-palm houses on stilts, with two wives and as many pickaninnies. He was a rheumy old codger, in a faded red laplap, sitting cross-legged on the platform of his hut, alternately biting from a betel-nut and conveying powdered lime to his mouth by means of a long kombung stick.

"Missus, 'e stop 'long house belong 'im?" I asked.

"Yessah, 'im 'e stop," he replied. Two giggling young marys appeared spasmodically in the hut's doorway. He spoke to one of them quickly in tribal lingo and she vanished into the hut to fetch two eggs. The luluai (chief) took them from her and presented them to me, solemnly. For a moment I was at a loss, then I recalled that a gift must always be requitted with a gift. Two cigarettes from my case were received with a broad, sunny smile. The formalities were over.

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

What Life Is

So this is what life is, and not as we thought,
A web made of beauty, where gladness is caught,
A dream spun of rainbows, wherein we might move
Through a season of rapture, an idyl of love!

So this is what life is, a slow, uphill climb
Which seems without meaning in reason or rhyme;
A school where the lessons come often too late

But with strength gained by effort, and truth in each rule,
With vision made clear and with resolute aim

Ah, this is what life is, unfoldment through years,
Which teaches the value of laughter and tears;
Whose purpose is single; the growth of a soul!

THE MURDER AT SARAJEVO (1914)

Archduke Ferdinand, the heir to the Austrian throne, was assassinated with his wife in the streets of Sarajevo. This fired the high explosives stored in the political situation on the Balkan and in the secret treaties between Russia, France and England, resulting in the terribly destructive Great World War. The picture shows the arrest of the murderer, Gavrilo Prinzip. The inserts are Archduke Ferdinand and Duchess Sophie. (World's History).

TOOLS FOR ARMOURED CABLE AND FLEXIBLE CONDUIT

Top: Universal reamer. Middle: Bushing tool. Bottom: Cutter and vice. To cut conduit or cable armour, clamp it in the cutter and with a pair of pliers back the strips off, one at a time. A hacksaw could be used instead of a cutter. Soft metal bushing should be inserted in the ends of the conduit and secured by the bushing tool to protect wire-insulation. (Hawkins: Electrical Guide). POURING A LARGE ALUMINUM CASTING (Chemistry)

For aluminum castings alloys are used which shrink little and are not difficult to machine. For general use: 92% Al., 8% Cu. or 65% Al., 35% Zn. (for easy flow but little strength) or 95% Al., 4% Cu. and 1% Ni. (flawless, strong). An important alloy is the magnalium with 2 to 23% Mg., the balance Al. (strong and light). Spec. grav. 2, 4-2, 57 (melts at 1100-1290 F°.)

TRANSFORMER CHANGES VOLTAGE OF ALTERNATING CURRENT

ROLLING SHEET ALUMINUM Chemistry)

Cast in ingots, aluminum can be conveniently turned into sheets or structural shapes by hot rolling and given a smooth finish by cold rolling, (shown). It can also be forged. To obtain good properties for mechanical shaping, aluminum is alloyed with 10-15% Zn., or with Mn., Mg., Cu., together less than 6%. An important alloy with great strength is Duralumin: 3.5 to 5.5% Cu., 0.5 to 0.8% Mn., 0, 5% Mg., balance Al. Spec. grav. 2, 75-2.84 (melts at 1200 F°.)

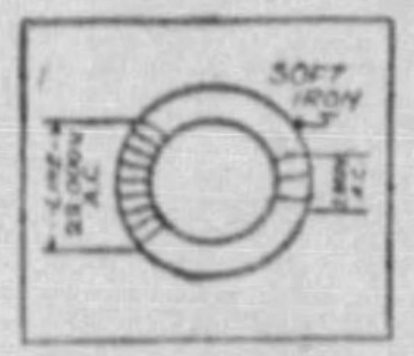
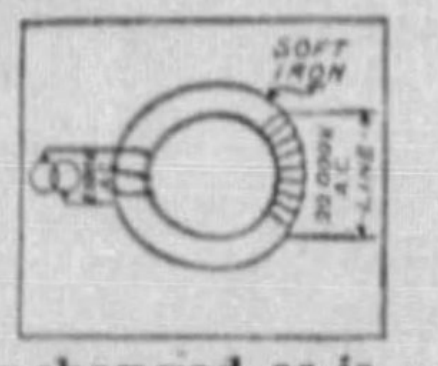
STEP-UP AND STEP-DOWN TRANSFORMERS



Left: Step-up transformer which raises voltage: The primary coil has fewer turns than the secondary. Right: Step-down transformer which lowers voltage. The primary coil has more turns than the secondary.



The intensity of the secondary current is inversely changed as is the voltage, so that volts x amperes of the secondary current = volts x amperes of the primary current—2 to 5% for heat loss. Bigger transformers are cooled by oil and ventilation. (Smith: Industrial Electricity).

PANCREAS, SPLEEN AND DUODENUM (Science.)

The pancreas, lying along the lower part of the stomach, secrete a juice rich in digestive ferments in the duodenum. The insert shows (magnified) the juice-making cells, called pancreatic alveoli and the cells of Langerhans, which produce "Insulin" to control sugar-metabolism. When this hormone fails to be produced, diabetes results. The walls of the duodenum produce "Secretin," which when carried into the pancreas causes the pancreatic fluid to be poured into the intestine. The spleen removes the used-up red blood corpuscles and stimulates the building of new ones in the red marrow of the bones. (Caldwell, Skinner, Tietz: Biological Foundations of Education).

Don't Cry for Good Old Days

It has been 30 years since we saw the Chimmy Fadden style of dress. It is back again with a neat vengeance.

As a fashion authority we compare very well with a man guessing which way a toad will jump. The last time we saw those leg-of-mutton sleeves the band was playing Alexander's Ragtime Philharmonic Symphony from Boilerina Shoppe.

The men were dressed in tight trousers, had pearl buttons on their coats, pointy patent leather shoes and were balancing derbies at an angle of a freighter with a twisted cargo.

Life was young, laughter was throaty and the police were our cousins. Beer was a nickel and free lunch was inherited. The turkey trot and the Texas Tommy had worked North from Galveston, New Orleans, St. Louis and Memphis. The musicians played by ear and we danced from memory.

SAY! WE'RE JUST A COUPLE OF HAM ACTORS—BUT YOU LOOK SWELL—WHEN'D Y'GIT IT?
IT'S MY OLD BOWERY GET UP!

There were no gigolos and no wall flowers. Everybody brought their own partner and barbers did a big business reducing the swellings from flirty eyes. Little items of social etiquette were settled in those days with the interwoven knuckles accompanied by an occasional boot to the chin.

The knife and the gun were to arrive 20 years later.

The daytime belonged to the boss. But the night was ours. We answered to nobody but that factory whistle at seven in the morning. Everybody drank beer and flourished like the Green Bay tree. In all those years we never saw a girl drink whisky. The man with the pint of booze on his hip was an outcast.

All through the nocturnal fabric ran the throb of the drum of the Salvation Army and the tinkle of pennies in the tambourine. They were contributed by the boys with the bent elbows. It was a universal fellowship with the majority staying inside the line of alcoholic hogishness. You must champion light beer when you consider that, with 1920 and bootleg, drinking became 90 per cent immoral and Suicide Hall moved from the Bowery to Park avenue.

Muscle Shoals

The Democratic Principle That Natural Resources Belong to the People Seems Established

President Roosevelt gave his approving signature on Thursday last to the Norris-Hill Bill, providing for Federal completion and management of the Muscle Shoals project, and development of the entire Tennessee Valley.

It is not at all improbable that his pen strokes will be regarded by future historians and economists as something of far greater significance than merely the legalization of emergency measures to alleviate the distress of acute unemployment.

Muscle Shoals had come to occupy a monumental position in the long and bitter controversy over power sites between the advocates of public ownership and control, and those of private exploitation of America's natural and extractive resources.

For thirteen years the veteran Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, had battled valiantly and at times almost alone for governmental utilization of the Shoals. He had seen two Republican Presidents veto his hard-fought measure. A man less Spartan and less persevering would have yielded long ago.

The opposition that Norris contended against was enormous. During the long contest, not only was Muscle Shoals itself avidly sought after by private companies and groups of industrialists. The great site, on which millions of dollars of public money had been expended, stood as a symbol. So long as the power interests could forestall its fulfillment as a government enterprise, the whole theory of capitalistic opportunism, for which the Power Trust contended so desperately, seemed safe.

But the "new deal" brings a new turn in these matters. Who knows how far the precedent of Muscle Shoals now will lead? Perhaps all the way.

The Democratic principle that exhaustible natural resources are an heritage of all the people to be conserved or utilized for their welfare and not to be squandered for the selfish aggrandizement of a fortunate few, seems established.

The country knows that he has envisioned tremendous projects, of which Muscle Shoals represents the real beginning.

The Tennessee Valley development of which the Shoals now forms a part, was a Rooseveltian conception, declared in the pre-inauguration days when Mr. Roosevelt accompanied Senator Norris on a tour of the region.

At that time, it will be remembered, the President-elect vouchsafed some indications of the magnitude and extent of his ideas for improving the national domain—gigantic waters to be harnessed in the East and West, denuded areas to be reforested, unremunerative farm lands to be returned to more primitive uses.

The dedication to public benefits of the great tract and its resources, on which these men are to work, signifies no less a different era in its history from any that the nation has ever known before.

The Anti-Social Machine

The Republican State Organization Cannot Justify Its Opposition to Humanitarian Measures.

The Twenty-Seventh Ward Board of Trade recently denounced the Chamber of Commerce as "anti-social" because of its opposition to old age pensions and minimum wage laws.

The adjective applies with equal force to the Republican state machine headed by Chairman Edward Martin; for it was the willing agent of the Chamber of Commerce, the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association and other reactionary organizations in preventing the enactment of humanitarian legislation.

The organization is attempting, through speeches by Chairman Martin, to justify its conduct; but the attempt is a failure. Senator Frank J. Harris pointed out in the Sun-Telegraph yesterday some of the flaws in Martin's address before the Hungry Club.

Pennsylvania is being held up to shame as a backward state. An official at Washington states that sweatshops which enslave children have moved into Pennsylvania from New York because we tolerate them and New York does not.

It is clearly the duty of Pennsylvanians to overcome the influence of the reactionary business organizations and their ally, the Republican state machine, and send to Harrisburg legislators who will wipe out the odium that these anti-social groups have brought upon the state.

Economy in Good Roads

Improvement of the rural roads in Pennsylvania is giving work to thousands who otherwise would be idle, and it is taking the farmers out of the mud.

But this is not, as some short-sighted objectors seem to think, the only benefit that is being received.

It is a pleasure to call attention to a report by Thomas J. Langfitt, postmaster at Washington, Pa., which directly traces some recent economies effected by that postoffice to the improvement of Washington County roads.

Mr. Langfitt states that hard-surfacing of the rural highways made it possible to effect three consolidations of rural routes. The Postoffice Department pays $75 a mile for service on the first 24 miles of a rural free delivery route, and $30 a mile for additional mileage, so that when routes are consolidated a saving of $45 a mile is effected.

Good roads, making is possible for the rural mail carriers to use automobiles instead of horses and buggies, have resulted in 128 rural route consolidations in Pennsylvania, with consequent annual saving of $138,075.

In public as well as private enterprises it pays to make improvements.

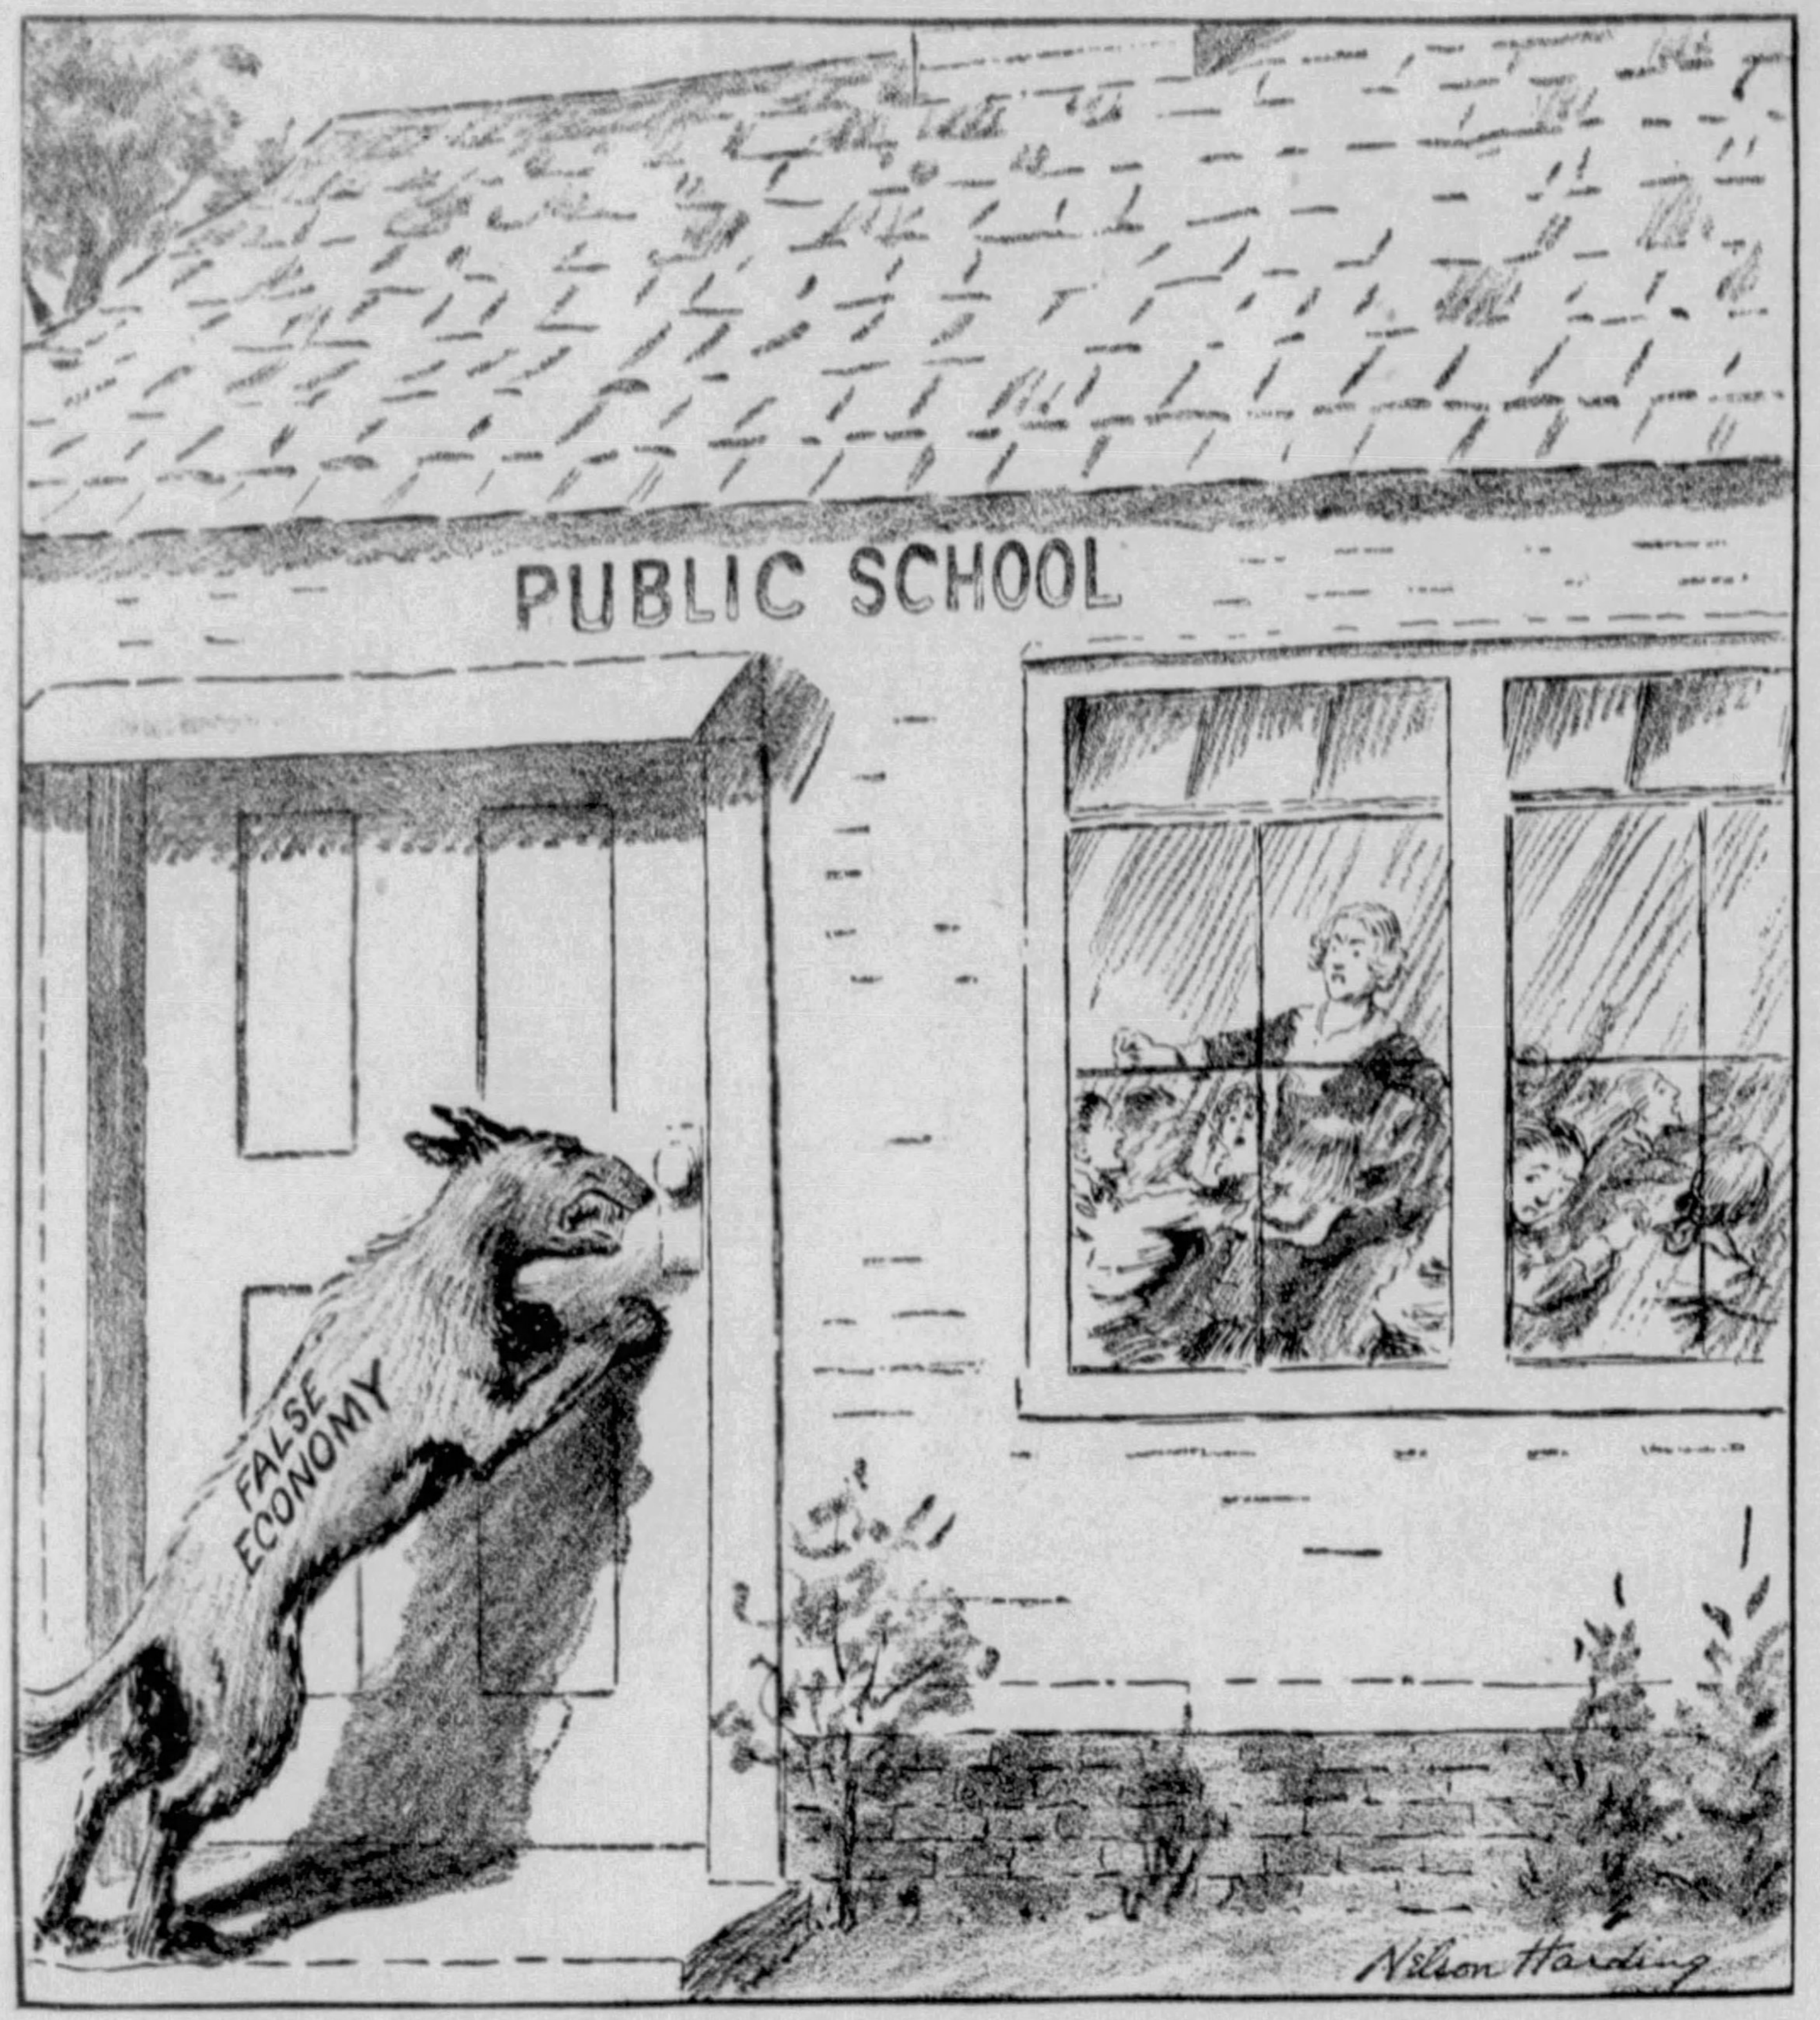
The Wolf at the Door! -:- -:-

By Nelson Harding



There's panic in the schoolroom
When that wolf is at the door,
And the pupils flee their lessons

As the creature seeks to enter,
For if once it makes its way
Through the entrance to that building,
There'll be no more school today.

Marry-Go-Round

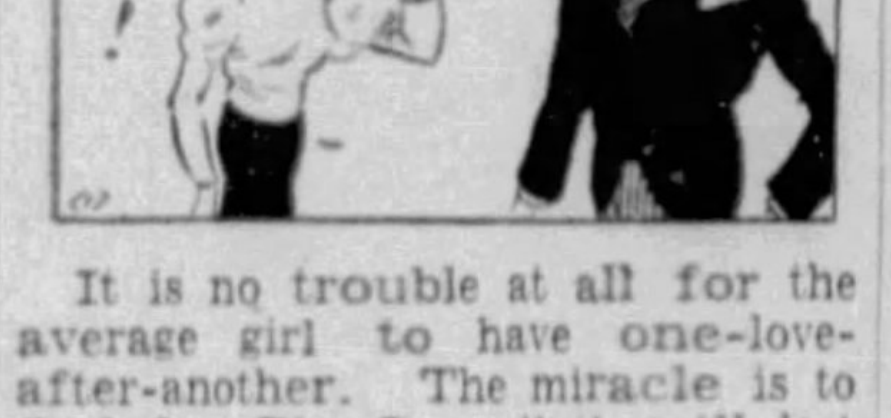
By HELEN ROWLAND

There's Always Romeo!

Some women take on a new romance every spring, just as they take a tonic. It freshens them up so! If a woman is the falling-in-love kind, she will never be OUT of love for more than a few days or a few weeks, at a time.

* * *

Scarcely has the door closed behind one unhappy romance than another door opens, as if by magic—and in steps Romeo! Hardly has she laid the lilies on the coffin of a dead love and dried her eyes, before she looks up to see another love flagging her in the distance. Barely has she said "farewell" to one springtime affair, than she turns around and bumps right into another.



It is no trouble at all for the average girl to have one-love-after-another. The miracle is to find One Big Love that will last a lifetime—and won't fade, run or shrink. That's what every normal woman is looking for, but so few find.

* * *

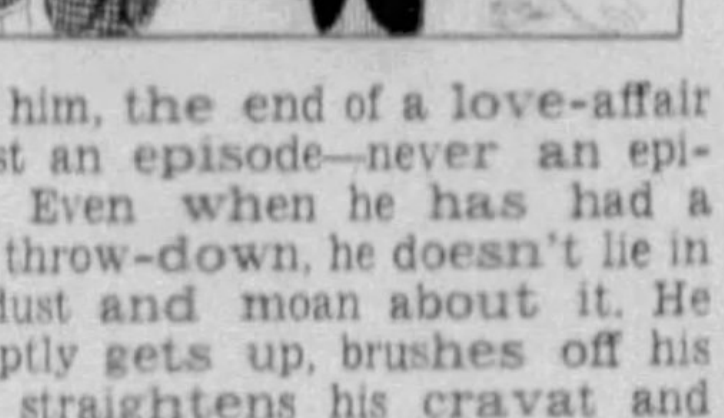
* * *

Almost any man will admit that "there's always Juliet"—always another girl, another taxicab, another moon, another day! That when a little romance has had a blow-out, Fate is usually hanging around with a "spare."



DON'T WORRY—PLENTY MORE GIRLS !
THAT'S NOT IT—SHE HAS TH' RING—THAT'S TH' WORRY !

To him, the end of a love-affair is just an episode—never an epitaph. Even when he has had a hard throw-down, he doesn't lie in the dust and moan about it. He promptly gets up, brushes off his coat, straightens his cravat and glances hopefully down the road to see who's "next." To him, the most interesting woman in the world, is not the-girl-of-the-moment, but the girl of the NEXT moment. All his brightest days are his tomorrows.

* * *

But a woman can't take this airy, philosophical view of life. On the morning-after-love, she is the world's worst pessimist. No matter how light or foolish the affair, it leaves a wound in her vanity that she feels sure nothing will ever heal. There are no "agains" for her! It's always "Never again!"

* * *

What, never? Oh, piffle! The fact that love can END, proves that it never was love! Because real love never ends. It was just a false alarm—and you haven't missed a thing!

* * *

Very few women find REAL love, the first time—or even the second or third time. But, in the meanwhile—there's always Romeo!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 24.—No writing team of the generation has attained the robust popularity in New York of the Norrises—Charles and Kathleen. Or to intimates—"Seegee" and "Katie." Although much of their lives is spent in their California hacienda, every spring brings them to town.

There are few more positive personalities, and they are the only married couple I ever heard who can argue furiously with each other without rancor. Rich, traveled and talented, they are spinning with an intoxicating love of life. But their warmest friends are those of their walk-up flat days.

Scarcely a writer has been so overshadowed by family fame as Charlie. His brother, Frank, with a career so tragically brief, was one of America's foremost novelists. Kathleen, his wife, had deservedly won greatness when he was known mostly as "Kathleen's husband."

Yet from contented obscurity he gave the world such masterpieces as "Bread," "Brass," his more recent best seller, "Zest," and too many others to mention. And took a rightful place in the Norris triad. In this eminently reversible movement he remained appealingly humble. When he talks of the Norrises it is only of Kathleen and Frank.

* * *

It happened today. The wide-flanged brandy glass, holding the goldfish, went flooey in a collision and the captives landed on the carpet in a sudden drench. The dogs looked on with polite restraint while the entire household tried to retrieve them in amusing hops. While another bowl was being secured the fish had access to a completely filled bathtub. But they continued to swirl in tiny space. Like other poor fish, unappreciative of freedom when they have it.

* * *

The passing of William Courtenay removed the handsomest leading man of the period in which he reigned. He was beglamoured with especial romance, for it was while playing with Virginia Harned, later his wife, that I wrote my first dramatic criticism as a stop-gap for the regular critic untrussed by a night of gallant sortie over-the-Rhine. After the play I saw Courtenay and Miss Harned having "a bird and a cold bottle" in the Havlin dining room in Cincinnati. I dropped into a chair at a near table, hoping for a chance to say I enjoyed the play—and mention in casual offhand I was a local critic. But my nerve wilted. So I munched what I called in those days "a cut of apple pie." And it was 20 cents, for goodness sake!

* * *

Few professions offer such tasty bullion cubes of life as newspapering. It was during that era I met the author of "Billy Baxter's Letters," written as an ad for an aperient water by—I'm not certain of the initials—W. J. Kuntze, Jr. They were the ingenious haggadahs of a highflyer's next mornings, rich in slang and juicy with regrets. He seemed living the see-saw life about which he wrote and stands out as supremest of all wordlings.

* * *

I heard a lady last evening describe her husband's occasional and uncontrollable fits of anger wherein he holds his breath in the manner of a nursing child. Several times his face changed from red to such violent purple she culbutted to her knees to implore forgiveness. The unemotional Verne Porter, listening in, observed: "Why don't you dash him in the kisser with a crock of ice water? That will cure the sap." I can get tangled up with more uncouth people.

Mr. Porter, incidentally, had blossomed in dove-grey flannels with a four-in-hand of imperial purple and a 'kerchief to match, plus canary gloves with thick black stitchings. His cane was entirely of clear amber and I walked with him unashamed from his lower Fifth avenue office to the Plaza fountain. After all, I have nothing to lose.

New York's unemployed Chinese are in acutest distress ever known. Few could save during salaried days because of demands of war and the flood stricken across seas. I heard of a discharged Chinese valet who had not eaten for 48 hours. His voice was a whisper. Chinese will seldom beg. Chinatown's only beggar was a half-blind character who shuffled along, chop-chop, and was known as "Old Horse and Wagon."

Post card: "A finger-pointer located you for me at the theater the other night. Where did you get that sneer?"

That was a piece of cookie under my upper lip.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

"THERE ISN'T A WOMAN IN THE WORLD WORTH SHOOTING. THE PENALTY IS TOO HEAVY."

Judge George W. Martin, of Brooklyn, said it. But it's doubtful if the defendant before the bar, Malcolm Doziel, colored—or the rest of the listening world—realized what a large truth that was.

For wise Judge Martin was waving aside not only women, worthy or unworthy, but all the hate and fear, all the desire and despair, which make our silly human hearts run amuck.

"No woman is worth shooting"—not because women are trivial affairs, but because no personal tantrum is important enough to warrant the wasting of our lives.

LIFE, ITSELF—[illegible] THE IMPORTANT TH[illegible]

But what is life? It [illegible] hate. It isn't love. It isn't su[illegible]ess or failure—or any outside power or possession.

LIFE IS GROWING—GROWING YOUR OWN CHARACTER—LEAVING YOUR JUNGLE SELF BEHIND—GROWING UP INTO YOUR HUMAN SELF—LEARNING TO BE A MAN—LEARNING TO LIVE—LEARNING TO GO AFTER THE RIGHT THINGS—LEARNING TO TAKE THE OTHER THINGS ON THE CHIN, WITHOUT WHINING.

That's life!

Loving or hating a woman, or a man—that isn't life. Even if you get that woman or that man—that won't settle your problem for you. Shooting that woman or that man—that won't settle your problem, either.

Malcolm Doziel thought it would. Malcolm Doziel didn't know much about thinking, anyway. All he knew was—wanting. If he wanted something, he went after it. If he couldn't get it, he got mad. Then he wanted to shoot.

Don't laugh at Malcolm Doziel. Are you and I so different?

Think of the years you've wasted over that old grudge. Think of the years I've wasted over that old grief. Think how we both messed things up, grabbing at a happiness which broke like a bubble in our hands.

"NO WOMAN IS WORTH SHOOTING."

No hate is important enough to risk the waste of your life. And no happiness is, either! Not even the happiness of love.

For love can lead us astray, as surely as hate. If it isn't worth while spoiling your life to shoot a woman, neither is it worth while spending your life to win a woman.

Love is a wonderful thing, but it isn't the main thing in life. You can't round out your life by loving somebody else, any more than you can round it out by killing somebody else.

You'll try, of course. We all try. But, no matter how successful you are, you'll find in the end that living is a one-man job—and no one can help you much. Nor can any one hinder, unless you give permission.

LIVING YOUR OWN LIFE—THAT'S YOUR FIRST AND MOST IMPORTANT JOB.

AND IT'S JUST AS CRIMINAL TO THROW THAT JOB AWAY BY LOVING TOO MUCH, AS IT IS TO WRECK IT BY HATING TOO MUCH.

Other people may come and go. Love and hate may rise like hot, dark tides within your blood. But you must go on living.

So put up your firearms. Killings won't help you. Nothing's worth shooting either yourself or the other fellow for.

Life—that's all that matters. Get that once in your head, and you'll rid yourself of a lot of unnecessary grief.

Text for Today

Jesus saith unto him, Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known me, Philip? he that hath seen me hath seen the Father; and how sayest thou then, shew us the Father?—John, xiv:9.

A Cunning Baby

A LONG DRINK

There is no special reason for printing this picture of a baby African elephant drinking from a tank in the Zoological Garden except that the crouching baby pachyderm will interest you as it interested the editor.

The creature, soon to weigh several tons, has such a babyish look as it crouches, rather frightened, on the strange, hard, concrete edge of the pool and reaches down for the water. No river edges like that in Africa.

Drawing up water similarly it will bend the trunk backward and take a shower bath.

Everything it eats must be picked up first by the trunk, which has an ingenious "thumb" at its extreme end.

With their trunks big elephants pull down branches of trees that they may browse on the leaves. The trunk is not used in battle except with insignificant creatures like man, easily overcome with a swinging blow from the leathery trunk. Serious injury to that trunk would mean starvation. The animal cannot eat without it.

Men go out on the elephant's back to hunt tigers, and on these expeditions the elephant is careful to keep his trunk away from the tiger's teeth and claws. The trunk is held high in the air. The elephant's plan is to trample the beast, then gore it with its thick tusks.

Left to themselves the tiger would not molest the elephant, the elephant would not think of disturbing the tiger. Each would go its own way. The tiger to attack weak deer, zebra and other creatures; the elephant browsing peacefully.

You feel rather sorry for this baby elephant, saying, "What a monotonous life it leads—always the same kind of food, the same kind of life, no excitement of the jungle!"

True, but what about the average HUMAN BEING? He goes from his office to his flat and from his flat to his office always the same kind of life and food, same kind of thinking and talking, no "jungle adventure" for him, either.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You count it out carefully, hand it to her gingerly; sometimes in angry mood, you fling it down on the table.

They feel, and justly so, that they have as much right to the family income as you have.

You earn it, 'tis true, coming as it does from the place of your employment, but she earns her share of it in the work she does about the house.

If you were paying someone to do the work she carries on, you would have to pay a much larger sum than you allow your wife.

But even if the sum be greater than you would have to pay for hired services, this is not the basis from which you should consider the amount to which your wife is entitled.

You wanted her companionship—some one to grace your home and to conduct it in a way to make you proud of it. So meet your part of the contract. She does.

ISN'T IT SO?
